LeVander To Speak at C of C Candidate Meet

Third in a series of "Meet the Candidate" sessions will be held by the Chamber of Commerce Thursday at the Elks club rooms in Thief River Falls. Guest at the 7:30 a.m. breakfast session will be Harold LeVander, attorney who is the Republican endorsed candidate for governor of Minnesota.

Series tickets sold earlier will be honored at the session which had originally been scheduled as a luncheon meeting but was changed due to scheduling difficulties. Donald L. Olson, chairman of the sponsoring legislative committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has assured ticket holders that the breakfast meal will compare favorably with a noon luncheon.

Serving will start promptly at 7:30 a.m. and the speaking program will be opened at 8 a.m. LeVander will be allotted 30 minutes to present his campaign program, after which 15 minutes will be provided for written questions from those in the audience. The session is scheduled for adjournment at 8:45 a.m.

Appearing with LeVander will be William O'Brien, Republican candidate for secretary of state.

Persons who do not have series tickets but would like to attend the breakfast may secure individual tickets in advance for $1.50 each at the Chamber of Commerce office through Wednesday.

Next scheduled "Meet the Candidates" meeting will be held Tuesday, October 18, as a noon luncheon program. Speaker will be Robert Short, DFL candidate for lieutenant governor. Short is being included in the schedule since Gov. Karl Rolvaag, winner in the DFL gubernatorial primary, appeared in an earlier program. The other previous "Meet the Candidate" speaker was Keith Davison, DFL candidate for Sevent District Congressman.

Members of the local LeVander for Governor volunteer committee will host a coffee party following the breakfast session Thursday. Details on the coffee party can be obtained from Mrs. Robert Henry, local co-chairman of the committee.

Road 6 East of Oklee Graded

Men and machines have begun work on rebuilding county road 6—the so-called "town line"—running east of Oklee.

The job, awarded to Solsten Construction company of Fosston on a bid of $90,097.70, calls for grading and lifting of six miles of road beginning one-half mile north of Oklee and continuing eastward.

The contract was awarded at the August meeting of the Red Lake county board of commissioners. Intentions are that the road will be blacktopped when available funds permit.

With favorable weather, it is considered possible that the grading and lifting job may be completed this year. The road carries heavy traffic from the east and has been a transportation problem for years because it normally breaks up in the spring.

Teenage Gunmen Captured Near Warren Tuesday

Alerted by a call on police radio, Marshall county law enforcement officers apprehended two young prison escapees Tuesday evening on highway 75 about three miles north of Warren. The teenage boys who had been shooting through their back window at a pursuing highway patrol car, were arrested when their car went into a ditch after passing a roadblock.

The boys age 15 and 16, had been involved in a quarrel with a carload of Crookston youths earlier in the evening, according to reports. The boys shot a hole in the windshield of the squad car, and several law enforcement officers started the chase. One car was put out of commission about seven miles from Crookston, reportedly with four or five bullet holes in the radiator.

Marshall county officers involved in the arrest were Milan Sorenson deputy sheriff; John Sedlacek, Warren police patrolman; Ted Znajda, state game warden; Gary Lacy, state highway patrolman; and Ron LaChance, Stephen police chief.

The officers were kept aware of the position of the pursued car by radio beamed through the public address system on the highway patrol car. The youths had shot out the rear window of the stolen 1961 model car and had been firing at officers following them. They swerved through the roadblock amid a flurry of pistol and shotgun fire, directed at their car's tires.

Game Warden Znajda, located about a quarter mile down the highway where he had been stopping traffic, fired four quick shots from his revolver as the car went by. The vehicle swerved into the west ditch, coming easily to a stop. Officers surrounded the car and the youths surrendered, were searched and returned to Crookston.

A search of the car revealed 27 empty .22 caliber cartridge cases and three high caliber rifles for which they apparently had no ammunition.

Lions To Sponsor Essay Contest On World Peace

Youth of Thief River Falls have been given a challenge to develop a plan for world peace by their local Lions Club—a challenge that could earn one of them a $25,000 educational and-or career assistance grant.

The Thief River Falls Lions club, together with Lions Clubs throughout the world, is sponsoring a world-wide essay contest for the world's youth on the most important world subject today—Peace. The contest offers $50,000 in total awards, including the $25,000 first prize, eight semi-final world regional awards of $1,000 each and travel expenses for the eight winners to Chicago in July, 1967. At that time, the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight. Also, more than 20,000 local, district and multiple district awards will be made.

"We are hopeful one of our young people will win this world-wide prestige award," President Roger Tunberg of the local Lions Club said in announcing the contest locally today. A $50 cash prize and certificate of achievement will be presented to the local winner.

The contest is open to young people who will be 14 but less than 22 years of age as of Jan. 15, 1967.

"Our Club's winner will advance to Lions District 5M-3 competition in his (her) effort to qualify for the multiple district contest," Tunberg said.

Since July of 1963, over 10,000 Commodity Credit corporation (CCC) grain bins with a storage capacity of over 41,000,000 bushels have been sold in Minnesota, according to Harold M. Lang, chairman of the Minnesota ASC state committee. They were situated in 74 different counties throughout the state. Practically all were offered and sold by the auction method with a few being sold on a competitive bid basis, the chairman stated.

Records indicate that almost all the bins were purchased by farmers in the immediate area of the bin sites. In reality, the bins are merely being relocated. Lang commented, and this is an indication farmers are interested in working out an orderly market by storing the grain on their own farms.

Sale of the bins has reduced CCC storage space in Minnesota by about 40 per cent, and as a result, 17 counties and 125 bin sites have been eliminated from the CCC inventory records, the chairman indicated.

About half of the bins offered and sold to date were erected prior to 1951. They were considered excess to the present needs of CCC because of the reduction in feed grain stocks nationally.

"The acceptance of the feed grain program by the farmers, coupled with the increased on-the-farm storage and county warehouse space and past number of years, prompted CCC to sell the bins," Lang stated.

Minnesota ASC officials are prepared to offer and sell additional bins next spring. Anyone interested in providing future storage for their grain should look forward to the announcements or contact local county ASC offices for particulars about the forthcoming sales.

The cumulative total for the first eight months of 1966 shows that permits valued at $311,490 were issued compared with permits valued at $416,050 last year.

Outlook Meeting Thursday for Hog And Beef Farmers

Two extension specialists in economics and livestock will be principal speakers Thursday evening at a hog and beef outlook meeting for Pennington and Red Lake counties. The session will begin at 8 p.m. at the Thief River Livestock Auction market.

Richard Hawkins extension economist, and Robert Jacobs, animal husbandman, will analyze short-term and long-run trends in the beef and hog industries. They will then explain how these trends affect individual farmer's plans.

According to Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural agent, questions to be discussed will include: "Will the general agricultural situation continue to improve in 1967? Will commodity supplies increase faster than improvements in both foreign and domestic demand?"

Other questions include the following:

1. Cattle slaughter was heavy in 1966. How will this situation affect beef prices and cattle feeder's incomes in 1967?

2. Will the favorable hog prices and prifits encourage over-expansion and result in low hog feeding profits in 1967.

3. What are the profit prospects for different grades and classes of cattle in 1967? What income can hog farmers expect next year?

A display of cattle and demonstration on grades, prifit prospects and feeding programs will also be held. All Pennington county farm families are invited to attend and hog producers and cattle feeders are encouraged to take part in the discussion.

Robert E. Jacobs has been an extension animal husbandman at the University of Minnesota since July, 1955. He is an associate professor.

Chervestad Farm Hosts to Chicago Vacation Family

Thinking of a farm vacation next summer? Ah, my city cousin, that is sound thinking. Farm vacations are becoming increasingly popular as a form of family recreation. Our city cousin, who makes up 92 per cent of our population is tired of breathing exhaust-fulled air, walking crowded streets and listening to the noise of the big city is heading for the fresh air and the quiet countryside.

Capitalizing on a new source of income—farm vacationers and tourists—are Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Chervestad of Oklee. Owners and operators of the White Top Dairy farm, they have learned that running a farm vacation business means some fun, hard work and a special kind of management.

First they built a new home and landscaped their yard. The big white barn was built several years ago and modern equipment installed when a previous barn was destroyed by fire. Through advanced planning, map reading, registration and the Farm Vacation guide, the Chervestads welcomed their first guests this past summer. Mr. and Mrs. Stan Solak, daughter Ann, and two sons, Gregory and Mark, of Chicago spent two busy and fun-filled weeks on the farm.

Whether you are eight or 80, the guests will find farm life educational as well as a source of fun and relaxation. City dwellers take to farm life like cockle burrs to a careless Collie.

Guests take in many local attractions such as the Red Lake Jaycee wafer carnival. As a guest of the Chervestads you will take a trip to Lake of the Woods and visit Paul Bunyan and his blue ox at Bemidji. "City dwellers are amazed that they can strike up a conversation with anyone in a small town", Mrs. Chervestad says.

How would you like to be awakened at the crack of dawn with the crowing of the big Leghorn rooster," Chester," and the bright morning sun peeping through your bedroom window? The tantalizing aroma of bacon and eggs coming from the kitchen where Mr. Chervestad is preparing breakfast for her guests certainly would animate any sleepy-head.

"What amazes the city dweller is the huge investment in farming and the little return for many long hours of work, with weather being an important factor," Chervestad stated. Their guests felt that farming should be a family enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Chervestad said that "you must be patient, outgoing and friendly" and "don't put on the dog for your guests. They want to be treated as one of the family. Answer all questions-no matter what they may be. Even though it means letting that first crop of alfalfa hay go another day, or before cutting or cultivating the corn, you must take time out to visit with your guests."

For the Chervestads it was a wonderful experience. Their guests have become genuine friends. To those who like to be close to nature and enjoy the green fields, beautiful scenery, the smell of new mown hay and the early morning hikes, away from the hustle and bustle if city life, can all be your's at a very reasonable cost "down on the farm".

Carlson and Bjerke Vows Said At St. John Church

Miss Donna Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carlson of this city, and Donald Bjerke, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bjerke of rural Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows at St. John Lutheran church in this city. Officiating at the double ring ceremony were Rev. Paul Biegner and Rev. Dennis Rodin. Mrs. Sherman Idso, church organist, played the traditional wedding marches and Jerome Helstad of Roseau, cousin of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white organza over satin fashioned with a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace. Matching lace panels with a taffeta bow enhanced the skirt and chapel length train. An open crown of pearls held her shoulder length bouffant veil and she carried a dozen yellow roses accented with white carnations. Her personal attendants were Kay Aune and Diane Vigstol.

Kay Aune of Minneapolis, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow satin floor-length gown styled in back with a yellow brocade bow and floor-length streamers. She carried an arrangement of four long stemmed yellow roses.

Other attendants were Sharon Lappegaard of Grand Forks, N. D., Diane Vigstol of Plummer, a sister of the groom, and Margaret Hanway of this city. They wore yellow brocade floor-length gowns styled in back with yellow satin bows and long streamers. Each carried an arrangement of three long stemmed yellow roses. To complement their attire the attendants wore veil headpieces attached by a bow, white shoes and pearl necklaces.

Marlene Ann Carlson, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She was attired in a gown styled like the bridal gown and carried a miniature bridal bouquet. Kyle Adolphson of this city, a friend of the couple, carried the rings on a white satin pillow. He was attired in a dark suit with a white boutonniere.

Duane Bjerke of Coon Rapids attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Lyle Hanson and Charles Charlson, both of this city and Marvin Carlson, brother of the bride. They were attired in dark business suits with white boutonnieres.

Railroad Ass'n. Hosts Dinner at Crookston Thur.

"The newest and most dramatic changes in American transportation have occurred in the railroad industry," said Gordon Forbes, counsel for the Minnesota Railroads association, speaking before an area legislative dinner held Thursday at Minakwa Country club Crookston.

The tidal wave of technological change occurring in the railroad industry was noted at a Minnesota railroad industry dinner for candidates for the Minnesota legislature, public officials and representatives of business and industry of this area.

Forbes pointed out that the railroad industry has shown a dramatic surge in the development of new techniques, modernized plant and new equipment for greater service to the shipping and traveling public. He cited the fact that the Minnesota railroad industry is the largest employer in the transportation field in Minnesota and is the only transportation system that "pays its way".

Forbes declared that the dramatic changes in railroad service which have led to an expanding economy have occurred because of greater management efficiencies, capital investment, better equipment and techniques and an increasingly enlightened attitude on the part of government in removing some of the antiquated legislative and regulatory burdens on the railroads.

In discussing the legislative problems facing transportation in Minnesota, Forbes stated that the efforts of the over-the-road commercial trucking industry to bring 65-foot double bottom trailers into the highways of Minnesota is an attempt to capture freight traffic by legislative action.

The result, Forbes declared, would be a decrease in highway user taxes for Minnesota, a loss of employment in both rail and truck transportation and an increase in public subsidization of the truckers' use of Minnesota highways for profit, Forbes said that in this struggle the particular interest of the railroads coincides with the broad public interest.

Gov. Proclaims October as CoOp Month in Minn.

"Cooperative associations in our state have contributed substantially to agricultural progress and economic development in Minnesota. . ."

This statement is part of the governor's official proclamation of October as Co-op Month.

"Through cooperatives — their own business—farmers and other rural and urban people improve their way of life, according to Edward Slettom, executive secretary of the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives. They do this by:

Realizing a greater net income for the products they sell; and Obtaining a wide range of supplies and services economically and effectively;

Thus, co-ops help people improve their bargaining position and give them influence in the market place that they do not have as individuals, Slettom said.

But, cooperatives also help the entire local community:

By providing jobs for local people who spend most of their salaries right at home;

By purchasing within the community large amounts of goods and services—purchases that help other business; and

By releasing additional income through patronage refunds which is spent locally.

Therefore, in addition to helping the people they serve, a co-op generates income and general business prosperity in its local community. In this way, they are truly "links in progress" for the private enterprise system, he added.

Langen Supports All-Weather Road For NW Angle

Congressman Odin Langen has urged immediate action by the foreign affairs committee on a bill he has introduced to grant Congressional consent to the Minnesota-Manitoba plan to build an access road through Canada to the Northwest Angle on Lake of the Woods.

"My bill would permit the construction of a 32-mile, all weather road to the Northwest Angle," said Langen.

Congressman Langen's new bill is similar to the one he introduced in 1964. In addition to granting consent to the road construction agreement approved by the state of Minnesota and the province of Manitoba four and a half years ago, Langen's bill authorizes the secretary of commerce to pay Minnesota's share of the cost of the joint highway to the Angle.

Support for the proposed Northwest Angle road has come from Angle residents, Minnesota department of highways, Minnesota department of conservation, Mississippi River Parkway commission of Minnesota and other interested citizens. Moreover, the state department has no objection to such legislation from the standpoint of American relations with Canada.

"Since the expiration date of the Minnesota - Manitoba agreement is February of next year," Langen concluded, "it is imperative that this legislation be enacted as soon as possible. This road will provide a much-needed overland link between Minnesota's 'mainland' and the Northwest Angle."

Mrs. Ronald V. McGuire of St. Paul, state volunteer advisor for the National Foundation-March of Dimes, said the seminar will serve not only to inform and educate the state's young adult leaders about birth defects and what the March of Dimes is doing about the problem "but also through these leaders to reach this entire generation on the threshold of adult life."

Following the speaking program, the participants will divide into four workshop groups, covering health careers, school editors, clubs and organizations, and teen age volunteer projects.

Memorials Given To Heart Fund In Pennington

Heart Fund memorials in the name of the late Mrs. Earl Jensen of Thief River Falls were recently received by the Minnesota Heart association, according to David Drotts, Thief River Falls, Pennington county memorial chairman.

Because the full amount of these gifts will be used for heart research, Drotts said, they are likely to lead to further advances in the conquest of heart disease.

The great need for heart research funds, Drotts points out, is indicated by the fact that during the past year, more Americans died from heart disease (approximately 1,000,000) than the total number killed in all the wars in our country's history (602,339). In Pennington county, for example, there were 146 deaths last year, and of this number, 82 were from heart disease.

PRESENTED to the homecoming crowd between halves of the Lincoln high school football game with Detroit Lakes Friday night was queen Karen Ferber. She is escorted by Allan Shirley, left, and Marvin Carlson. Escorts for the attendants for Queen Karen were David Kildahl, Jerry Ulferts, Billy Olson, Tim Kelly, Les Nordhagen and Richard Ryan. Attendants are pictured and listed elsewhere in today's Times.

SPECIAL MEETING
September 29, 1966

A special meeting of the School District Board No. 564 was held at 7:30 o'clock P.M. on Thursday, September 29, 1966 in the office of Superintendent of Schools of the Lincoln School Building.

The following members were present: Dr. George Martin, Harry Oen, Rufus Olson, Morris Owen, and Douglas Stewart. Absent were Dr. H. R. Achenbach and Robert Bredeson.

Chairman Rufus Olson presided.

The meeting was held for the purpose of considering a resolution to amend Resolution determining the necessity of issuing school building bonds and calling election thereon.

Member D. Stewart introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

RESOLUTION AMENDING RESOLUTION DETERMINING THE NECESSITY OF ISSUING SCHOOL BUILDING BONDS AND CALLING ELECTION THEREON.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE School Board of Independent School District No. 564, Minnesota, that the resolution adopted by this Board on September 12, 1966 entitled "RESOLUTION DETERMINING THE NECESSITY OF ISSUING SCHOOL BUILDING BONDS AND CALLING ELECTION THEREON", is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. This Board has investigated the facts necessary to ascertain and does hereby find, determine and declare that it is necessary and expedient for said District to construct, furnish and equip an area vocational - technical school; and to borrow money in an amount not exceeding $430,000 by issuing its negotiable coupon general obligation bonds in said amount to provide funds to be used together with the proceeds of a grant from the State of Minnesota to finance the construction of said area vocational - technical school.

2. The voters of the District, at an election held on March 5, 1963, authorized the School Board to issue bonds in the amount not exceeding $300,000 for the acquisition and betterment of an elementary school and for the betterment of existing school buildings which have been sold and delivered to the purchaser thereof. Of this amount $200,000 was used for the acquisition and betterment of an elementary school. It is hereby found and determined that it would not be in the best interests of the District to expend the balance of the funds so authorized for the betterment of existing school buildings; and that the funds could best be used to pay a portion of the cost of constructing, furnishing and equipping an area vocational - technical school for the District.

3. This Board has also ascertained it to be necessary and expedient for the District to borrow money in an amount not exceeding $200,000 by issuing its negotiable coupon general obligation bonds in said amount for the purpose of constructing, furnishing and equipping a swimming pool addition to the Franklin Junior High School in Thief River Falls.

4. The questions of authorizing the issuance of $330,000 principal amount of new money bonds, and of authorizing the School Board to expend $100,000 of proceeds of said bonds authorized on March 5, 1963 for an area vocational - technical school, shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the District at a special election which is hereby called and shall be held on Tuesday, the 18th day of October, 1966, between the hours of 3:00 o'clock P.M. and 9:00 o'clock P.M., Central Daylight Saving Time, at the regular polling place for school district elections, to-wit: the Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

5. Prowlers Edge Lakers In Homecoming Game

The Prowlers capped their Homecoming celebration by scoring a thrilling 14-12 win over the Lakers of Detroit Lakes here Friday night. The Prowlers were forced to hold off the ever-trying Lakers, and it was with 10 seconds of play remaining that the locals held for downs and gained possession of the ball on their own three-yard line.

The Prowlers will resume Northwest conference activity this week when they journey to Roseau for a 7:30 p.m. game against coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau Rams. The Rams on Friday scored a convincing 33 to 20 win over Crookston Cathedral.

In Friday night's hectic tilt here the Prowlers of coach Jim Sims tallied early in the first period when after taking the ball on a short punt to Karl Poppenhagen, the locals moved to the Lakers' 18-yard line. Bob Brodin then flipped a pass off the the left to halfback John Womack, and the junior scampered over the north goal for the touchdown. The same combination, a Brodin to Womack pass, added the conversion point and the locals' held a 7-0 lead.

The Lakers came back to record a touchdown early in the second period when, after picking up three first downs, Nick Mott tossed a pass to Dave Schiller for four yards and a TD. A fumble marred the try for the conversion point.

On the next play occurred the most spectacular run of the game. Gary Almquist received Rick Woods' kickoff on the Prowler 17-yard line, and raced down the east-side-line for a touchdown. Detroit Lakes' John Peterson made a living attempt to trip up the flying Almquist on the Lakers' 10-yard line, but he crossed the south goal for the touchdown. And a Brodin to Tommy Tunberg pass added the point to give the locals a 14-6 lead at the intermission.

But the Lakers weren't beaten. With their hard-running halfback, Mike Gunderson, who was successful in sweeping outside, Detroit Lakes, late in the fourth period moved to the Prowlers' 10-yard line.

A big gainer in this sequence of plays was a Mott to Jeff Ohman pass, which gave the visitors a first down on the Prowler 16-yard line. Gunderson, from the ten, went around end for a touchdown. The conversion point try, a placement kick, was blocked, and 2:16 of the game remained to be played.

The Lakers tried an on-side kick-off, and the maneuver worked as a Prowler fumbled the ball and Detroit Lakes recovered on mid-field. With the seconds ticking away the Lakers made a desperate bid to score the winning touchdown. The Lakers drove to the Prowlers' 12-yard line but Paul Ihle broke through to nail quarterback Mott for a loss back to the 22-yard line. On third down Mott found Dennis McKenzie with pass that was completed on the three-yard line. The Prowlers' defense, playing like yeoman, held the Lakers on a fourth and one and took over possession with 10 seconds to play. The game time expired as the Prowlers were in a huddle and the locals had their first win of the season.

Many Fires in Nation Kill and Injure Thousands

"Fire losses in Minnesota and the United States continue to increase in spite of better fire prevention practices," according to Claude C. Stubbe of the Minnesota Safety council, fire prevention committee. "Over 12,000 persons lose their lives in fires each year and more than 100,000 suffer burns, many thousands of whom become crippled for life.

"These deaths and injuries occur in over 800,000 American homes each year in spite of the effective rescue work and use of modern day equipment of the fire departments," Stubbe said. "Many of the deaths from home fires occurred while the victims were asleep. They did not wake up in time to escape from the burning building.

"All fires produce carbon monoxide, a very deadly poison," he said. "Many of the people who died in home fires were not burned at all. Probably they would have escaped the flames if they had not been overcome by poisonous carbon monoxide. Children are often the victims of fire because they are too young to save themselves, or hide under beds or in closets because of fear generated by the smoke and flames.

"In Minnesota one of the worst home fire disasters on record occurred when nine children died in a fire. Most of the children in the home were too young to understand the danger. The parents were away on a short errand; the fire was fast and deadly.

"Property losses from fire in the United States are rapidly approaching the $2 billion mark annually. Most of the destructive fire losses could be prevented or losses held to a minimum, if fire departments were called promptly.

"The causes of the tremendous losses by fire in the nation are well known. In almost every instance of a building fire, whether home or business, someone has been careless. We in the United States have the highest property fire loss per capita in the world. This loss can be reduced by the use of sound fire prevention activities," Stubbe concluded.

Lake Bronson Man Hurt in Mishap

He was using the tractor to pack silage in a pit silo and in doing so the tractor tipped over, pinning the young man beneath it. He was hospitalized at Hallock with a fractured pelvis.

LaValley Paces Prowlers to Win In Cross-country

Paced by the record breaking performance of Gary LaValley, who ran the course in 8:45, coach Roger Solheim's Prowler Cross-country squad won the invitational meet held at Fargo's Oak Grove academy on Saturday. The Prowlers will travel to Grand Forks on Tuesday for a meet against Grand Forks St. James.

In the seven-team invitational at Fargo on Saturday, the Prowlers had a total of 47 points. And these 47 points were accumulated by a first place by LaValley, a fifth place by Russ Delorme, a seventh place by Larry Johnson, a 12th place by Chuck Bedard and a 22nd place by Kim Brandt.

Purpose of the day-long seminar was to give sportsmen and conservationists from around the state an opportunity to discuss their views on resource programs relating to hunting and fishing in the state. Rep. Fitzsimons and other legislators on hand provided the audience for the discussions to help them prepare legislative and appropriation recommendations for the next session of the legislature.

Nearly 100 interested persons from throughout Minnesota took part in a recent conference at the University of Minnesota concerning mature women who wish to return to college or work.

Among those attending was Victor Charles of Thief River Falls, who is dean of Thief River Falls state junior college.

The conference, titled "Operation: Second Chance," was held at Coffman memorial union on October 3 and 4 sponsored by the Minnesota planning and counseling center for women. Its main purpose was to inform the participants of how the MPCCW helps women who wish to return to the campus or to a career, and of how any other campus in the state might set up a similar center without a great outlay of money or personnel.

Delegates were invited from all of Minnesota's public and private colleges and from the state's 24 area vocational - technical schools, and most of these institutions sent one or more representatives.

Safety Council Asks Care in Gun Handling

Minnesota hunters—you are playing a deadly game, reminds the Minnesota safety council. For the next few weeks you will be in the fields and woods and on the waters of our state in great numbers.

You will be handling weapons as effective as any devised for killing which, of course, is your objective. Only yours is used in one of the oldest and finest of sports—bringing down some wild game—and good eating—for your table.

But, unless you use extreme care there will once again be saddening statistics among you. Many of you taking part in this sport will be gone from this life. Many more of you will be injured and crippled. Some of you, though you come through the ordeal, never again will be able to hunt.

The Minnesota Safety council points out that if last year's casualty count is repeated this year, there will be 203 hunting accidents this fall, in which 26 victims will be carried home for the last time with a bullet, maybe yours, in a vital spot.

A little care, which will not interfere with good hunting, says the safety council, can prevent this, if every sportsman will remember that he is not alone in his quest, that thousands of others, one of whom may be in his line of fire, share this sport with him. It is much better to come back empty-handed than conscience-stricken.

Wear clothing to distinguish you from the game you—and someone else—may be stalking; keep your companions advised of your whereabouts; keep the safety devises on your gun locked until you know you're firing at game and not a neighbor or your son; remember at all times that your gun is a killer, be it friend or foe, and that a hunter should be stone sober.

Last year, 13 Minnesotans who had looked forward to this annual event went out to get a deer, but got a ride home in a hearse instead. Three were killed while hunting ducks. Three others went on their last journey while cleaning their guns—didn't remember they were still loaded.

The state of Minnesota, through great effort by its conservation department, supported by sportsmen and taxpayers, tries to make hunting a safe and worthwhile recreation. It has a firearms safety program that trained 19,000 Minnesota boys and girls how to go about hunting safely last year. These were in the 12 to 16 year age group. They too, hunted. But only eight of the 203 hunting accidents recorded occurred among these youngsters—and the blame for most of these eight accidents was not theirs. Somebody else erred. Fortunately, there were no deaths among them.

This training program is a good thing to expand—an idea for the Legislature.

Use of Leisure Time Is Subject Of Conference

Many facets of leisure and its use will be discussed by a cross section of government, business, church and recreation leaders at a three-day leisure use conference October 18-20.

Sponsored jointly by Minnesota church leaders and the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service, the conference will be held at Sugar Hills lodge near Grand Rapids.

Included on the program will be discussions of the relationship of leisure to the individual, the family, neighborhood, government programs, delinquency, education, poverty - discrimination, mass media, the arts, the church and other special groups.

According to co-chairmen Osgood Magnuson, assistant 4-H club leader at the university and Rev. George Tjaden of the Minnesota Council of Churches, the conference has five main objectives:

•To clarify areas to consensus and conflict in leisure trends through a study of theological and philosophical perspectives, and to determine the implications for planning and programming by various agencies;

•To enlarge the understanding of human and physical resources available for leisure use, and to evaluate trends and forecasts regardeing their development;

•To broaden the understanding of the changing and potential role of leisure and its functional possibilities as they affect the total life of contemporary man;

•To widen the base of understanding and cooperation among persons responsible for planning and implementing leisure programs with acceptable goals and values; and

•To identify areas for further study and development.

Registration will begin at 2 p.m. October 18, followed by a tour of Sugar Hills lodge.

The Association of Evangelicals, the Catholic churches of Minnesota, the Lutheran churches in Minnesota and the Minnesota Council of churches have joined with the university in sponsoring the event.

Two Burglaries Noted Last Week In Karlstad

Two places of business were burglarized at Karlstad in the early hours of last Saturday morning. One place was the Phillips 66 Oil Station, where about $15 in cash was taken. The Germandson Oil company, that operates the Standard Oil station, was also entered and the intruders got about $3 in cash two tires and a carton of cigarettes. The thieves attempted to pry open a fireproof file but were not able to get it open.

Entrance of the two places entered was through a window and at one place the glass in a door was broken, which allowed the intruders to unlock the door and enter the inside of the building. The damage done to the two places by the thieves was possibly greater than the amount of cash and merchandise taken.

The sheriff's office was notified when employees went to work Saturday morning and noticed that the two places of business had been entered. An investigation of the break-ins is underway by Sheriff Ingebrigtsen of Kittson county.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Just Fair

While the hunting pressure, which reached beyond reason in last week's goose hunting opener, eased considerably this past weekend, when the duck hunters and upland game bird hunters had their innings, the success ratio was only fair.

There had been quite a concentration of ducks in the refuges near here, but it appears that many of these ducks have left the area. As for the ducks, this area is pretty much of a "scorched earth" territory with regard to feed. Some individuals have set aside certain fields for ducks and geese, and left these fields unplowed and with some gleanings remaining. And there has been some shooting in these posted lands.

One local sportsman, who has just returned from a trip to The Pas area in northern Manitoba, reported that never had he seen so many ducks as were concentrated in that area. And Ducks Unlimited is being given credit for much of this increase. But this individual, who has been an annual contributor to the Ducks unlimited fund told one of the officials that he will cease making contributions to the organization until Ducks Unlimited begins making provisions in the states for feeding and flight ducks. And he does have a point.

Over the years the 'powers that be' have expected the farmers and the farm lands adjacent to these refuges to provide feed for the waterfowl. And in wet and backward seasons this has been the case, and it has been a cause of much friction between refuge management and the area farmers. Good will has been at a premium.

And as for the upland game bird situation, that is a problem that calls for drastic action. There were some birds taken this past weekend, but these coveys had been pretty well scouted prior to the opening of the season. And it was mostly local hunters who managed to bag a brace or so of sharptails. The out-of-town hunters, and there were quite a number in town, were complaining about the lack of hunting space. And they remarked that there weren't the number of birds in the area as in former years. And that's perhaps true.

But while the game bird hunters, the out-of-town variety, were griping about the lack of 'bonanza' hunting, the local fishermen have been stocking their deep freezers with walleyes. The pool below the dam has been a fine producer. And Werner Jacobson, fishing the waters around the Eight Street bridge, made a couple of fine catches. Werner even had Orvis Olen, the sag of Morson, Ontario, ohhing and ahhing about the fish.

Reckless

One of the city's all-round sportsmen (and I use the term advisedly as he will shoot partridge 'on the sit') is feeling pretty good about the outcome of the World's Series. Not so much that the Baltimore Orioles won, but that he was able to inveigle several fns into wagers.

This fellow wagered that the winning team would score more runs in one inning than the losing team would score during the entire game. And, of course, he won in the four games that were played. And he would have won in all seven games in last season's Series.

There is a danger that this 'sportsman' will die from laughing as he trudges to the bank with his winninges.

Income Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—How will farmers get their gas tax refund this year? I understand they are no longer required to file a separate claim for the tax.

A—For years beginning after July 1, 1965, farmers will take the tax as a credit against their income tax on their annual income tax return. If the claim for federal gas tax exceeds the income tax otherwise owing, the balance will be refunded to the farmer. The amount to be claimed is four cents on each gallon of gasoline used on the farm for farming purposes. For 1966, the credit will cover the period July 1, 1965, through Dec. 31, 1966. The credit is to be shown on Form 1040 in the same manner as income tax withheld from wages.

Q—Is there any other credit which farmers can claim in 1966?

A—The excise tax reduction act of 1965 provides for a refund of the six cent a gallon federal tax on lubricating oil used other than in a highway motor vehicle. Farmers would be entitled to a credit for the tax on certain lubricating oil in addition to the credit for the gas tax. For 1966, the credit would be limited to oil purchased and used during the period Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1966.

Q—I've been supporting my mother for years but an IRS agent says I can't claim her as a dependent unless I can substantiate my claim. What right does he have to say that?

A—The law requires that each of five separate tests be met in order for you to claim the $600 exemption for your mother. One, that of relationship, is met already, of course. The others are that you provided over one-half of her support, that her income was not over $600, that she be an American citizen and that she does not file a joint return with her spouse for the year that you are claiming her as a dependent. Not only must the tests be met, but according to the law, records to substantiate claims must be made available to our representative upon request. The fact that the exemption was not questioned in one year has no effect on another year.

Q—My wife and I were just divorced. Is there any way I can take an extra exemption for withholding purposes to make up for the alimony I'm paying? Otherwise, I'm going to be greatly overwithheld.

A—At present there is no provision for you to take an extra exemption for this purpose. However, starting next year, taxpayers who have deductible expenses that substantially exceed the standard deduction may file a new Form W-4 for an additional withholding allowance. Based on your witholding provision of the law when it goes into effect. You may determine if you qualify for this additional withholding allowance by filling out Schedule A (Form W-4).

Q—I just returned from military duty in Viet Nam. What do I do about a tax return? I haven't filed yet.

A—You have an automatic extension of 180 days from the time you left Viet Nam before your return has to be filed. For servicemen who are hospitalized outside the U. S. as a result of wounds, disease or injury incurred while serving in a combat zone, the 180-day extension begins after discharge from the hospital. When filing your return be sure to attach a statement showing the inclusive dates of combat zone service or hospitalization.

2 Staff Members Added to Mental Health Center

Northwestern Mental Health center at Crookston recently added two social workers to the staff. Robert "Bob" Bartlett began work September 1. A recent graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, he attended the Universityo f North Dakota from 1960-64.

Ray D. Morgan joined the staff September 9. Morgan graduated in 1964 from Florida State university, and for the past two years has served as a social work officer in the United States Army.

Both have been traveling to communities in this eight-county area with Dr. Robert Williams and Roy Waters, also staff members at the mental health center to become acquainted and consult with caretaking agents in local treatment and prevention of mental illness.

VA Has Largest State Employment Of Handicapped

Veterans administration in the Twin Cities employs one of the highest percentages of handicapped people of federal government agencies in Minnesota.

The figures were reported today in connection with National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week being observed October 2-8.

The VA's three field stations—the VA center and data processing center in St. Paul and the VA hospital in Minneapolis—employ 204 people classified as handicapped out of a total work force of 2,672, or eight per cent.

Included in the total are three mentally retarded persons. Two are employed at the hospital and one at the processing center. The VA said the quality of work of its handicapped employees in high.

At the VA and data processing centers, seven per cent of the superior performance awards went to handicapped employees in fiscal year 1966. The handicapped also shared in eight per cent of the quality increases and 12 per cent of suggestions awards. In addition, the VA said, at least one handicapped employee received an outstanding performance rating.

Department Cites Dangers of Cycle And Scooter Use

Minnesota highway safety director, C. M. O'Toole, has called on parents of young people using motorcycles and motor scooters on the streets and highways to take special measures to see that their children are equipped with safety devices and are well instructed as to the danger of this mode of travel.

"There has been an alarming and continuing increase in accidents involving two-wheeled motor vehicles for the past sevral years," he said. "In a recent week such accidents took the lives of four young people riding motor scooters and motorcycles. Since the first of the year there have 24 such fatal accidents in Minnesota.

"Since 1962 the number of motorcycles and scooters in Minnesota has almost tripled, so that there are now 22,000 cycles and 17,600 scooters. During the same period the accident rate for cycles quadrupled, from 238 in 1962 to 850 in 1965. Scotter accidents also quadrupled from 113 to 450.

"Because of the exposure of the rider, such accidents tend to be more serious than the average motor vehicle accident. Last year, in the 1,400 such accidents, one rider in 50 was killed and all but a handful was injured. By contrast about one motor car accident in 170 was fatal and about one in three resulted in personal injury. This should serve as a warning to young riders and to their parents that this is a hazardous kind of travel, demanding the utmost care and skill," he concluded.

Specialist Gives Suggestions on Old Furniture

Old table or chest of those old chairs in the attic might prove to be real treasurers if some time and effort is spent in refinishing them.

Often layers of paint on old furniture hide wood that is truly beautiful when it is refinished, says Mrs. Myra Zabel, extension specialist in home furnishings at the University of Minnesota.

"Don't start the job of refinishing unless you have patience and are willing to do some hard work," she cautions. "And unless the piece of furniture is well designed and the wood is in good condition, it may no be worth the effort to refinish it.

"Furthermore, you will need a well-lighted, well-ventilated and spacious work area where you can leave your project set up even when you are not working on it. A basement or a heated garage usually makes a good work area."

Although refinishing furniture is hard work, new developments in wood finishes have made the job easier and more enjoyable than it used to be, Mrs. Zabel adds.

In a new University agricultural extension service publicaton," Finishing and Refinishing Wood Furniture," Mrs. Zabel gives step by step directions for preparing wood for finishing, removing old finishes, smoothing the surface, staining the wood and applying the final finish. The publication also lists the various kinds of finish.

Among the keys to getting good results in refinishing furniture, the university furnishing specialist lists the following:

Schedule work to allow ample time for sanding, finish application, rubbing and drying.

Work in dry weather to avoid a sticky finish.

Rub down wood between coats to obtain a satin-smooth finish.

Copies of "Finishing and Refinishing Wood Furniture," extension bulletin 332, are available from Bulletin Room Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn., 55101, or from county extension offices.

Social Security Benefits Cut If Income To High

Any social security beneficiary under 72 getting social security benefits should stop his benefits if he has earned or expects to earn over $1,500 this year, according to Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security.

A beneficiary may earn $1,500 in a year and lose no benefits. If he earns $1,500 or less, it does not matter how much he earns or works in a month.

When he earns over $1,500, he loses one dollar in benefits for every two dollars that he earns between $1,500 and $2,700. On earnings over $2,700 he loses a dollar in benefits for every dollar that he earns.

A wage earner is eligible for a benefit in any monh that he earns $125 of less. A self-employed prson may receive his benefit in any month that he does not render a substantial service.

A benficiary not receiving payments now may notify the Social Security administration to start them again if he is a wage earner earning $125 or less a month or a self-employed person doing litle or no work.

Revenue Service Receives Many Payment Checks

Almost 10,000 unidentified checks totaling $1½ million in payment of federal taxes were received during the first six months of 1966 in the St. Paul revenue service office, according to George O. Lethert, district director.

"Many of these remittances are mailed without a document or any identifying number to permit credit to the proper account, Lethert said. "Most of these payments are accompanied by a note indicating the amount is to cover their taxes, but taxpayers fail to specify which of the more than 100 classes of federal taxes are involved. Without information indicating the name of the taxpayer billed, the type of tax owing, and the period covered, there is a problem in applying the payments properly."

The revenue service urges all taxpayers to include some billing or statement to insure correct credit. "If the billing form was lost or misplaced, a call to our office will result in a duplicate being furnished," Lethert indicated.

Illegal To Post Political Signs On Right of Way

Minnesota highway department is advising all political candidates to refrain from posting advertising on the right of way of state highways. This position is taken in conformance with the state law which classifies it as a misdemeanor to "place or maintain any advertisement within the limits of any highway."

The maintenance section of the department has advised its supervisory personnel that all such signs must be removed, on a daily basis if necessary, and that the application of the law is uniform statewide.

The highway department is hopeful that all political candidates will cooperate in order to spare the use of road user funds for sign-removals.

AAA Will Survey Minnesotans on Highway Safety

What's the answer to fewer traffic accidents? Not fewer traffic deaths or injuries. . .but fewer accidents.

The Minnesota AAA will try to find out in a survey of a select group of 1,500 Minnesotans who have either a specific interest in or a close association with traffic safety.

The survey asks those being polled to rate 10 items as to their importance or bearing in reducing traffic accidents.

Against the answers from the "experts", AAA will compare the answers from its own members which it will poll at the rate of 10,000 per month during the next three months.

Object of the study, according to Erling Berg, Duluth, president of the statewide motoring organization, is to find out which things people really hold important as traffic accident preventatives. Final results of the study will be presented to the Minnesota Legislature at its 1967 session.

The 10 items to be rated from one to 10 are as follows:

—Stiffer fines and penalties for all traffic violations.

—More traffic law enforcement officers.

—Safer cars.

—An eye test and written test on traffic laws each time a person renews his driver's license.

—Tougher enforcement on speeders, including increased use of radar and other speed checking devices.

—A mandatory 10-day jail sentence for driving while intoxicated.

—Increase the penalty for driving while license is suspended or revoked to a mandatory jail sentence (10-30 days) and-or a fine up to $500.

—A behind-the-wheel driver's test for all drivers who have never taken one.

Those being polled are asked to draw a line through any item listed above which they feel would have no appreciable effect in reducing accidents.

Are These Sportsmen?

Somehow we must have missed most of the action during the opening of the goose hunting season last weekend. Like several thousand other people we gave it a try, but didn't really take it too seriously. In fact, we enjoy hunting for the sake of hunting and being outdoors with companions; and if we get a couple of birds that is only added pleasure of the hunt.

From some of the stories we have heard, however, we wonder what weird breed of characters the call of the wild has lured into the garb of sportsmen. When a person hears of birds being stolen, foot races to pick up fallen game, dogs being shot when retrieving crippled or dead birds, fist fights between hunters over disputed kills, shooting before and after hours and at protected game (ducks, in this case), and taking more than a legal limit, we are almost ashamed of being considered a hunter.

Sportsmen don't do things like this; greedy, selfish and undisciplined human beings without scruples do.

If a person who takes to the field can not appreciate the graceful, rhythmic wings and noisy clamor of a flock of geese, thrill to the rapid wing beats of a wave of mallards and accept the success of his fellow hunters without a display of barbarism, that person should do his meat hunting at the local supermarket.

We heard of a party of three hunters, including a young boy, having more than a legal limit of geese. What sort of example are these men setting for the boy who will be the man—the sportsman, if you will—of tomorrow?

Part of the blame can be placed on federal authorities who set the season opening so that hunters end a year of eager dormancy in concentrating their efforts on seeking one of the most elusive and difficult to obtain waterfowl species. But the real fault lies with individuals who have so much self-interest and so little self-control that they are a disgrace to the sport of hunting.

Let's Look at LeVander

When Minnesotans enter the polling booths on November 8 to vote for a candidate for governor, they will be confronted with a situation not too easy to decide.

Shall they vote for Gov. Karl Rolvaag who has experience in state government but a lack-lustre record with a few tarnished spots? Or shall they vote for Harold LeVander, an attorney with no real government experience who began his political aspirations with a run for the top post in the state? The question: Is no experience better than a poor record?

We are looking forward to the Chamber of Commerce "Meet the Candidate" session Thursday morning, October 13, when we can hear LeVander in person and ask a couple of questions. At present, however, we are less than enthusiastic about him as possibly the next governor of Minnesota.

Deep down inside, perhaps we have a natural aversion to anyone who doesn't want to start anything unless he can start at the top. It does not seem right that men who have worked conscientiously in government and in politics for years, and who would be eminently more qualified for the position, are pushed aside by an unknown who suddenly steps forward and announces, in effect, "I am going to be your new leader".

LeVander does have one point in his favor as a first-time candidate—he has no record to criticize and no political skeletons in his closet. He has offered some interesting ideas which he says he will support if elected, but by the same token he has promised a few too many things to too many people and has recieved some poor advice on several thoughts which he has made into campaign issues.

For example, his eight-point action program to secure a greater share of the national tourist market on a year-around basis for Minnesota states that he would ". . . recommend development of natural spawning and nesting areas in a continuing game and fish propagation program; and reappraisal of current state conservation department policies regarding fish and game propagation."

He also says he will recommend ". . . a selective bounty law to assume control of such predators as fox, wolves and bears."

While it is nice to know that LeVander has an interest in conservation—or at least professes such an interest—it seems that his thinking is either vague or misguided. Governor Rolvaag vetoed a bounty bill at the last session of the legislature, and he was right in doing so. Persons complaining about depredation now blame the lack of bounties since there is "no incentive" to hunt or trap predators.

Yet fox pelts brought very high prices last year—certainly higher than pelt price and bounty together in previous years. Fox numbers have not decreased with bounty payments over the years; bounties on fox have been a flagrant waste of money. If LeVander's comments on conservation in several fields parallel his lack of reason on bounties, we question both his knowledge and his wisdom.

About a week ago he sent a telegram to the AFL-CIO convention in Rochester (since he naturally was not invited to speak, we presume) and stated: "I pledge to your convention, and to the rank and file, that I will support labor, and good legislation for that cause. I will press for substantial improvement in the workmen's compensation law. I pledge my opposition to anti-labor legislation."

Maybe this doesn't say much, and maybe it does. It doesn't say that he will be wed to labor like Gov. Rolvaag, but it doesn't indicate any aversion to such a possibility.

The "honest, decisive new leadership" LeVander offers is being offered in the same old promise them anything approach. Conservatism is being sacrificed by the Republican party which seems to be saying: "We now will give you what the other party has promised, so why not give us a chance to do it our own way?" Q

Why not come to the Elks club at 7:30 a. m. Thursday to hear what honest Harold has to say about his decisive new leadership?

Deceit and Confusion

The following editorial appeared recently in the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Indecision, deceit and confusion obviously continue to reign where American's foreign policy in general, and the Vietnam situation in particular, is concerned today.

According to news reports carried by the wire services recently the president of the United States is restating his desires for peace in spite of recent rebuffs from the Communist world. At the same time, Democratic Sen. J. W. Fulbright is expressing fear of an all-out war with China as a result of the present Democratic administration's position and Misunderstanding in Peking.

And while Fulbright and Pres. Johnson express diametrically opposite attitudes regarding the future of this country, the president's former speech-writer starts making headlines by charging Johnson with outright deceit.

Any observer of American affairs would have to be rather native to conclude that he is being given a true appraisal of his country's present predicament by either Fulbright or the Johnson administration. It has been said many times that the American public is being misled, and the truth of these charges become more apparent as each day passes. Veteran newsmen on the Washington scene have been greatly concerned about this for years, but are powerless to do anything about it.

"Full disclosure" has been the traditional position of our republic for nearly 200 years in all cases excepting those demanding the fullest of military secrecy. This is not longer the case. We not only are not being told fully and truthfully of what our position is in the international arena, we are slowly being led to the conclusion that nobody really knows.

Unseed Third Party

John Pfund of the Norman County Index at Ada included the following in his column recently:

The American Legion Magazine recently carried a most interesting article. In fact it is so significant that we reprint it here in its entirety. . . Anyone who thinks that we have a basic two-party political system in the United States assumes that either the Republicans or the Democrats get the majority of the votes of those of our people who are old enough to vote. They overlook a third party, which, even in Lyndon Johnson's landslide over Barry Goldwater last time out, had more votes than the Johnson balloters.

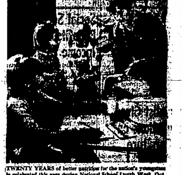
Total population	192,119,000
Under 21	78,244,800
Old enough to vote	113,874,200
Total vote	70,803,305
Old enough to vote but didn't vote	43,570,895
Voted for Johnson	43,126,506
Excess of non-voters over Johnson voters	444,389

There you have our third major party, The Non-Vote Party. Its impressive record was that it outnumbered the voters for the winner in one of the biggest Presidential landslides in our history—by almost a half million! This powerful political group is nothing new. When John F. Kennedy defeated Richard M. Nixon in 1960 by only 118,550 (less than one vote per precinct throughout the county), nearly 4½ million more voting-age citizens failed to cast ballots than voted for either Kennedy or Nixon. The Non-Vote Party is international, like the Communists. The U. S. wing is proportionaltey greater than the Non-Vote parties in any free European nation. Taking our last eight Presidential elections, it mustered 41.3 per cent of our eligible voting strength. The Non-Voters of Europe command no more than 30 per cent in any nation. In 30 nations of the world the Non-Voters can't pull more than 20 per cent. There are some countries with more Non-Voters, percentagewise, than our own huge noninfluential group. They include 19 new African nations and several South American and Asian lands, nearly all of them classed among the "underdeveloped" nations. Here, then, is one category where we are in a class with the "underdeveloped" nations. Maybe someone ought to take it up with the UN, and put in for some political foreign aid for the United States. Our Non-Vote Party is somewhat weaker in Presidential elections than in Congressional, State and Local contests, when many of its members decide to line up with one side or another of those parties that have candidates. The Non-Vote Party is remarkable for having endured since the days of the old Federalists and Whigs without ever holding a convention or putting up a candidate of its own for any office. Some of the Non-Voters have solid reasons for their affiliation—extreme disability, ignorance, intimidation. But the hard core of the Party is held together by a rugged spirit of apathy, for which the Party has always been famous.

Borrowed Nonsense . .

"My boy," said the successful man to his son, "when I was your age, I was carrying water for a gang of bricklayers."

"Gee, Dad, I'm proud of your pluck and perserverance," answered the lad. "Why, if it hadn't been for you, I might have had to do something of the sort myself."



TWENTY YEARS of better nutrition for the nation's youngsters is celebrated this year during National School Lunch Week, Oct. 9-16. In Minnesota, approximately 404,000 lunches are served on an average day in 13,067 schools. Among the foods consumed in the past year were 132,519,090 half-pints of milk and 1,716,000 pounds of butter. Which explains why Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Linda Kottke of Glencoe, was on hand at an Osseo, Minn., school where youngsters were preparing posters to mark the school lunch program's 20th anniversary. She's shown with, from left, Carole Ebert of Brooklyn Junior High, and Kathy Sand and Cynthia Leone of Fair Oaks Elementary.

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

Among new acquisitions in the reference department in the library is the "Standard Handbook for Secretaries" by Lois Hutchinson. Office procedure have you stumped, Mr. Employer? Miss Secretary? Minutes of meetings, English usage, pronunciation, capitalization, whatever you particular nemesis, this 7th edition, 1966-oriented handbook should provide the answers to what vexes you. This is one book we'll wager you'll use often and it will be usage-worn in very short order. It is yours to use, to value, to appreciate and ready for you now. Give it a try!

"The Sea of Cortez," a magnificent new story on the land of the famous Conquistadores, with fabulous color photography and descriptive text of the land with lured them to seek its treasures, this is the pictorial history of Mexico's primitive frontier as it exists today, and as it was yesterday. Fishing, adventure history and travel discoveries are all magnificently covered.

Tropical fish come in for a great deal of attention and are beautifully pictured, and the story of one of Mexico's main attractions, the deep-sea fishing which is so fantastic there, reads like Outdoor Life.

There's also a new atlas which can't be passed up without the adjective "marvelous". It marks a stand all its own, this school and library atlas of the world. There's an appendage covering a brief rundown of every country on earth, its people, the land, vegetation, industry and commerce. A section on the Polar regions, one on the A-bomb, on cities outside our hemisphere, principal rivers, mountains and climatic data for the U.S. by states and cities, the world's greatest reservoirs, airline distances between selected world cities, are all included.

Also to be found there is a listing of the departments of the armed services, their bases, post-offices and other information, and a section on the United Nations of the world, and the admission date of each member nation; population figures of the U.S. by states from the first census to 1960. Come on in and look it over. It's quite a volume!

For lovers of homey stories, there's a new book called "One Dozen and One Short Stories" by Gladys Taber. New delights from the pen of the loved author of the Stillmeadow series, rich with the emotions of ordinary people, the book includes stories with varied titles, from "Dear Bachelor"; "Letter to the Dean"; "Impetuous Wedding"; "Matchmakers", and others with equally interesting and varied titles. They have much of the pathos, humor, and nostalgia of other works by this author.

"The Fixer" by Bernard Malamud has none of the uncomplicated naturalness of the foregoing work. The character study is of an ordinary man whom fate decrees a member of the Jewish race, and for this "crime" he is made to endure incredible torture. Indicted, falsely, of the sadistic murder of a Christian boy, and accused of using the blood of the victim in making Passover cakes, the book's hero, through tremendous powers of resistance to pain and pressures, endures, and thus rises to heroic heights.

A story of injustice, shamefully attuned to our times, it burns with the fires of horror from the first page to the last, with an ending that couldn't have been anything other than what it is. Turning the intense white light of publicity fully on an outrage that is all too characteristic of our era, the story shows the depths to which groups of men can sink and the heights to which men, collectively or individually, can and do rise.

The challenge of a beautiful bird faced with extinction has caused much interest among naturalists and the general public alike and in "The Whooping Crane the Bird That Defies Extinction" ably written by Faith McNulty, the problem is expertly laid before us. Light progress has been noted in the forstalling of this calamity, but it is extremely little and the fate of the huge birds still hangs on a delicate balance of favorable circumstance.

The vastness of the problem is hardly known to the novice, but the men who track and protect these specimens through countless miles of flyways know all too well of its scope. Natural hazards combine with those created by man and his progress to stymie those dedicated to this project, but the quest for protection of the species continues even with the ragged remnants of the vast flocks all but depleted. Whether the determined efforts of these men and the instinct of the birds for survival will combine to keep them from joining the dodo and the passenger pigeon in oblivion, is part of the conjectural substance of this interesting book.

There is growing conjecture concerning the UFOs, flying saucers. Those holding fast to the theory of extra-terrestial life see them as visitors from other planets. Air force planes frequently run them down and check them out, only to see them vanish into thin air. Reports from those who are supposed to know are at best inconclusive. That the appearance of the UFOs cannot be laughed off as being figments of imagination seems to have been proven, . so many responsible people reporting sightings at the same time cannot be wrong!

Read "Incident at Exeter" by John G. Fuller (a book newly arrived at the library) for futher reports on these phenomena, and the one at Exeter, N.H., in particular, and possibly add to your confusion! Then read the current issue of "Aviation Week" magazine now on our magazine shelves, for the nearest approach yet, in our opinion, to solving this riddle of the skies. You'll find that both provide provocative reading.

We have ordered a whole new set of career books, about which we'll tell you in the near future as soon as they're ready for use. Watch for news of them, and also something about the new books for the kiddies.

Don't forget the library's new feature, the film showings on the Humanities, a program presentation free to the adults and college students. They will be shown here at the library the second Tuesday of each month, at 7:30 p.m. The next program will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) night, October 11. Try to be here; it's worth your while.

And don't neglect marking your calendar for November 6 the first Sunday of that month, for our open house and dedication ceremonies. Announcements as to the hours, and the program, will be found in subsequent issues of the Times and heard on the radio.

Just in from the printers is a handsome new booklet on the history of the library. You'll want one. It's filled with pictures of early Thief River Falls, and pictures many of those active in library circles of this and past years, along with stories of several of them, and pictures and stories of the new library, its physical plant, cost, architects and other items of interest to those interested in the library. Pick up your copy here, or order it from us if you are an out-of-towner. The cost is nominal. . . $1 per copy. . . and make valued and unique gifts, too.

Yard 'n Garden

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Now that fall is here, many gardeners are concerned about the storage of their dahlia and canna roots. Dahlias and cannas can be dug as soon as the new roots have formed and are of reasonably good size. The roots should be fleshy and firm. It's not necessary for the dahlias or cannas to have been subjected to frost before digging. However, many gardeners do prefer to leave them in the garden just as long as possible.

Dahlia roots should be dug carefully so as not to injure or break the turgid roots. Lift the clump very carefully and wash off excess soil with a hard spray of the garden hose. Cut off the tops and turn the clumps upside down to dry in a cool, well-ventilated area. Only mature roots should be stored. They may be packed in sphagnum moss or vermiculite or placed in perforated plastic bags.

Cannas are handled similarly. It's advisable to cut the stems down to four inches and leave them attached to the storage rhizome. Remove all excess soil by washing with the hose. Cure the bulbs by placing them in a well-ventilated room from one to two weeks. Cannas store best in an air humidity of 85 per cent, with the temperature between 38 and 40 degrees. If the room humidity is low, the roots should be packed in sand or vermiculite to prevent shriveling.

Grape hyacinths and crocus are two of the more popular smaller garden bulbs. Because both bloom very early in the spring they provide early interest in the landscape.

Grape hyacinths and crocus should be planted where they can be readily seen from the indoors. The gardener must consider that in the early season the greatest joy will be from viewing them from the inside of the house or near the front entrance as you are leaving the house.

Grape hyacinths and crocus both prefer well drained soil of a medium level of fertility. The bulbs should be planted from two to four inches deep. On lighter soils it is well to plant at the greater depth.

Usually grape hyacinths and crocuses are planted in groups or clusters. The spacing should be about four to five inches apart and the minimum diameter of the grouping should be two feet. A cluster this large can be seen for considerable distance.

The bulb planter can be used for planting the bulbs, though for this type it is often quicker to excavate the area to a depth of two to four inches, place the bulbs in position and then refill the hole. Water after planting the bulbs.

Questions and Answers

by Ted Hoversten
Field Representative

Q—I will be 65 next month. Should I file for medicare now or wait until I am 65?

A—You should file immediately so that you will be covered by medicare when you reach 65. If you wait until you reach 65 to file you will not have medical insurance coverage until the following month.

Q—What is the enrollment period and what happens if I do not sign up for medicare during this period?

A—The first enrollment period runs for seven months beginning three months before the month you reach 65, and ending three months after the month you are 65. For example, if you are 65 in January, your enrollment period would be from September 1 through April 30. If you do not enroll during this first enrollment period you will have to wait until the next general enrollment period, Oct. 1, 1967, to Dec. 31, 1967. However, you should file before the month you reach 65 to get protection immediately upon reaching 65.

Q—I will be 65 next year but I intend to keep on working full time. Can I get medicare?

A—Yes. The amount of money you earn does not affect your eligibility for medicare.

Alfalfa Pellet Plant Sets Open House Sat.

Northwest Pellet association, processor of sun-cured alfalfa pellets, will hold an open house Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the plant located north of Thief River Falls on highway 32, according to Art Ramage, manager of the firm.

The plant was completed this spring and began operation about June 1. Organized as a cooperative, the association secured funds for construction through sale of common and preferred stock and a loan through the Farmers Home administration. Arthur Hanson, Minnesota FHA director, will be a special guest at the open house Saturday.

Guided tours will be conducted to explain the plant operation to visitors and free coffee and doughnuts will be served. Registration for a free door prize will also be held, Ramage said. A large number of interested persons from the five-county area in which most of the alfalfa hay is purchased for plant operation is expected to attend.

Since the plant started operation in June it has processed about 3,000 tons of pellets. These have been sold in southern Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska, as well as locally and to Duluth for export to foreign countries. Local demand for pellets is growing and more and more livestock producers are learning the advantages of pellet feeding, Ramage said.

Alfalfa pellets are used to feed any animals which normally use hay for feed, the plant manager said. Convenience of handling and storage is a main feature of the pellets, and they lend themselves particularly well to mechanized feeding operations.

Operating 20 hours per day, six days a week, the plant now employs 15 people on a full-time basis with part-time help as needed, Ramage noted. The plant requires about 90 tons of hay per day for full operation.

Large quantities of hay will be needed throughout the winter to keep the plant operating at capacity. Price paid per ton for baled alfalfa hay varies according to condition of the hay and protein content. Farmers may deliver the hay to the plant themselves or arrangements can be made with the association to have the hay hauled from the farm by trucks attached to the cooperative.

Ramage expressed optimism about the pellet operation, noting that the market is good and gives indication of becoming even better. Inquiries about pellets have been received from as far away as Florida, indicating that shipment may be feasible to nearly any point in the United States.

Farmers with alfalfa hay for sale are encouraged to contact the plant or to bring hay samples for price quotations. While the cooperative currently has a good supply of hay on hand, much more will be needed for operation until the 1967 crop of alfalfa is ready for market.

MANAGER of the Northwest Pellet association plant north of Thief River Falls is Art Ramage, shown above in the scale room and office of the plant. Open house will be held at the plant Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. when guided tours will be conducted for visitors. The management and board of directors of the cooperative invite all interested persons to visit the area's newest agricultural industry.

Farmers Urged To Take Soil Samples

Pennington county farmers are encouraged to take advantage of the fall soil round-up to be held during the week of October 17. Pennington county agent, Terry Courneya, will be on hand to collect the samples and discuss any fertilizer problems with farmers. Several local fertilizer dealers have indicated that they will reimburse farmers for the cost of the soil analysis when they buy their fertilizer.

The following pick-up schedule has been arranged: Tuesday, October 18, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in front of the post office at St. Hilaire; Thursday, October 20, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in front of the post office in Goodridge, and from 1 to 4 p.m. in front of the community hall in Highlanding; and Friday, October 21, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the courthouse parking lot in Thief River Falls.

Soil sample containers are available at the county extension office or from local fertilizer dealers. Those not able to pick up containers ahead of time may bring their samples to the collection points in pint jars or other suitable containers for transfer into the soil sample boxes.

Farmers who plan to participate in the ACP cost program should check with the ASCS office for soil test requirements.

Operation EDITH Fire Exit Drill Set This Evening

As part of Fire Prevention Week being noted this week, Operation EDITH (Exit Drill In The Home) will be held this evening (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. when radio and television stations will announce the beginning of the escape plan.

All families are urged to participate in an exit drill to become familiar with escape routes from the home, and to utilize all doors, windows and porches in planning the escape, according to Roy Langevin, Thief River Falls fire chief, and Patrick Barry, deputy state fire marshal.

"The largest number of people killed by fires die in fires in the home," Chief Langevin said. "A large percentage of these people would be alive if they had planned, practiced and used an emergency route to escape from home fires."

Four basic rules include the following: (1) Arouse the family if there is an odor from smoke or gas; (2) Leave the house, using emergency escape routes if necessary; (3) gather the family at a pre-determined meeting place and do not re-enter the house; (4) send someone to call the fire department.

The city fire siren and three civil defense sirens will be sounded throughout the city at 8 p.m. tonight to signal the Operation Edith drill. "Be sure your family participates in this drill," Chief Langevin added. "It could saves lives in your family in the future, and there is no time to practice or plan after a fire has started."

Buses To Permit Rural Youngsters To Participate

Approval of an experimental "late bus" program for the current school year as given by the Thief River Falls board of education meeting in regular session Monday evening. The district will begin Monday to operate several late buses in the evening, thereby providing opportunity for rural children to participate in extra-curricular activities of the school.

In other action the board approved the audit for the 1965-66 school year, accepted a bid for conversion of one boiler at Franklin junior high school to natural gas, renewed the lease for the state junior college and discussed possible use of currently surplus land on the site of the proposed new vocational-technical school.

Lee Plumbing and Heating company was awarded a contract for $3,752 to convert one of the Franklin junior high school boilers to natural gas. Only one bid was submitted. Services of Boyd D. Holcomb accounting agency were retained for the coming school year, a contract with Northwestern hospital for the student nursing program in the vocational school was renewed, and the resignation of Peter Probasco as director of the farm management program in the area vocationa-technical school was tabled pending the hiring of a replacement.

Lease arrangements for the state junior college in the Lincoln school building call for total annual payment this year of $10,770, an increase of about $1,000 over last year. The payment is an amount calculated to cover costs of janitorial service, electricity and other items of general school use which are available to junior college students.

Supt. M. R. Hankerson, commenting on the board action for late bus service, noted that a trial schedule will be arranged for the first three days of next week, prior to dismissal for the Minnesota Education association convention. The schedule will be reviewed and possibly revised during that time. In taking the action the board recognized the value of extra-curricular activities to a full educational program and the fact that a third of the district's students are rural pupils, Supt. Hankerson said. Activities in after-school hours will include music, drama, organizations and speech programs in addition to athletics.

Considerable discussion was also devoted to possible use of the land at the vocational school site which would not be used for building purposes in the immediate future. Ed Sisler of the vocational farm management program presented several ideas on use of land for demonstration and experimental programs in the agriculture department.

Test plots for crop varieties and fertilizer were suggested, as well as alfalfa and sunflowers—both of which are coming into prominence in the area due to increased interest in processing. Sisler was instructed to prepare a detailed plan for presentation to the board at a future meeting.

Information on the school audit for 1965-66 is included in a separate article in today's issue of the Times.

Vigness-Peterson Vows Spoken Recently At Zion

Miss Sharon Kay Vigness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vigness of this city, became the bride of Roger Ray Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson of rural Thief River Falls, Saturday, August 20, at 8 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran church. Rev. Leland Steen officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. James Dalager, organist, provided the organ music before the ceremony and also accompanied Richard Erickson of Seattle, Wash., as he sang "Because" before the processional and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The church was decorated with palms, candelabra and an altar arrangement of white gladioli and white mums. Candles also graced each side of the center aisle decorated with bronze and apricot colored ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of bridal satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. Alencon lace and pearl scrolls enhanced the scoop neckline and were repeated on the skirt front and along the edge of the long detachable train. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and crystals and she carried a cascade of white carnations accented with tropicanna roses. A heart shaped diamond pendant was her gift from the groom.

Maid of honor was Miss Karen Moe, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cathy Vigness, sister of the bride; LuAnn Johnson, a friend, and Donna Peterson of St. Cloud, cousin of the bride. They were attired in identical sleeveless floor-length gowns of apricot embossed nylon taffeta in empire fashion. A four-inch wide brown velvet ribbon, accenting the waistline, was tied in a bowtie-knot in the back and velvet streamers extended the length of the gown. Their headpieces of matching nylon net attached to a circular headpiece, were also accented with small brown velvet bows. To complete their attire they wore white shoes, opera length gloves and each carried a large bronze mum with an array of small baby mums extending down in a cascade effect.

Attending the groom as best man was Eli Lee, a friend. Groomsmen were Ralph Peterson, brother of the groom; Larry Peterson, cousin of the groom, and Gary Scrumstad, a friend. Serving as ushers were Jon Vigness, cousin of the bride, and Leslie and James Peterson, brothers of the groom. Candelighters were Charles Vigness and Jon Anton, brother and cousin of the bride, respectively. All wore white dinner jackets and white carnation boutonnieres, tipped with apricot. The groom's boutonniere was a tropicanna rose.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vigness chose a two-piece dress of nylon lace in champagne beige complemented by brown accessories. The mother of the groom wore a brown and beige knit suit with beige accessories. Their corsages were of bronze mums.

Honored guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vigness of this city and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson of Comstock Park, Mich., and the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Wold.

A reception followed in the church parlors decorated with brown and orange streamers, white wedding bells and baskets of galdioli. Mrs. Lillian Ranum was the hostess and the Hanna circle served. Highlighting the serving table was a pillared three-tiered wedding cake with the base in the form of a cross. Topping the tiered section was a Christogram, which belonged to the bride's grandparents and had been used on their 50th wedding anniversary cake. A miniature bride and groom were beneath the first tier and descending down the length of the cake, accented on both sides by candles, were the attendants in similar attire as the bridal party. Large tropicanna roses cascaded down the outer sides of the tiers. After the cake was cut by the bride and groom, the tiers were placed on a silver tray, belonging to the bride's aunt Mrs. Hans Anton, and served as a centerpiece at the bridal table.

The remaining cake was cut and served by Mrs. Hans Anton and Mrs. Virgil Wold, Mrs. Lester Vigness and Mrs. Alvin Wold poured. Waitresses were Mrs. Kathy Hoefer, Jean Trochman and Miss Sharon Wold. Nancy Vigness and Ione Voytilla attended the punch bowl. The gifts were opened and arranged by Nancy Quam, Darlene Peterson and Carol Peterson while Mrs. Carol Christofferson of Bagley presided at the guest book. The groom's cake, wrapped in orange net and tied with brown ribbons, was served by Arlen Wold, a cousin of the groom.

Those attending the wedding were from Seattle, Wash., Mayville N. D., Comstock Park, Mich., Warren, Bagley, Moorhead, East Grand Forks, Kennedy, Winger, St. Cloud, Trail and Gully.

For travel on a wedding trip the bride wore a two-piece plaid suit of orange and browns.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1965 graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school. The groom is a 1963 graduate of Lincoln high school and at present is a senior at the University of North Dakota majoring in electrical engineering.

Her flowing tulle veil fell from a satin pillbox headpiece and she carried an arm sheaf of a dozen long-stemmed yellow roses backed by ferns and tied with a white velvet ribbon. The gown was fashioned by her friends, Mrs. Herb Schultz of St. Hilaire and Mrs. Melvin Gregerson of Red Lake Falls. Mrs. Dave Kleven of Warroad served as the bride's personal attendant.

Miss Ione Schultz of St. Hilaire attended the bride as maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Richard Mattson of Roseau and Margaret Stewart of Winnipeg, Man., Canada. They wore identical A-line floor-length gowns in coppertone nitelite styled with empire waistlines. To complement their attire they wore peach colored wrist length gloves, shoes and veiled pillbox headpieces. Each carried three long stemmed yellow roses with a gold velvet ribbon bow. Their pearl earrings were gifts from the bride.

Breast Cancer Clinic Follow-up Testing Set

American Cancer society volunteers will launch a search Thursday for more than 1,000 northwestern Minnesota women who participated in the nation's first breast cancer detection clinic held five years ago in Crookston.

The women will be tracked down and asked to have a second examination at Crookston on Wednesday, November 9, in a follow up clinic—another first in the continuing study of how to conquer breast cancer.

Eight counties are involved in this search mission. They are Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. A review of the original list of women examined indicates that many still live in the area. The whereabouts of the remainder will have to be learned so that they can be notified. It isn't anticipated that any will be asked to come long distances. Some may have left the state and others may have died, the society notes.

Mrs. Clife Nimens, Crookston, long-time American Cancer society volunteer, served as general chairman of the clinic held in March, 1961, and is heading the follow-up project.

The task of locating the 1,158 women, presuming they are all alive, will be managed by a team of eight county chairmen, assisted by committeewomen they recruited following an organization meeting held October 3 in Crookston.

Each has been provided a list of the women from her county who were examined at the first clinic. The job of finding them will start Thursday with a telephone campaign as the initial effort.

Kittson, Mrs. William J. Pemberton, Hallock, 28 examined; Mahnomen, Mrs. C. J. Goldsmith, Mahnomen, 78 examined; Marshall, Mrs. P. H. Kotts, Warren, 106 examined; Norman, Mrs. Lloyd A. Sanders, Ada, 120 examined; Pennington, Mrs. Ormond Johnson, Thief River Falls, 64 examined; East Polk, Mrs. Loren Granum, Fosston; West Polk, Mrs. Andy Drugseth, Eldred, and Mrs. Walter Ross, Fisher; City of Crookston, Mrs. Russell Maves and Mrs. Amos Wagner; total number examined in Polk county, 634; Red Lake, Mrs. Roger Thibert, Red Lake Falls, 77 examined; and Roseau, Mrs. Gerald Miller, Roseau, 51 examined;

One of the key questions is whether any of the women checked five years ago subsequently may have developed breast cancer, particularly any among the 51 found to have abnormalities of the breast at that time. The 1961 clinic also found breast cancer in four women examined.

The follow up study will attempt to learn the incidence of other cancers.

Answers also will be sought to these questions: How many have practiced breast self-examination as a means of detecting abnormalities in their early stages? What number have gone to their family physicians for annual check ups? Both these practices are emphasized by the American Cancer society in its continuing educational program.

Bethesda and St. Francis hospitals, Crookston, will again be used for the clinic. The supervisor of nurses at each institution, Mrs. Joy Suldahl, Bethesda, and Mrs. Rosemary Henderson, St. Frances, are members of the arrangements committee.

Sponsors are the American Cancer society, Minnesota department of health, Minnesota Medical association cancer committee, and the Red River Valley Medical society. This group arranged the initial clinic.

MEA Study Shows Faculty Salaries In State Colleges

Faculty members in the five state colleges are not as well paid as teachers with master's degrees in 38 metropolitan area public school systems—let alone when compared to salaries in private colleges and universities.

A Minnesota Education association study, "Instructional Staff Salaries Paid in Minnesota Private and Public Universities, Colleges and Junior Colleges", also includes this observation:

"This study emphatically pinpoints the extremely low salaries that are being paid in Minnesota's state colleges and state junior colleges."

Only the second survey of its type ever done, the MEA study also noted the following:

Median annual salary for men on junior college faculties is $8,100 and for women $7,900 (last year's study showed the median for women $246 higher than for men).

Highest per cent of increase over the 1964-65 school year—20.8 per cent—is for professors in the private colleges and universities.

Median salary for state college instructional staff was $8,352, compared to $9,356 for the 1,796 master's degree teachers in the 38 metropolitan school systems. For the state as a whole, the median is $10,908, and the median in the private colleges and universities is $12,237.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

The Mrs. Jaycees of Thief River Falls feel that our community needs and will benefit from having a new vocational school building, and an indoor school swimming pool. Mr. Hankerson has presented our group with the facts concerning the bond issue to be voted upon October 18, and we are convinced: (1) that a new vocational school building is vitally necessary for the training which youth of our area require and (2) that an indoor swimming pool at Franklin Junior high is the ideal way to instruct every district student in water safety and in the skill of swimming.

We, the undersigned, are therefore going to vote YES to both questions, and will willingly pay the increase of 50 cents per $100 current taxes paid for the Vocational school, and an increase of $1.50 per $100 current taxes for the swimming pool. We also want to urge all members of our school district to be thoughtfully consider the needs of our youth and our community before going to the polls October 18.

Respectfully yours,

Mrs. Jaycees of Thief River Falls: Mrs. Ronald Arnold, Mrs. Darrel Bakke, Mrs. Gene Beito, Mrs. James Carlson, Mrs. Robert Dondelinger, Mrs. James Fisher, Mrs. Charles Follett, Mrs. Duane Glass, Mrs. Donald Goodrich, Mrs. Robert Henry, Mrs. Anthony Kozojed, Mrs. Marv Lundin, Mrs. James Matson, Mrs. Neil McEwen, Mrs. William Ness, Mrs. Roger Person, Mrs. Kenneth Swenson, Mrs. Sander Tureson, Mrs. James Winjum.

Others from here who attended one or more of the rallies were district vice commander James and Mrs. Cuppett, post commander and unit president Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reeve, adjutant Clayton Restad, membership chairman Leroy and Mrs. Nabben, unit membership chairman, Mrs. Rudolph Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Andersen, Charles Josephson, Jim Smillie and Ellsworth Jorgenson.

At the rallies department commander Ed Salk stressed contacting representatives and legislators to make known the opinions on various laws that are pending. He also told of conditions that needed improving at the Soldier's Home. Department vice commander, Fran Hylla spoke at Warren and Crookston in regard to the change of eligibility dates of the Legion as approved by Congress.

Speaking on the ways of approaching a prospective member, Girl's State and programs of the auxiliary was Mrs. Harold M. Johnson. She also stressed the recognition of the families having boys in service, especially in Vietnam. Membership reports were very satisfactory, according to the various membership chairmen.

Legion and Aux. Child Welfare Program Planned

Plans for the Minnesota American Legion and auxiliary child welfare program for the coming year were outlined Sunday, October 2, at a child welfare conference held at the American Legion club at St. Cloud. Attending from here were American Legion auxiliary department president Mrs. Harold M. Johnson, district president Mrs. M. R. Levorson, district child welfare chairman Mrs. Olger Olson of Warren and post service officer Mr. R. Levorson.

Charles Harding of St. Paul, department child welfare chairman, in charge of the meeting, reported that in 1966 the Minnesota posts and units spent more than $540,000 on child welfare projects.

Speaking on the problems in the area of obscene literature, narcotics and child abuse was Gerald Snell of Robbinsdale, vice chairman of the department child welfare committee. He stated that the state law should be charged so that a man and wife can testify against each other in child abuse cases in order to protect a child from abuse, assault and other mistreatment by either parent. He also pointed out that although Minnesota laws control the sale of codeine cough syrup, there is no way of stopping the purchase in another state and bringing it into Minnesota. He stated that the state law should be changed so that the possession of such supply of drugs can be a cause for arrest and prosecution. He further stated that through united effort there has been a law passed covering the willful or careless knowledge in the sale of obscene literature.

Getting a Late Start

Johnny Mariucci, the former University of Minnesota hockey coach who will direct the destinies of the United States squad that will represent this country in the world tournament, is just getting his team organized. Most of the players who will join the American club in its jaunt to Europe will be drawn from the Central and United States amateur leagues, and from such hockey centers as Rochester and Green Bay.

But while the Americans are in the process of getting on the ice, the Canadian Nationals have already put in a couple of weeks of stiff practice. And this past weekend the Canadian Nationals who will headquarter at Winnipeg, played a three-game series with the New York Rangers of the National hockey league. And the Nationals won two of the three games played!

It is evident that the team that Canada sends to the world tourney this season will go there with every intention of winning. And the Canadian Nationals will get quite a boost when Carl Brewer, a 28-year-old defenseman who played with Toronto last season, joins the club. He is in the process of regaining his amateur status.

The Canadian Nationals beat the Rangers, 5-2, at Winnipeg on Friday night; lost to the Rangers, 7-0, at Calgary on Saturday night; and defeated the Rangers, 4-1, at Winnipeg on Sunday afternoon.

Billy Robinson, who played with the senior hockey Thieves here some years ago, was impressed by the play of the Nationals. He said that the club could use more games against National league competition and "In the long run, they'll be winners against Europe and, let's face it, that's the name of the game."

Would You Believe Four Straight?

Apparently a number of the Los Angeles Dodger fans in town don't believe it. They are toddling around on their heels like punch-drunk fighters.

And their arguments are that the Baltimore Orioles are lucky that they weren't playing the Pittsburgh Pirates or the San Francisco Giants or the Philadelphia Phils, or even the New York Mets!

One of these Dodger fans finally ends his argument by saying, "Well I had Indiana and 17 points on Saturday."

Notes on Arlo Brunsberg

The current issue of the Fertile "Journal" carries an interview with Arlo Brunsberg, the Fertile all-round athlete who is a member of the Detroit Tigers of the American baseball league.

Brunsberg, who has been with the Tiger organization for five years, was brought up to the parent club for the final weeks of the baseball season. And he did get to play in a couple of games, and in the final game against Kansas City, he collected a double in two trips to the plate.

Frank Skaff, who managed the Tigers during the latter part of the season, is reported as saying "He'll make it. He's the kind that gives you a hundred per cent all of the time, and, barring any serious injury, he'll be up here maybe next year and for sure the year after."

Skaff has long been considered as one of the top scouts in baseball and he was drafted into managing the Tigers following the illnesses to Charley Dressen and Bob Swift. Skaff admitted that Brunsberg had to face the challenge of Bill Freehan, who at 24 years, is rated as one of the better catchers in the American legue. "But we know we've got a major leaguer in Arlo and that's why he's up here right now," Skaff concluded.

It is perhaps unfortunate that the Detroit club has signed a new manager, Mayo Smith, for next season, and Brunsberg will have to "prove" himself again. Arlo has a legion of friends in this area, and they are pulling for the former Concordia college star to make the "big time".

In last week's play Bemidji scored a solid 33-13 win over Greenway high school of Coleraine. The Crookston Central Pirates, meanwhile, were losing a 45-13 decision to a high-scoring East Grand Forks squad.

Trapping Season To Open at Noon

Minnesota Conservation department has issued a reminder that the trapping season will open at noon on the first day of the season in both the northern and southern zones.

The noon opener is new this season and is designed to permit trappers to make their first sets during the daylight hours. It will also give game wardens a better chance to apprehend trappers who try to start before the legal time.

The trapping season opens in the northern zone at noon October 29 and in the southern zone at noon November 5. Trapping in both zones closes December 18.

Survey of Goose Hunting Made by Section of Game

Vern Gunvalson, regional game manager at Bemidji for the Minnesota department of conservation, has announced that aerial surveys were made on the opening weekend of the goose season to determine the number and distribution of goose hunters in the vicinity of some of the major state wildlife management areas. The survey was made because of the high interest in goose hunting in the northwestern part of Minnesota.

Ted Shields, director of the division of game and fish, Dave Vesall, supervisor of game, and Sen. Norman Walz, member of the Senate game and fish committee, accompanied the flight to observe the survey technique and habitat conditions to become better acquainted with potential goose management needs.

The survey showed a marked increase in goose hunters over last year. During the weekend of October 1 and 2, 710 hunters took 99 geese on the Roseau River wildlife management area. On the Thief Lake area, 825 hunters bagged 470 geese.

Aerial counts, plus bag counts made on the ground, showed that hunters took fewer geese this year than in 1965 on the Roseau area while success at Thief lake was higher than last year.

Fewer Geese Are Taken This Year Than Last Year

Bag checks by field personnel of the conservation department's game and fish division on the opening weekend of the goose season indicate that fewer geese were taken than during last year's opener. The checks were made in western and northwestern areas of the state.

Game officials said mild weather in Canada so far this fall resulted in fewer geese moving south into Minnesota for the opener than was the case last year.

Prior to last year's opening, stormy weather in the north resulted in an earlier than normal build up of geese in the state.

Field men checked 1,533 hunters on Saturday who had a total of 311 geese. On Sunday, 1,089 hunters were checked and 307 geese counted in hunter's bags.

Most of the geese shot were Canadias with only a scattering of blue and snow geese reported taken.

Punt, Pass, Kick Contest Winners Named Last Night

Eighteen winners in six age groups were named last night in the annual punt, pass and kick contest sponsored locally by Tunberg Motor company. Jim Sims, head football coach at Lincoln high school, was contest director.

Winners in the contest which tested ability in punting, passing and place-kicking for distance and accuracy include the following:

State Purchases Railroad Grade For Wildlife Area

What has to be the oddest-shaped wildlife area in the country has been acquired by the Minnesota conservation department's game and fish division.

The Casey Jones wildlife management area, as it is called, is 12 miles long and 100 feet wide along most of its length. Located east of Pipestone in Pipestone county it derives its strange shape from the fact that it is an abandoned railroad right of way.

Starting at the east county line and extending all the way to the town of Pipestone, the snake-like area actually traverses about one-third the width of the county.

The state purchased the right of way from the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. Game managers say that in addition to public hunting, the wildlife area will provide nesting cover and winter cover for pheasants in a part of the state where intensive agriculture has eliminated much of the better pheasant habitat.

Gonvick at Erskine.

The two pacesetters in the North Tri-County football conference, the Oklee Bobcats and the Plummer Cardinals, kept their undefeated status last week by scoring victories over McIntosh and Goodridge, respectively. The Oklee team, in a game played at Oklee, defeated McIntosh. The Plummer Cardinals bested the ever-dangerous Huskies of Goodridge, 18 to 7, in a game played at Goodridge.

Oklee and Plummer were scheduled to play at Plummer on October 21, but with the MEA convention due for that weekend it is probable that this "crucial" game will be played on Tuesday or Wednesday evening. The conference title could well hinge upon the outcome of this game.

The latest report is that the Oklee vs. Plummer game will be played at Plummer on Tuesday evening, October 18, at 8 p.m.

Forest Products Week Proclaimed

Gov. Karl Rolvaag has proclaimed the week of October 16-22 as "Forest Products Week in Minnesota" and urged all citizens "to participate in ceremonies and observance extolling the great contributions that wood products have made to our way of life".

The proclamation notes that lumbering is the oldest manufacturing industry, dating back to 1608, and that forests of Minnesota are one of the great natural resources from which the state draws its strength.

Former Goodridge Girl Awarded BA

Mrs. Margaret Gosfield of Lomita, Calif., formerly of Goodridge, has received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of California at Santa Barbara with a major in history. She is continuing post graduate work in order to gain a California teaching credential.

Mrs. Gosfield is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wayne of rural Goodridge, and is a graduate of Goodridge high school.

Attorney General Candidate Cites Crime Increase

Douglas M. Head, state attorney general candidate, has called for the development of a comprehensive program to better utilize Minnesota's law enforcement resources.

Pointing out that crime in Minnesota has risen 125 per cent during the past 12 years in Minnesota while the population has gone up but 15 per cent, he said the problem comes closer to home when you note that there were 158 major offenses in Pennington county with 29.1 per cent of these being cleared.

"This alarming increase is more vividly shown by the fact that 1,067 major offenses are committed each week in Minnesota, with only 24 per cent of the major crimes being solved," he said.

To combat crime, Head seeks to create a Governor's crime commission to assist local law enforcement officers, better utilize modern techniques in the areas of electronic data processing, strengthen the facilities and manpower of the state crime bureau, assist in the modernization of local techniques, promote mandatory training programs of police officers, improve police communication and expand police manpower.

Timber Auctions Net $183,000 at Three Locations

Results of state timber auction sales held in Baudette, International Falls and Virginia September 21, 22 and 23 were announced today by the Minnesota conservation department, forestry division.

Ninety-eight tracts of timber or Christmas trees were offered for sale and 73 were sold. There was bidding above the appraised price on seven of the tracts.

The state offered 89,900 cords and 151,000 Christmas trees at an appraised value of $210,000. At the auctions, 70,500 cords and 73,500 Christmas trees were sold for $183,000. No state timber can be sold for less than the appraised prices.

Forestry officials said state timber sales provide for good forest management and produce income to the state, work for many people and material for industry.

Sugar Beet Tops Have Cattle Feed Potential

Sugar beet toplage—low moisture roughage from beet tops and crowns—has definite potential as beef cattle feed in the Red River Valley, according to experiments by University of Minnesota animal scientists.

At present, beet tops and crowns are usually discarded. But feeding trials showed beet toplage, on a dry matter basis, was about 84-88 per cent as valuable as alfalfa haylage in high roughage—limited concentrate cattle rations.

Visitors to the beef cattle feeders day at the university's Northwest experiment station at Crookston Thursday heard current results of continuing beef feeding experiments.

H. F. Windfels, R. D. Goodrich and J. C. Meiske, university animal scientists, conducted the forage comparison trials.

To produce beet toplage, beet tops and crowns were field dried for two to three weeks. About at 50 per cent moisture, the material was chopped and ensiled. Ground feed grade limestone was added at five pounds per ton to neutralize oxalic acid.

The roughages—sugar beet toplage, alfalfa haylage, alfalfa hay and corn silage—were fed once daily and were the only variable in the feeding. All cattle received a two-to-one barley-oats mixture at five pounds for 112 days at 7.5 pounds for the last 56 days. Steers on corn silage got three-fourths pound soybean meal daily for protein.

Alfalfa haylage proved a better roughage than alfalfa hay. This year, steers on alfalfa haylage gained five per cent more per day than steers fed alfalfa hay—1.97 vs. 1.87 pounds per head daily. Last year, the daily gain advantage was nine per cent for haylage-fed steers And cattle on haylage needed less dry matter per 100 pounds gain.

Steers on alfalfa haylage gained slightly faster than those fed other roughages. Average daily gains of cattle fed beet toplage or corn silage were intermediate—1.94 and 1.90 pounds respectively—to those fed alfalfa haylage or hay.

Cattle fed corn silage showed most efficiency in converting ration dry matter to gain. For 100 pounds of grain, steers required (on a dry matter basis) 674 pounds corn silage, 778 pounds alfalfa haylage, 808 pounds alfalfa hay and 842 pounds of beet toplage.

The researchers explained beet toplage contains a large amount of ash or minerals. Thus, cattle needed more beet toplage to furnish an amount of neergy equal to that in other roughages.

Senator Mondale Seeks Support Of Budget Bill

Senate agriculture committee will hold hearings Tuesday on the Fair Farm Budget bill introduced by Senator Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota.

The bill, which is co-sponsored by 19 other senators of both parties, would require the U. S. agriculture department to break down its budget into two categories—one showing those expenditures which benefit consumers, businessmen and the public in general, the other showing expenditures aimed at strengthening and protecting farm income.

Mondale, in announcing the hearings, said "It is my hope that this legislation will end once and for all the myth that the American farmer is reaping a rich bonanza from the taxpayer when in actual fact only one out of every three dollars in the agriculture budget goes for farm income support."

For example, in last year's $7.2 billion agriculture budget, Mondale said, "$2.6 billion was spent on programs to strengthen and support farm income, while $4.6 billion went for programs which clearly benefit every man, woman and child in the United States."

Among the programs included in the Agriculture budget, which benefit the general public are the U. S. forest service, food for peace, a merchant marine subsidy, food stamps for the needy, meat and poultry inspection, the hot lunch and school milk programs, nutrition and consumer research and rural electrification and telephone loans which are always repaid but without crediting the farm budget.

Last year, electric energy production by the electric utility industry in the United States exceeded one trillion kilowatt-hours for the first time. More than 80 per cent of the power was produced by fuel-fired generating stations, and less than 20 per cent by hydro-electric installations.

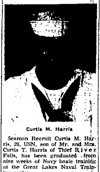
Curtis Harris Completes Basic Naval Training



Curtis M. Harris

Seaman Recruit Curtis M. Harris, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis T. Harris of Thief River Falls, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Great Lakes Naval Training center.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

Malung Telephone Converts to Dial

Malung exchange has given way to dial telephone and the old console is now just a memory. Sold last fall to the Wikstrom Telephone company for about $40 a share or $7,000, the old equipment has been replaced and now dialing is direct to Roseau and within the system.

The farmers Cooperative Telephone company was formed in 1911. At a meeting in January of 1912 Olaf Hofdahl offered to sell the company the line he had built from Roseau to Wannaska for $450. The annual assessments were set at 50 cents per month, payable in advance and toll rates were set at five cents.

Local Students Are Commended For Scholarship

Letters of Commendation honoring their high performance on the 1966 National Merit Scholarship qualifying test have been awarded to three students at Lincoln high school, guidance counselor Robert Reeve has announced, and one student at the Newfolden community school, according to Principal Wayne Ulferts.

Those named commended students are Jaqueline Myrin, Cathleen Steitz and Kathleen Swick, all of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, and Agnes Ellen Garthone of Newfolden community school.

They are among 38,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two percent of those who will graduate from high school in 1967. The commended students rank just below the 14,000 semifinalists announced earlier this month.

Only the highest - scoring students in each state, the semifinalists, remain eligible to be considered for merit scholarships. Although students receiving letters of commendation advance no further in the merit system, their names are reported to other scholarship - granting agencies and to the colleges they named as their first and second choices at the time they took the test. These colleges also receive reports of home addresses, test scores, anticipated college majors and career intentions of the commended students.

Simple Request

Every now and then a situation comes along which seems outrageously funny. Perhaps one of the classic examples of this—if you don't happen to be the person involved—is the following item which most recently appeared in the Norman County Index at Ada. The letter supposedly came from a bricklayer working on a project in the West Indies and was written to his employer. Just picture this chain of events:

Respected Sir: "When I got to the building I found the hurricane had knocked some bricks off the top. So I rigged up a beam and pulley at the top of the building and hoisted up a couple of barrels full of bricks. When I had fixed the building, there were a lot of bricks left over. I hoisted the barrel back up again and secured the line at the bottom, and then went up and filled the barrel with the left-over bricks. Then I went to the bottom and cast off the line. Unfortunately, the barrel of bricks was heavier than I was and before I knew what was happening, the barrel started down, jerking me off the ground. I decided to hang on and on the way up I met the barrel coming down and received a blow on the shoulder. I then continued to the top, banging my head against the beam and getting my fingers jammed in the pulley. When the barrel hit the ground it burst, allowing the bricks to spill out. I was now heavier than the barrel and so started down again at high speed. Halfway, I met the broken barrel coming up and received severe injuries to my shins. When I hit the ground, I landed on the bricks, getting several painful cuts from the edges. At this point, I must have lost my presence of mind because I let go of the line. The barrel then came down, giving me another heavy blow on the head and putting me in the hospital. I respectfully request sick leave."

Speaking of Percentages

Minnesota's junior Senator, Walter F. Mondale, talks in percentages in a recent column which is mailed to Minnesota newspapers. This is what he says about the great condition our nation is in today:

"In 1960, we were in the midst of a recession, with an unemployment rate of 6.6 per cent. Today there are 9.7 million more Americans with jobs than there were in 1960. And unemployment is down to 3.9 per cent nationwide, while in Minnesota it is even lower—only 2.5 per cent.

"Wages have gone up 20 per cent since 1960, while the cost of living has risen only 9.5 per cent. And the income of our nation's farmers has risen by more than 30 per cent since President Kennedy took office."

The senator also notes that "we are now in the 68th straight month of uninterrupted economic growth" and that disposable personal income is $150 billion higher than it was in 1960.

Senator Mondale does not mention that we are now a nation at war—whether or not it is declared—and industries producing instruments of war are plying their trade in large measure. Naturally, this results in more people working, but the money to pay them is coming from the U. S. taxpayer through the hands of Uncle Sam.

The senator says that President Kennedy and President Johnson "did not accept the notion that the government must merely try to balance the budget, keep its fingers crossed and hope for the best. With help from Minnesota's Walter Heller, President Kennedy shattered the myth that recessions were inevitable."

What he does not say is that inflation is eating up the savings of the aged, making it difficult for people on fixed incomes to meet expenses and causing labor costs and prices to soar to record heights. All of this has been a result of government which interferes with basic laws of economics, thereby creates a problem, and then raises the national debt ceiling to borrow money to buy its way out through highly-publicized public spending schemes.

The 68 months of uninterrupted economic growth of which the senator speaks so proudly are not necessarily an indication of economic health. Time alone will be the judge of the wisdom of the "spend yourself rich" theory of economics. The rise to new heights could well precede the plunge to new depths; there is bound to be a loose rung in the administration's stairway to the stars.

"We are enjoying the highest growth rate of any industrialized country in the world. The vast majority of Minnesotans and Americans are earning more, and have more security, than ever before in our history."

Mark that "security" bit in your diary. Interest rates have risen, making borrowing more difficult and more expensive. We are involved in a war which drains our human and economic resources in heart-rending, wasteful and seemingly purposeless fashion. Our "leaders" contradict one another—and themselves—with each passing day. Savings accumulated through careful management over the years are worth a fraction of their original worth. Young people have seen the social security rates increase by such percentages that adherence to the same pattern would take half their income by retirement age.

The Viet Nam war could erupt into a global conflict at any time. Our nation rocks with racial violence and law-abiding citizens do not dare to walk the streets of our large cities at night. Crime is on the increase, particularly among young people. Morals are decaying into the final rotten stages. There is unrest, disorder, confusion, discontent and don't trust their government which tells only what it wants the people to hear and denies knowledge when the truth is exposed.

If this is security—what is apprehension If this is security, what is insecurity? This nation culd well be riding for a fall—percentages notwithstanding.

Public Education

The following editorial originated in the Sacramento Union and appeared in the current issue of the Minnesota School Board Journal:

Jackson Faustman, president of the Sacramento school board, is not the first local school official to complain that ever-increasing pressures from state and federal governments and teacher organizations are seriously interfering with the operations of local school boards.

But Faustman, put it concisely and nicely when he summarized that "public education should remain a local function, a state responsibility, and a federal concern."

This pyramiding of the issue puts final responsibility where it traditionally belongs—at the local level, and in the hands of the school boards chosen by the local parents to immediately direct the education of their children.

But the chances of Faustman's being able to do anything about state and federal and teacher intrusion would appear to be slim. With the steadily increasing financial participation of state and federal officials into the local scene, by so much does the local scene tend to merge into the state and national framework—Education by bureaucracy from afar. The "afar", however, is a word rather than a linear distance; the intrusive hand of bureaucracy has an exceedeingly long arm.

For some years there has been an increasing tendency on the part of state and federal officials, particularly the latter, to belittle the competence of local school officials to run local schools. The result of this, however well intentioned the bureaucrat may be, is not good, especially in that all educational concepts under such a system tend toward a uniform shade of oneness.

This leads to regimentation of the mind, to regimentation of thinking, to stultification of diversity in thought, to channelizing of all of tomorrow into a single furrow. It is impossible for any small group of people to wisely and constructively determine all guideposts in the mental development of some 200 million people.

But with the steadily rising cost of public schools now being financed through contributions of 11 per cent by the federal government and 36 by the state, there seems little hope of getting the meddlesome hand of bureaucracy out of the local picture.

This is the spectre that Faustman seeks to bring into the open. It is a ghost calculated to startle the founders of our educational system right out of their shrouds. It never was the intention of those early educators to set up any system that would lead toward uniformity in thinking. That is the road to narrowness, to darkness.

As for the growing belief of some teachers that they, not the parents and local school board, should determine all curricula—it is part of the bureaucratic pattern of thinking that says Mama and Papa should be seen but not heard.

More Star Gazing

Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, recently stated in addressing the subcommittee on employment, manpower and poverty of the Senate labor and public welfare committee that the war on poverty can be won in about 10 years.

"During the last decade American scientists and engineers gained enough knowledge to set 1969 as the target date for landing a man on the moon," he said. "Now we have the knowledge to set 1976 as the target date for ending poverty in this land.

"What we can accomplish will depend, of course, on what the nation feels it can devote to this effort and the President and Congress believe it should appropriate to it. However, I am willing to say that with expenditure levels which are modest we can reduce poverty in the first five years to about 12 million people, 20 million fewer than we have now, and in the second five years we virtually can eliminate it as a scourge of mankind."

There is no question that government or any organization provided with vast sums of money—can reduce the level of poverty. All it has to do is to distribute the money to those who have little or none. It can do this on an economical handout basis, or on a more complicated and expensive return for nominal and menial labor.

Just what Shriver considers to be "expenditure levels which are modest" remain to be seen, but most taxpayers would likely not consider them to be modest. Those who receive and spend seem to have a different set of values than those who earn and pay

Poverty has existed since time began, and it will exist until the earth's final day. Government can extract money from those who work to earn it and give it to those who cannot or will not work. This will provide more people with more nearly the same amount of money remaining on which to live. We would call this equalizing poverty, while the government prefers to call it eliminating poverty.

"A boy has got to grow up to be a man some day. You can delay the process, but you can't protect the boy from manhood forever. The best and easiest way is to expose the boy to people who are already men, good and bad, drunk and sober, lazy and industrious. It is really, after all, up to the boy, when all is said and done, and there are a lot of boys who never get to be men, and a lot of men who never quit being boys."

Expect More Than 12,000 Veterans To Attend School

More than 12,000 Minnesota veterans are expected to be enrolled in schools and colleges this fall under the educational program of the new GI bill.

John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul, said veterans in the state who attended classes this summer under the bill's provisions totaled 2,360. On a national scale, Murphy said, almost a quarter of a million veterans and servicemen are expected to take advantage of the bill's educational benefits during the fall term.

"Peak attendance is expected in April of next year," he said, "when approximately 450,000 are expected to be enrolled in the nation's schools and colleges."

Murphy said that, based on national estimates, between 60 and 75 per cent of the veteran-students will attend college. The remainder will enroll in trade schools, take correspondence courses or complete their high school education.

He said the basic allowance for a single veteran is $100 a month for full-time training, $125 for a veteran with one dependent and $150 for a veteran with more than one dependent.

The educational program is open to all veterans with more than 181 days active duty service, any part of which occurred on or after Jan. 31, 1955.

Further information is available by writing, telephoning or visiting the VA center at Ft. Snelling in St. Paul or by contacting the official designated by each approved school to handle veterans' affairs.

Area Residents Invited to Take Peace Corps Test

Area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. on Saturday, October 8, at Crookston.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. (If test scores indicate a limited language-learning ability, for example, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking country.)

The placement test requires no preparation and is non-competitive—an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525. The test takes about an hour and a half.

State Announces Estimates of Motor Fuel Use

Motor fuel consumption in Minnesota is expected to reach 1.64 billion gallons for 1966, an increase of 4.3 per cent over 1965, according to a report issued by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. This includes 1.3 billion gallons of gasoline and 77.5 million gallons of diesel and other special fuels. Non-highway use of motor fuel is expected to reach 199 million gallons.

Based on this estimate of highway use of motor fuel and the current estimate of motor-vehicle registrations in Minnesota, the average fuel consumption for 1966 is expected to be 733 gallons per vehicle. The national figure is expected to be 792 gallons per vehicle.

Wisconsin will lead the neighboring states in motor-fuel consumption on the highways in 1966 with 1.5 billion gallons. Iowa will consume 1.1 billion gallons, South Dakota 279 million gallons and North Dakota 243 million gallons.

The U. S. is expected to consume 74.6 billion gallons of motor fuel for highway use in 1966, an increase of five per cent over 1965. This includes 70 billion gallons of gasoline and 4.6 billion gallons of special motor fuel. Non-highway use of motor fuel is estimated to be 4.2 billion gallons.

Public Opinion

Mr. Marvin Lundin, Editor
Thief River Falls Times
Dear Mr. Lundin:

I am taking the liberty of writing to you with hope that you would publish this letter of appeal to the citizens of the Thief River Falls School District.

My personal convictions are so strong for the favorable support of the bond issues Tuesday, October 18th, that I would like to publicly express myself to seek the support of others, and to shake-up those who may be complacent.

Everyone should be thoroughly convinced by now that the Vocational School is one of the greatest assets to our community and area. Hundreds of students from near and far have the opportunity of a life time for education at a most reasonable cost. The economy of our City has grown because of it's operation, the employment of teachers and other personnel, and the training of students for jobs and other opportunities.

The favorable support of the New Vocational School bond issie will:

1. Assure our community of one of the finest Vocational Schools in Minnesota.
2. Answer the recommendations of the Minn. Department of Education that present rental facilities be eliminated.
3. Provide improved facilities and space for additional courses.
4. Provide space and land for future expansion.
5. Compliment the Junior College campus adjacent.
6. Allow for further State and Federal assistance in the future.

The bond issue to provide funds for an indoor swimming pool at Ben Franklin Junior High is, without doubt, one of the finest and soundest proposals we have ever had the opportunity to support. It has the sanction of community leaders, officials, planners, educators and those who have had the opportunity to hear and study the proposal.

Good sound planning in the use of the pool shows that for twelve months an indoor swimming pool will provide the much desired physical education, physical fitness and safety that is so sorely needed. We have been informed that there will be continuous use of the indoor pool after school, evenings and Saturdays for organized groups and families for all-year swimming. An indoor pool will grow to be one of the most useful and enjoyed facilities of our school system. While an outdoor pool is wonderful it is not practical until an indoor pool is available. I personally am convinced that a successful indoor pool program will hasten citizen support of an outdoor pool in the not too distant future.

I have sincerely studied and weighed the proposals we are asked to support and I found all my questions answered with satisfaction and I know all criticism was eliminated with careful planning.

So, this very personal appeal goes to all citizens of Thief River Falls School District:

"For the good of your children, yourselves, your school and community please vote YES on both issues Tuesday, October 18th. You'll be proud you did."

Sincerely yours,
Orion D. Belch, O.D.

alone with her thoughts

Are they good company — her thoughts, that is?

For this is a time of her life when much can depend on the outcome of these moments when she is alone with her thoughts.

Decisions will be made — irrevocable decisions.

Steps will be taken that cannot be retraced.

The happiness of those who love her hangs in the balance . . . as she tries to discover where her own happiness lies.

But her thoughts are projections of the lessons she has learned, the experiences she has had.

And high among these are the truths she learned in her church life, and the rich experiences she has known with Christian friends who grew up in religious homes.

Alone with her thoughts . . . this girl is in good company!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q — Can I use one certification card to show attendance in school under the new GI bill for a period June 20 through August 14, 1966?

A — One certification card can cover the full period when training is interrupted or completed. Otherwise, a card must be completed and submitted for each month of training.

Q — Under the new GI bill, when will a veteran certify his monthly attendance?

A — Veterans enrolled in institutions of higher learning will not certify their first month's attendance. They will receive a certification card with their first month's check, and then must report and certify attendance for each month thereafter. Veterans enrolled in institutions below college level will receive a card from the VA and must report the first and all subsequent months of attendance.

Q — I am a disabled veteran. My daughter is in need of surgery. Can she be admitted to a VA hospital for this?

A — No, not unless she is an eligible veteran. Hospitalization is not provided for dependents of veterans.

Q — I am a serviceman with a prior period of qualifying service since Jan. 31, 1955. I am now enrolled in a local college carrying an academic load of seven semester hours and have two dependents. Will I be paid the half-time educational allowance rate of $75 per month?

A—No. The rate of allowance will be computed at the rate of the established charges for tuition and fees or $100 per month for a full-time course, whichever is the lesser. This is in accordance with a recent regulation change.

Driver fatigue and speed go hand in hand. The Minnesota AAA reports that, as a driver gets weary, he often becomes impatient to reach his destination. Thus, he increases his speed at a time when his alertness decreases. The best solution is to pull of the highway for a short rest stop.

TWENTY YEARS of better nutrition for the nation's youngsters is celebrated this year during National School Lunch Week, Oct. 9-16. In Minnesota, approximately 404,000 lunches are served on an average day in 13,067 schools. Among the foods consumed in the past year were 132,519,000 half-pints of milk and 1,710,000 pounds of butter. Which explains why Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Linda Kottke of Glencoe, was on hand in an Osseo, Minn., school where youngsters were preparing posters to mark the school lunch program's 20th anniversary. She's shown with, from left, Carole Ebert of Brooklyn Junior High, and Karen Sund and Cynthia Leone of Fair Oaks Elementary.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Last year 220 cases of syphilis were reported in Minnesota. There were 2,254 reported cases of gonorrhea. If these statistics indicated an outbreak of smallpox, there would widespread public alarm. Few people however seem concerned or even aware of the epidemic proportions the incidence of veneral diseases have reached.

During Community Health Week, October 16 through 22, the physicians of Minnesota are stressing the control of preventable disease, including venereal diseases. Because doctors know both the cause and the cure of VD says the Minnesota State Medical Association, it is theoretically possible to uproot venereal disease. VD cannot however be cured unless the individuals who have contracted these diseases want to be cured and seek medical help for themselves and those with whom they have had intimate contact.

Shame, secrecy, and ignorance are great inhibitors to the eradication of VD. There is no accurate record of the number of cases of VD which occur each year because many people, due to very real feelings of guilt, do not seek medical aid. Misconceptions about VD are common.

Contrary to widespread belief, syphilis and gonorrhea are not the same disease. VD is not caused by physical strain. While a syphilis chancre will clear up with or without medication, this does not mean that the disease is gone. Moreover, the symptoms of venereal diseases are not always so evident that the individual knows that he has the disease.

Venereal diseases may cause crippling, a painful form of arthritis, blindness, insanity, and maiming or death of an unborn child. For these reasons we can't afford to be apathetic—or secretive—about VD. The control and eventual eradication of VD depends on the treatment of every person who has been infected.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAN?

With Congress in session, Odin Langen felt his first responsibility was as your voice in Washington. The result? An abbreviated campaign for re-election packed into a few short weeks. If 17 and 18-hour days on the campaign trail will do it, Odin and his wife, Lillian, will still try to visit every Seventh District community to discuss the needs of our District and the things he stands for.

Sincerity of purpose and dedication to the job have marked Odin's eight years of service in Washington. Let's keep this strong, respected voice working for us in the nation's capitol. Stick with the man who sticks with the job.

Davison States Langen Opposed To EDA Program

Keith C. Davison, DFL candidate for Congress, today charged that the many EDA (Economic Development Act) programs underway in Cass county and elsewhere in the Seventh district would not have been possible had the votes of his opponent prevailed in Congress.

Speaking at a barbecue and rally held at Portage Camp resort at Backus, Tuesday evening, Davison said: "The impact of these programs on local economies in terms of increased employment and educationa opportunities has been tremendous. The Bi-County community action panel here in Cass county as well as the other community action groups throughout the district are to be commended for the programs they have put into operation."

Davison specifically cited the work and training projects, project "Head Start," upward bound and the national youth corps as programs that he thought were becoming increasingly effective in combating poverty in America.

"The only regretable thing," said Davison, "is that we now have a congressman who would have denied these programs to the people of the Seventh district. If my opponent's negative vote would have prevailed in Congress we would not now have these opportunities to participate in the uplifting of our communities."

Newfolden Man Killed In Car-Truck Crash

Killed instantly in a car - truck collision on highway 59 about 11 miles north of Thief River Falls Friday was Leverne Bjorgaard, 24, a resident of Newfolden and former Argyle resident. Damage to the vehicles involved in the accident was estimated in excess of $10,000, according to the Minnesota highway patrol which investigated the mishap.

Bjorgaard, operator of Bjorgaard Mobil in Newfolden and a used car salesman, was driving a 1961 model used car at the time of the accident. The highway patrol placed the time of the mishap at 2:45 a.m.

According to the patrol, the car driven by Bjorgaard was traveling north on highway 59 when it collided with a south-bound semi-trailer truck driver by Lloyd Albert Myhra of Crosby, N. D. Robert Marvin Benter of Crosby, owner of the truck was a passenger in the "sleeper" portion of the cab. Investigating officers said that initial impact took place in the west lane of the highway, with the two vehicles coming to rest across the centerline and into the east lane of traffic.

Charles Collins of Middle River, deputy coroner for Marshall county, said that Bjorgaard was killed instantly due to a broken neck. Two wreckers were used to separate the vehicles and raise parts of the car so that the body could be removed, the highway patrol said. Bjorgaard was not married.

The truck was reportedly loaded with barley and enroute from North Dakota to Duluth. The 1961 model car was a total loss with damage estimated at $1,100. Patrol officers estimated damage to the truck at between $8,000 and $10,000. Neither the truck driver nor the passenger in the truck was injured in the crash.

Funeral services for Leverne Bjorgaard were held today at 9:30 a.m. in the St. Rose of Lima Catholic church in Argyle with Rev. Henry Rousseau officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery. Green Funeral home of Thief River Falls was in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will be published in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Diverted Acreage May Be Grazed

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1966 feed grain and wheat programs can graze this acreage without losing program benefits, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The starting date for such grazing was October 1, marking the end of the six-month period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect under the diversion programs.

The chairman stressed, however, that this program relaxation regarding use of the acreage applies only to grazing the acres diverted from commodity production. Diverted acres cannot be harvested during the balance of 1966. Grazing is prohibited when planted to wildlife food plots or devoted to grain or oilseed crops which mature.

Land diverted under the conservation reserve program may not be grazed or harvested through the whole year. County farms participating in the 1966 commodity bout 610.

175 Farm Ponds Built in County In Past 10 Years

Farm ponds and pits have literally changed the rural landscape over the last 30 years, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

In Pennington county, farmers and ranchers have constructed about 175 farm pits with ACP assistance over the past 10 years. The practice is among the most important ones encouraged by the program, Knutson said.

He reports that U. S. farmers and ranchers--with cost-share assistance under the agricultural conservation program- have built almost two million water-storage reservoirs of various types during that period. These ponds could contain as much water as American households use in a year.

Farmers continue to construct about 60,000 ponds a year (most with ACP help), of which from 9,000 to 10,000 are in authorized Public Law 566 watershed program areas. The ponds and pits are located in every agricultural county of every state, as well as in Pureto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The chairman points out that farm ponds and pits are of many styles and have many purposes, and they have numerous practical and esthetic benefits. ACP ponds are principally of five kinds: (1) Livestock water ponds to protect vegetative cover (primarily by distribution grazing) or to make the land more usable for vegetative cover; (2) storage-type erosion - control dams to stop gullying and reduce runoff of water; (3) irrigation water-conservation reservoirs wildlife conservation ponds to conserve fish and wildlife on farmlands; and (5) ponds for forest fire control. Most of these ponds serve more than one of these purposes.

Increasingly, Knutson explains, farm ponds are contributing to landscape beautification and are furnishing additional recreation opportunities for such water-based sports as fishing and swimming, boating and ice skating, as well as just a site for picnicking or nature study.

Council To Annex Junior College Site by Ordinance

Authorization of ordinance preparation for annexation of the state junior college site to the City of Thief River Falls was given by the city council at its regular meeting last Tuesday evening. First reading of the ordinance, to be prepared by Robert Wurst city attorney, will be held at the next regular meeting of the council October 25.

The city has purchased the site --approximately 60 acres--from Miss Myrtle Myrin for $60,000. It is located just south of highway 1 and east of the Thief River on the northeast corner of the city, known locally as the Squaw Point area. Sale conditions will permit Miss Myrin or her heirs to occupy the house on the property for the remainder of her life or for 10 years, whichever is greater.

Priority for street surfacing was approved by the council, in anticipation of Blacktop Surfacing company being able to work this fall. First priority was given to patchwork of water main reconstruction on Arnold and Duluth avenues south and Spruce and Pine avenues. Others areas to be surfaced, in order to prioroty established, include Conley and Mussey avenues, intersection of First street, Pennington avenue and Winton avenue (near First street bridge), then east First street, Atlantic and West First street, and South Conley and Crocker.

The city also authorized an exchange with Mrs. Tony Kozojed for property about 522x300 feet in size west of Kendall avenue in the south portion of the city. Much of the low area has been filled and will be used by the city park and recreation department for recreation purposes. Exchange was made for the amount of the owner's assessment for improvements including storm sewer, curb and gutter and street surfacing.

Building permits totaling $39,300 and including two new dwellings were also approved. They include Charles Ness, dwelling, Pine avenue and Birch Lane, $20,000; Oscar Bakke, garage 110 Parkview, $500; Farmers Grain & Milling company, bin, Knight av. S., $500; E. M. Gaer, dwelling, 533 Spruce av. S., $16,000; E. Baehr, remodeling of Falls Theatre, $1,500; and Toivo Turra, garage, 420 Knight av. N., $800.

A request from the city of Melrose to allow cities operating under the laws of 1895 to adopt an ordinance after only one reading and publication was approved by Thief River Falls council. Other cities operating under the laws include Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks and Cloquet. The council, in advising Melrose of its approval, also asked "staggered" terms for members of the city council, establishment of the office of city treasurer and increasing the purchasing limit from $1,000 to $2,500 without advertising for bids.

Expressing dissatisfaction with the service received from Lystad's exterminating company for rodent control at the dump grounds, the council requested cancellation of the contract with the firm.

A claim for losses in the amount of $3,783.28 was submitted by Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., which had its turkey plant closed down following a transformer explosion last summer. The claim was referred by the city to its insurance carrier.

Referred to the building and street committees was a suggestion by Morris Goddard, secretary of the Pennington County Fair association, Inc., that the association build a 40x80 building which would be leased to the city when not in use for the county fair. Suggested city uses were a car pound, shooting range and storage for city equipment.

Local DeCor Group Favors Legislation For the Housewife

DeCor Group of the Federated Women's club met recently at the T. E. Aasland home. A report was given by Geneva Overum on the Minnesota Women's club meeting held October 4 regarding four future legislative bills of interest to the housewives.

The pending bills are (1) The Truth in Packaging; such as when "10 cents off" is placed on a package and the price raised accordingly to make the sale price the same as the regular price; (2) The Federal Meat Inspection Law: demanding higher requirements than the inspection laws required by the state; (3) Drug Safety Act; amending the Food and Drugs Act thus giving the public greater protection in medicine and (4) Child Safety Act; which will include the packaging of childrens aspirins in smaller quantities. In this manner it is hoped that several hundreds of lives may be saved by children taking an over-dosage of aspirins.

A discussion followed and the group voted to write letters to the legislators in favor of this legislation.

A movie on flower arranging was also shown and plans were made for making favors for the rest homes in this city for Thanksgiving. A request for workers for the ARC dinner had been received with Mabel Loyden and Geneva Overum volunteering their services. During the social hour, lunch was served by Mrs. Aasland.

Miss Sylvia Adele Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Griffin, became the bride of Richard Allen Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson, all of Middle River, at a recent candlelight service at First Lutheran church, Middle River, the Rev. Duane Nelson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The organist, Miss Linda Larson presented a program of nuptial music while ushers Earl and Robert Anderson, brothers of the groom, seated the guests. She also played the traditional wedding and recessional marches and accompanied soloist Carson Hedlund of Roseau, classmate of the groom, as he sang "Song of Ruth", "Wedding Prayer" and "Open the Gates of the Temple". Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson passed out programs to the guests as they entered the sanctuary.

Lighted candelabra and baskets of white and yellow gladioli, centered with a brown gladiola and tangerine zinnia, flanked the altar, graced with matching floral arrangements. The center aisle was lighted by candelabra on the pews.

The bride was preceded to the altar by the couple's attendants. They were Susan Griffin as maid of honor; Lowell Anderson as best man, together with the bridesmaids and groomsmen, Marcia Wicktor and Wallace Anderson, and Mary Engevik and Bruce Lunsetter.

Public Opinion

I most sincerely hope that the Community will support the Board of Education in their endeavor to provide for a New Vocational school and an Indoor Pool.

I have seen the Brochure, the plan is an excellent one. If we wish to maintain and improve our community, then, the program is a "must". Cost-wise I believe, never again will we get so much for so little.

Physical education programs within school systems should include swimming pools at the secondary level and Junior pools at the elementary level. Failure to provide suitable aquatic facilities usually result when administrators and-or taxpayers have not been exposed to successfully operated school-centered aquatic programs. The opponents of swimming pools do not realize the necessity for including aquatic activities in physical education curriculum or the value to the total community that benefits educationally and recreationally through a properly planned aquatic program.

Pools are much safer than most other bodies of water because they are usually better supervised and are designed with safety in mind. Proper instruction in swimming and water safety will reduce the number of drowning deaths. Drowning is the fourth leading cause of accidental death in the United States. American Red Cross statistics show that 60 per cent of our total population cannot swim and five per cent can swim well.

If we can teach more children to swim and enjoy it, then we have increased the probility that they will continue through adulthood to use swimming as a fitness activity. Swimming also contributes to sound mental health. By the very nature of its enviroment it helps to promote relaxation and thereby an easing of physical tension; for those who are inhibited and need to overcome their fears and those who are handicapped physically, swimming proves to be of immense value by offering an opportunity to learn a physical skill and gain self-confidence. Since gravity is not a factor when one swims, one can benefit from movements not possible out of the water. Persons affected with certain types of disorders are not able to acquire such beneficial activity any other way. It is amazing what boost it is to a child's morale when he finds that in water he can do the same things normal children do.

Today no one should be denied the opportunity to learn swimming skills or water safety because of a lack or shortage of facilities.

The board has gone on to provide a sound instructional program to develop basic swimming and safety skills; it is our duty as a community to provide adequate pool facilities. (The proposed pool size is ideal to comply with all requirements.)

A swimming pool is an investment in the health, happiness, education and safety of the community, particularly the children.

What good will all the education we can give our children be if they lose their life from inadequate instruction or no water safety training? Certainly the cost of a pool does not equal the value of even one life.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on both issues.

Very truly yours,
K. Russell Anderson

She gave a brief history of the MSMAS and the American Association of Medical assistants. To render educational service for the self-improvement of its members and to stimulate a feeling of fellowship and cooperation among members, are also goals of the society.

State Motorists May Now Mount Studded Tires

Many Minnesota motorists are wondering when they can put their steel-studded snow tires back on their automobiles in preparation for winter driving. The answer, according to the Minnesota AAA, is Saturday, October 15.

Under current Minnesota law governing use of studded tires on Minnesota highways, they are legal for use from October 15 to April 15.

However, the motoring organization warned, anyone contemplating a winter vacation trip should check to see what the laws are in the various states in which they will be traveling. Some states have statutes which do not allow vehicles with studded tires to be driven on their streets and highways. AAA offices in Minnesota have a list of the states which do not allow studded tires on their roads.

Recent tests conducted in Wisconsin have shown that studded snow tires do improve the stopping distance for cars on ice and hard-packed snow, although the most efficient tire accessory by far for driving on glare ice is reinforced tire chains.

Svendsgaard Herd Tops Pennington DHIA in August

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington county Dairy Herd Improvement association, lists the following herds as the top 10 in the association for the month of August:

	Pounds Milk	Pounds Fat
Dale Svendsgaard	1,175	41.4
Mordy Morrison	1,151	38.8
Mehrkens Farms Inc.	1,069	38.5
Myron and Mylo Carlson	1,023	38.2
Clyde Christensen	1,008	37.7
James Jarshaw	1,063	37.1
Carl Krohn	1,045	36.4
Bernard Wells	1,104	36.4
Carl and Kermit Finstad	1,016	36.1
Wallace Reierson	1,009	35.2

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

There were 27 herds on test with a total of 821 cows and an average of 30.4 cows per herd during August with the Pennington association, 83 per cent of which were milking. Average amount of milk produced per cow was 871 pounds which tested 3.63 per cent fat. This amounted to 31.6 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Nineteen cows finished with over 500 pounds of butterfat during the testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation. They were from the following herds:

Soil Testing in Fall Proves Best For Most Farmers

Soil samples can be taken at any time of the year, provided the ground is neither frozen, covered with snow nor water-logged, according to John Grava, supervisor of the University of Minnesota soil testing laboratory. There are some definite advantages in taking soil tests in the fall of the year.

In early spring, soils are often wet and unsuitable for testing, and when the soil is ready for testing, it is also ready for planting. The three weeks or more that it takes for a sample to be sent in, tested and returned—plus the time it takes to order and apply the right fertilizer—can put planting as much as a month behind schedule.

Also, if tests show that soils need lime, it may not be possible to transport heavy loads of this chemical until later in the spring since roads in many areas of the state have weight restrictions on trucks in early spring.

Grava points out that these kinds of problems can be avoided if soil testing is done in the fall. Even if it takes three weeks to get the results of soil tests, there is still plenty of time for planning and ordering fertilizer, which can often be bought at discout rates in the fall of the year. Also, lime can be moved in large quantities over all roads in the fall and winter.

According to Grava, up until 1960 the main rush in the soil testing laboratory was in the spring season. But now, over half of the soil tests conducted at the university laboratory are done in the fall.

The meeting was called to order by president Delmer Nesland and roll call was answered by what the members liked best about school.

Old business consisted of discussing what was done for 4-H club week. It was decided to buy a ticket for the club leader for the 4-H achievement banquet.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Adol Peterson.

Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities, was instructed to advise Swedberg Construction company that the council's position has not changed in a dispute over relocation of the city's transformer substation behind the J. C. Penney company building. The city moved the substation at Swedberg's request to permit the construction firm to remodel the former Bishop garage. The firm has now refused to pay the $126 fee charged for the work.

The council approved plans and specifications for a portable welder and will open bids on November 8. The welder will be used by the city to thaw out water services to city customers during the winter months. Water connection to Northland Chemical company was also approved with the understanding that the firm is liable for frontage benefits if the water main is extended.

VA Center Given High Awards by Central Office

Veterans Administration center at St. Paul was the recent recipient of two high awards from the VA's central office in Washington, D.C.

The center received a special award for its "outstanding" work in two VA experimental projects involving conversion of pension income questionnaires and direct loan accounting to automatic data processing.

The St. Paul office also received a division "meritorious performance" award for the quality of division.

VA Deputy Administrator C. F. Brickfield presented John Murphy, center manager, with the meritorious performance certificate for the center's personnel division. The award was based on the division's overall performance of operations for the past fiscal year in competition with other VA regional offices across the country.

Leonard W. Goulde, area field director for the VA's Washington office, presented a superior accomplishment award for the center's work in the two pilot projects to Murphy.

The conversion involved a project known as PLACE, Jr. (Property and Loan Accounting Control and Evaluation). The other successful program involved the processing of approximately 250,000 annual income questionnaire cards for VA pensions to test whether it is practical to centralize the present system.

Proposed Amendment to the Minnesota State Constitution
Submitted by the 1965 Legislature

Amendment—Permission for Legislators to Hold Certain Offices

ROBERT W. MATTSON
Attorney General
State of Minnesota
St. Paul

HONORABLE JOSEPH L. DONOVAN June 3, 1966
Secretary of State
STATE CAPITOL
St. Paul, Minnesota

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to M. S. 3.21, you are hereby furnished a statement of the purposes and effect of a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

By L. 1965, c. 689, the legislature has proposed an amendment to Art. IV, § 9 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

Art. IV, § 9 now reads as follows:

"No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster, and no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, Art. IV, § 9 will read:

"No senator or representative shall during the time which he serves, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the state of Minnesota, except that of postmaster. No senator or representative shall be disqualified for election to any elective office, but any senator or representative who is elected to any elective office under the authority of the state or of the United States, who shall qualify for the office to which elected, shall automatically terminate his term of office as senator or representative and create a vacancy therein.

"A senator or representative may resign his office before the expiration of the term to which he was elected by submitting his written resignation to the governor."

The purpose and effect of this amendment may be summarized as follows:

1. A senator or representative, under the presently existing provision, is precluded from holding any office under the authority of the United States or the state of Minnesota, except that of postmaster DURING THE TIME FOR WHICH HE IS ELECTED. The amendment will preclude those parties so described from holding another office DURING THE TIME HE SERVES. This will permit a senator or representative to hold another office during this elective period, provided he first resigns, or his office is otherwise terminated.

2. The proposed amendment will provide that no senator or representative shall be disqualified for election to any elective office.

3. The proposed amendment expressly provides that any senator or representative elected to state or federal office, and qualifying for the office, automatically terminates his office as senator or representative and creates a vacancy in his office.

4. The proposed amendment further expressly provides that any senator or representative may resign prior to the expiration of his term by submitting his written resignation to the governor.

The effect of this would be to accomplish the purposes stated.

Since the proposed amendment omits the existing provision, "* * * no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member until one year after the term of office in the legislature," this prohibition would be repealed by implication.

Very truly yours
ROBERT W. MATTSON
Attorney General

Queries Answered on Federal Income Tax

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—For several years, I have borrowed from a bank to defray my living expenses. I have pledged my savings account as collateral and paid considerable interest. How do I handle this when I file my 1966 tax return?

A—Interest paid on borrowed money may be deducted on page 2, Form 1040, if you itemize your other deductions. You can deduct only the interest paid on your indebtness in 1966.

Even though you pledged your savings account as collateral, any interest which you receive or which is credited to your savings account is taxable and should be reported on your return.

Q—I had a part-time selling job last summer that required the use of a car. I didn't get an auto allowance. Are my mileage costs deductible?

A—Except for commuting expenses, the costs of business use of your automobile are deductible. You may deduct the actual expense or if you prefer, a standard rate of 10 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles and seven cents a mile thereafter. Related parking fees may also be deducted.

Q—My father died and I am the beneficiary of his life insurance. Will this be taxable to me?

A—Death benefits from life, accident and health policies are not considered taxable income.

Q—I spend more than $50 every three months for a maid but I don't always use the same woman. Do I have to pay social security tax for my household help?

A—You are liable for the tax only when you pay one person $50 or more cash wages in a calendar quarter. If you spend $50 in any quarter but split it between several persons, you are not liable for the tax.

Q—One of your tax assistance people helped me prepare my return and now it is being audited. If you question the accuracy of my return why don't you check with the person who helped prepare it?

A—The function of our tax assistance personnel is to explain the requirements of the law and assist in filing a complete return. They make no attempt to verify the information submitted and have no way of knowing whether what the taxpayers tell them about income, deductions and exemptions is complete and accurate.

Q—My son earned over $600 this summer. Do we lose our exemption for him?

A—Not necessarily. If he is under 19 or a full-time student, he may earn over $600 and you may still claim the exemption if he otherwise qualified as your dependent.

If any tax has been withheld from his wages he must file a return to obtain a refund. In any event, he must file a return when his gross income is $600 or more. In filing such a return he also claims his own exemption.

Q—I just received a letter from the IRS service center about my return. Can the local office here help me with it?

A—Yes. However, if the letter is sent from the service center, the requested information should be sent back to the service center unless other instructions are given. When you call or visit your local IRS office, have the letter handy for reference purposes.

NEW street signs for virtually all intersections in Thief River Falls are being installed as time permits by the city street department. Signs for all intersections in the city have been received and it is expected that the work will be completed this fall. Miss Thief River Falls, Mary Dahlquist, is shown under one of the new signs. The street sign project was adopted by the city council following initial efforts to secure public support and make pole surveys by the local Jaycee chapter.

Two Rivers Near Hallock Improved By Grygla Firm

Herb Holthusen, Grygla contractor, has a crew of men at work on the middle fork of the Two Rivers at a point one and one-half miles north of Hawkyard's corner, six miles east of Hallock.

The work being done now is utilizing a dragline and caterpillar tractors which are removing brush and timber from the area. The contract calls for clearing, widening and deeping the river channel to a depth of four feet deeper than its present channel.

The over-all job consists of doing the above described type of work on an 11-mile channel. The crew working now will continue as long as weather permits this fall and will resume the work again in the spring as soon as conditions will permit it. The job is scheduled to be completed the July.

4-H Achievement Night in Warren Set October 20

4-H achievement night scheduled for October 20 in Warren could also appropriately be called recognition night, according to County Agent Chuck Nelson. "The purpose of this night," Nelson said, "is to recognize adult 4-H leaders and 4-H'ers who have earned awards for their efforts through several years of 4-H club work."

Awards to be presented that evening include two gold clover awards to leaders that have served for 10 years and five silver clover awards to leaders that have given five years of leadership to a 4-H club.

County project award medals are given in agronomy, horticulture, beef, swine, leadership and several other project areas to deserving 4-H'ers who have excelled in their chosen project. In addition, 4-H Key club awards, [illegible] club award and other award winners will be named that evening.

Achievement night will begin with a bean feed for 4-H members, adult leaders and prospective new members at 6 p.m. in the Warren high school. Parents who bring in a carload of 4-H'ers for the event may also attend the bean feed.

The awards program will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. This is open to all parents and speaker will be Leonard Harkness, state leader of 4-H club work. The event is being sponsored by the Warren Chamber of Commerce 4-H federation.

Thieves Enter Erskine Business

Sheriff's office of Polk county is investigating a burglary which occurred early Sunday morning at the B. Z. Sales of Erskine.

Entrance to the building was gained through the roof of the building where a hole had been chopped.

Reported missing were $600 in cash, pistols, watches and various sporting equipment. The burglars also rifled the file safe, desks and desk drawers and strewed papers about the offices.

The business is owned by Ben Zolen of Erskine. The burglary was first discovered Sunday morning by an employee.

Roseau Co. Jury Indicts Mattson On Murder Charge

Roseau county grand jury Tuesday night returned an indictment for murder in the first degree against Clifford Mattson, Salol, for the shooting death May 29 of Lawrence Kveen. Kveen was shot four times with a .22 caliber weapon in a cabin on Springsteel Island near Warroad.

The grand jury heard evidence presented by County Attorney Chester Yon with witnesses being Sheriff Paul Knochemus; Dr. Jack Delmore, county coroner; Betty Knudson, in whose cabin Kveen died; and Lyman Brink, defense attorney.

The grand jury was in session from about 1:30 p.m. to approximately 11 p.m. hearing evidence and making its deliberations.

County Attorney Chester Yon said Wednesday morning that an arraignment has been tentatively set for Thursday but the trial date is not yet assured.

The only action in district court was the ordering of judgment on personal property tax citations. Judge H. O. [illegible] of Thief River Falls otherwise instructed the grand jury. Date of court is not yet set.

Prowlers Whip Roseau 49-18 Friday Night

With their finest all-round performance of the season, on defense and offense, coach Jim Sims' football Prowlers scored a convincing 49-18 win over the Roseau Rams in a Northwest conference game played at Roseau on Friday night.

The Prowlers will continue in Northwest conference competition on Wednesday night when they travel to Bemidji for a game against the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks. The game, with kickoff at 7:30 p.m., will be played on the Bemidji state college field.

In their surprising win over coach Ray Kavanagh's Rams (surprising in the score that the Prowlers tallied) at Roseau on Friday night, the Prowlers received two-touchdown efforts from Gary Almquist, Karl Poppenhagen and Nickie Drees, and a single touchdown from Rod Collver. The blue-and-gold converted on all of the extra-point tries, with Tommy Tunberg adding three points, and Poppenhagen, Bob Brodin, John Womack, and Dave Halvorson adding singles.

Defending the north goal, and getting the benefit of a brisk and chill wind that swept the field, Roseau accepted the game-opening kickoff and a five-yard return brought the ball to the Roseau 28-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage Jerry Halvorson flashed around the right end and sprinted down the west sideline to cross the south goal for a touchdown. The try for the point, on a placekick, was blocked.

The Roseau lead was short-lived as the Prowlers, after an exchange of fumbles, drove into Rams' territory. Collver, who played a fine game for the locals, ripped through center for 12 yards and a first down on the Roseau 3-yard line. A pair of running plays picked up two yards, and then, on a swing to the left, Brodin tossed a short pass to Drees and the halfback scampered for the touchdown. A pass, Brodin to Tunberg, added the point and the Prowlers held a 7-6 first period margin.

But it was in the second period that the Prowlers gained control of the game, scoring 21 points. Brodin connected with a 32-yard scoring pass to Rod Collver, with Tunberg adding the point. Moments later, after the Prowler defense had stopped the Rams, the locals drove for a major, with Brodin hitting Gary Almquist for a 20-yard scoring play. Brodin ran for the point. And late in the period a Brodin to Poppenhagen aerial was completed for 29 yards and a touchdown. John Womack's run added the point and the Prowlers held a 28-6 lead at the intermission.

It was a pair of long runs by the St. Hilaire contribution to the Prowler squad — Almquist and Drees—that accounted for the locals two touchdowns in the third period. Almquist made a 57-yard touchdown run, and Drees, who had just returned to action following several weeks on the sidelines because of an injury, ran 59 yards for a touchdown. Tunberg, on a pass, added one conversion point, and Dave Halvorson, on a run, added the other.

The Rams scored a touchdown in the third period on Rocky Ammerman's 45-yard punt return.

In the final stanza, Poppenhagen, on an eighty-yard gainer, scored the Prowlers' final touchdown, and then, on a pass, notched the Prowlers into a 49-12 lead. Roseau's Jerry Halvorson, on a 2-yard dive, capped the Rams' fourth-period scoring effort.

The game, which was marred by cold winds and drizzle, found the Prowlers gaining 412 yards, while the Rams gained 190 yards.

Roseau Rams Win NW Conference Cross-Country

Coach A. J. Kramer's Roseau Rams, the pre-meet favorites, won the Northwest conference cross-country tournament held at Crookston on Thursday afternoon.

The Rams, paced by Ray Grindahl and John Lindberg, who finished first and second respectively, scored a total of 26 points. The Bemidji Lumberjacks gained second place with 48 points, with coach Roger Solheim's Prowlers in third place with 49 points. The Crookston Pirates had a total of 103 points.

Roseau, with Grindahl winning first place in the time of 9:31, had five runners in the top ten. Lindberg of Roseau was second; Gary LaValley of Thief River Falls was third; Bob Museus of Bemidji was fourth; Wayne Olson of Bemidji was fifth; Dee Erickson of Roseau was sixth; Galen Lisell of Roseau was seventh; Jim Gibson of Thief River Falls was eighth; Rich Olson of Bemidji was ninth; and Terry Olson of Roseau was tenth.

The Region Eight cross-country meet will also be contested over the range on Crookston's Minakwa golf course, and will be held this afternoon (Monday) at 5 p.m. The Roseau Rams are favored to win the regional crown.

Ruffed Grouse Hunting Success Similar to 1965

Ruffed grouse hunting success over the opening weekend was about the same as last year, although hunters reported seeing more birds than a year ago according to Ted Shields, state game and fish director.

Hunters averaged slightly less than one bird apiece on each of the first two days of the season. Although hunters saw more birds, hunting for these elusive flyers was difficult because of the late leaf fall this year. Shields said foliage was heavy in most areas with leaf fall 50 per cent complete only in the far northern part of the state.

The best grouse hunting was in northern St. Louis, northern Itasca and southern Koochiching counties, and the area north of Upper and Lower Red Lakes. Leaf fall was well along in these areas and state game managers said this was the main reason for the higher success.

Hunters are reminded that a 220 square mile area around Scenic state park near Bigfork is closed to grouse hunting to protect the newly introduced Capercaille grouse.

Grouse hunting success is expected to improve considerably as leaf fall progresses, Shields said.

The grouse hunting season will continue through November 6 state wide with a special late season in southeastern Minnesota from November 15-30. Shooting hours are sunrise to sunset with limits of three daily and six in possession.

Success of Duck Season Opener Is Above Last Year

A bag check of 3,824 hunters on the opening weekend of the duck season shows that hunting success increased about 27 per cent over last year, Minnesota Game and Fish Director Ted Shields has reported.

Game and fish division field men checked the major waterfowl hunting areas throughout the state and found that hunters averaged 1.5 birds per man on Saturday and 1.4 birds on Sunday. Last year's opening produced 1.2 ducks per man on Saturday and 1.0 ducks on Sunday.

The mallard was the duck most frequently found in hunter's bags along with teal and other puddle ducks. Fewer scaup were taken this opening than last year due to fair weather in Canada which has held back any significant southward movement of these birds.

Hunters checked also had 58 snow, blue and Canada geese and reported seeing many flocks of geese, most of them moving south at high altitudes.

Department game officials said the increased take of ducks this opening was due to favorable breeding and nesting conditions which resulted in an increase in the number of birds. Another factor was a relatively dry fall which dried up many smaller water areas and concentrated the birds.

A substantial increase was also noted in the number of hunters afield for the opening weekend shoot.

The duck season continues through November 21. Starting November 1, hunters may take an additional daily bonus bag of two scaup and-or two ringneck ducks, or one of each, and a possession limit of four of these birds. This is in addition to the regular daily limit of four and possession limit of eight ducks.

Damage by Ducks To Crops Is No Problem in 1966

There was very little damage to grain fields in northwestern Minnesota by ducks this year, the conservation department's game and fish division reported today.

This fall was drier than 1965 and most farmers were able to get into the fields and harvest their grain crops, game officials explained. As part of the departments continuing waterfowl depredations control program, surplus Commodity Credit corporation grain was fed to hold ducks on the Thief Lake and Roseau wildlife management areas to keep them out of farmers' fields.

Similar action has been taken by the U. S. bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife on the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge.

At the Roseau wildlife management area, game managers fed 11,500 bushels of oats and had a peak number of about 40,000 ducks using the feed sites.

At the Thief Lake wildlife management area, game managers fed 3,800 bushels and had an estimated 20,000 ducks in the feeding areas.

Sportsmen's Club Meets Wednesday

A movie will be shown entitled: "Big Queticn". All members are urged to attend as well as members of all other sporting organizations.

It is hoped by the club that the recreation area owned by the club will be used more extensively by other organizations and that other organizations will join as affiliates of the club.

To Head Drive For ARC Funds

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Olson of rural Warren will serve as Marshall county chairmen of the 1966 Friendship campaign of the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children (ARC).

The door-to-door campaign will be conducted in Nobember throughout the state except in communities where the association participates in United Fund or other federated drives.

Funds raised during the campaign will be used to provide direct services to the mentally retarded, develop and improve treatment and training programs, conduct training institutes for professionals and volunteers working in the field, support research, provide parent counseling and increase public understanding of the retarded.

Ducks Unlimited Says Most Ducks Still in Canada

Fine weather and good feeding conditions are combining to hold waterfowl in the Canadian prairie region. Limited light frost has been recorded, but it has failed to move birds off even small ponds. Some southward movement of blue-winged teal and pintail has been recorded, but this is normal since both species migrate by calendar rather than weather. Only minor migration from the north, but the prairie build-up of waterfowl is considered impressive.

The above statements are from the October issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological", prepared by Angus Gavin, general manager.

The report cites "the larger lakes and marshes in Saskatchewan and Alberta and to a lesser degree in Manitoba are holding the largest numbers of waterfowl seen in many years." It adds, "Even small roadside potholes and sloughs still have birds on them—this despite the fact the prairie shooting seasons have been open for more than two weeks."

Gavin stresses the fact that goose populations in all prairie provinces "are showing a considerable build-up." There has been some migration of these birds from the north, but most of the prairie population is composed of prairie-raised birds.

Field reports from D.U. personnel, run a gamut of descriptive ranging from "Best concentrations of ducks seen in last 10 years and "waterfowl conditions are tremendous" (Alberta), to "Overall population shows a healthy increase" (Manitoba). From Saskatchewan, "some spectacular field feeding concentrations using traditional congregating areas."

Gavin concludes that the..... "outlook for fall migration is very encouraging and should be impressive. Weather conditions will dictate time and pattern of the southward flight.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Long Time

It's been a long time since a Prowler football team has run up a point-total comparable to Friday night's 49-18 win over a well-rated Roseau squad. Checking back into the record books at hand I find that it was back in 1957 that the Prowlers had a higher scoring game, and that was a 61 to 0 win over the Warroad Warriors in a game played at Warroad.

But that Warroad team did not possess the ability and talent that was in the Roseau club on Friday night.

And going back beyond the year of 1957 I find that the Prowlers of 1954, co-captained by Sid Vraa and Pete Froehle, defeated the Ada Vikings, 53-7. And the year previous, the Prowlers under coach Ralph Skay scored a 60-6 win over the Crookston Central Pirates. That squad had Lyle Guttu and Darold Dalton as co-captains. Skay also coached the 1954 Prowlers, and both of these seasons, 1953 and 1954, the locals posted records of seven wins and one loss.

But that 49-18 score on Friday night is entirely acceptable, and it should provide the Prowler squad with considerable momentum for their game against Bemidji on Wednesday evening. The 'Jacks of course, will be heavily favored, and coach Red Wilson's team racked up a 40 to 20 win over Crookston Central on Friday night.

That Bemidji is a high-scoring squad can be judged by the fact that the 'Jacks, in their three previous conference games, have rolled up points of 37, 46 and 40. The conference scoring record, held by the Bemidji squad of 1964, is 155 points.

Out of Proportion

The Twin City sports writers appear to be taking picks on Jim Kaat for his outspoken statements about the resignations of pitching coach John Sain and bull pen coatcher Hal Naragon.

Perhaps it wasn't tactful of Jim to make such a forceful statement, and making the comparison that it was like "The Green Bay Packers football team trading away coach Vince Lombardi." That was quite a positive statement, and it surely was an endorsement for coach Sain.

That there was dissention on the Minnesota Twins this past season, and among the coaching staff, was made known during midseason, It was a fact that third base coach Billy Martin and pitching coach John Sain were "on the outs". Martin is an aggressive and abrasive character, and Sain is a dour and surly individual. And it was evident that manager Sam Mele had troubles with his staff and in communicating with his players.

The tipoff to the situation, and which apparently caused Jim Kaat to voice his opinion, was the resignation of bull pen catcher Hal Naragon. Naragon had the confidence of the players, and of manager Mele, so his decision means that there continues to be personality problems on the Minnesota Twins.

Next season will undoubtedly be a year of anxiety for manager Mele, and for club president Cal Griffith, and for pitcher Jim Kaat, too. But he shouldn't be sniped at the by the Twin City writers.

In the realm of the young, fascination lies around every corner, and from our standpoint, at the turning of every page in a book. Inquisitive little minds need stimulation every moment of the waking day, and this is one of the primary functions of reading.

We think they'll like the new books we have this week for them: "Fall Is Here", by Dorothy Sterling, and some darling pictures by illustrator Winifred Lubell; "Dorrie and the Weather Box" by Patricia Coombs, a bewitching little witch's tale right in the mood of the upcoming Halloween season. Imagine magic coming in bottles, and the little witch being able to make a thunderstorm right inside the house. Not exactly the way she started out, but the way it turned out, in the crazy world of magic and make-believe!

And for the bored wife of a king, a tiger hunt, all done in rhyme and titled, "Do Tigers Ever Bite Kings?" There's an unbelievable twist to this one, and it will delight the youngsters. Mom or dad, read it to them and savor, as they do, the magic of its rhyme. Barbara Wersba does it, and it's reminiscent of the Seuss books, in some respects. The illustrations are whimsical and imaginative. Mario Rivoli does them in child-pleasing fashion.

For the pre-teens and others who like their history the painless way, with all the color and drama of the movies, we have a new biography, "I Have Just Begun to Fight!" What boy doesn't rise to the admiration of a navy man who, his ship shot out from under him and under a surrender-command, shouts in defiance, "I Have Just Begun to Fight!" and goes on to win the battle.

This new book, the biography of John Paul Jones, is by the author of a number of similar books, Edward Ellsberg, Commander. There's a whale hunt in the book, and a whaling tragedy; the birth of the new American Navy, lessons in seamanship, a moonlight battle; all the ingredients of suspense action and danger that boys eat up by the bookful. There is a hero-yarn, and what boy isn't enthralled by hero-stories, nor inspired to dreams of valor after reading them?

"Soldier Doctor" is the story of William Gorgas of Panama Canel fame. Written by Clara Judson, it has its beginnings in the locale of the Battle of Richmond, where the young Gorgas gets his first taste of battle, doing his share for the war effort by an attempt to carry out the assignment of saving the family cow when the family flees the burning city. After a serious bout with illness, he recovers and plays vigorous football to harden his muscles, but soon turns to his first love, medicine.

At West Point, he earns his lieutenant bars and goes on to become an army doctor, which marks him as a man of compassion and ability in his field. Yellow fever in the Canal Zone became his greatest challenge, and conquering it his most glorious and immortal victory.

More in the juvenile section: have you and your children enjoyed "Audubon's Nature Encyclopedia"? Pictures are vivid and artful and the writing geared to the younger set, but the information is advanced enough to appeal to adults also. Parents are urged to sit down at a table and explore the wonders of these marvelous books with their children. They aren't new books, but we feel they should be getting a lot more attention than they have been getting. See if you don't agree when you explore them!

Many and loyal are the friends and fans of Frances Parkinson Keyes, and for them we have an autobigraphy "Roses in December." Her young years, which she says were far from being "all roses" despite the opulence in which she was born and reared and the fabulous European trips which were common fare with her, were not without frustrations.

Her tutoring, and the life of attention she received as a member of a prominent family, left her unsatisfied, for her life's aim was to be a writer. Squelched in that desire she nevertheless surmounts the myriad objections placed in her path and strikes out to achieve her own destiny. Library Journal recommends this book as belonging in every library, and that is genuine praise for any book.

In addition, it receives their nod as a valuable addition to collections of youth-slanted books, recalling as it does a youth spent in an era and manner which probably formed the backdrop for her outstandingly succesful career as a novelist, and thus the fulfillment of a youthful dream.

Speaking of dreams, many of them are based on solid foundations, and this leads to a discussion of the career books we have just acquired. They are a solid guide to forming ideals and setting up the framework for goals among the young, to whom the future belongs. Good, solid, authoritative guidelines are drawn up in each book, and the career discussed in each one is, to our way of thinking, pretty thoroughly covered.

The content of this coverage varies with each book, but in the main the various aspects of each career and its variations are well developed and complete. Lists of the schools where required training may be obtained, plus other information about the schools, and about the inservice training often available, is informative and helpful.

Also included in the considerations of each profession are the kinds of examinations required, the promotions, fringe and pay benefits, opportunities for employment and other angles of the labor picture. The career as a future is well explored.

Among the books in this series are those on the fields of foreign service law enforcement, photography, secretarial, interior design, nursing, architecture, modeling, airline hostess, physician, computer specialist, public relations man (or woman), social worker and a number of other professions.

What are YOUR aptitudes? Where do YOUR interests lie? In these volumes you may find the information which could well crystallize your thinking along specific lines and launch you on the career best suited to your capabilities and your aims in life. Just another service of the library, where we aim to be helpful without destroying initiative in digging out information for yourselves, for it is knowing where to find information that is the purpose of education. And education is our main commodity.

Bond Election Tuesday

For some unknown reason, things have been remarkably quiet in regard to two proposed school bond issues on the ballot in Tuesday's special election. Expenditure of more than half a million dollars is at stake in the two questions, but discussion about the proposals is difficult to find. Even more unusual, there have been scarcely any public opinion letters on eiher of the two questions.

Voters will decide Tuesday whether or not the district will be authorized to issue bonds for construction of a vocational-technical school and a swimming pool addition to Franklin junior high school. The school board has issued an informational fact sheet on the proposals, and a citizen's committee is also publishing a "question and answer" brochure.

We suspect that the public is generally favorable to vocational - technical school building, for the value of the present school to the area has been amply proved over the years. After a measure for an outdoor swimming pool was swamped in "no" votes a short time ago, however, we frankly expected some organized opposition to an indoor pool for the school.

In fact, we must confess to having some misgivings about the pool addition ourselves when it was initially presented by the board a couple of months ago. After more thought and consideration, however, we find several valid reasons for favoring this proposal—Question No. 2 on the ballot Tuesday.

All children should have the opportunity to learn to swim. There is no better way for such instruction to be given than through a creational value of a pool which can be used year-around by people of all ages is also extremely high.

But we think mostly of the rural student when we consider the value of this program. Farm youngsters are often occupied with farm work when summer swimming classes are conducted at the river pool here (and perhaps that is a blessing, considering the condition of the river), or their parents are too busy with farming to take their children to and from summer lessons. With an indoor pool at the school, rural children could learn to swim during school hours and not be in conflict with the work schedule at home

We can recall the hot summer days of not too many years ago when we sweltered in the hay fields and watched buses carry our friends to the Old Mill state park pool for swimming lessons. They learned to swim and we didn't. In a school program we would have had the same opportunity as they did.

Each individual must decide for himself how he feels about the pool question. It is true that $200,000 is a lot of money, but costs are increasing continually and we doubt the cost will ever be any less. We believe the value is worth the cost.

As for the vocational - technical school, there shouldn't be any question as to either the need or the value of a new building. Matching funds from the government for initial cost of land and building cut the direct cost to the district in half. Tuition from the state for non-residents of the district who attend the school will pay much of the dept redemption. An $800,000 building can eliminate present rentals, add class sections and new courses and provide for future expansion as the school continues to grow—all for a projected local cost of less than $70,000.

If the school is to satisfy the needs for vocational education in the area, it must have elbow room. A "yes" vote on Question No. 1 Tuesday will mean more space, more classes and more opportunity for young people in the area. Isn't this what we want for our children?

Where Does It Go?

They hung the butcher in 18th century France because his prices were too high. In the days of Diocletian, they cut off the hands of the baker for the same reason. In 1966, they executed a South Vietnamese merchant for "profiteering." But, in each case it was not the businessman who set the wheel in motion for high prices, it was inflation.

Inflation comes in stages. In the beginning, the cheapening of money seems to work for the benefit of all. And those who protest can easily be put down by the statement: "What are you kicking about? You never had it so good". But with each depreciation of the dollar, the price rises. Then the situation begins to run away and government reacts with price controls and outlandish taxation. Finally, they start blaming everything on the businessman.

We are now fairly deep into the first stage of inflation. The prosperity of The Great Society is based on inflation. Whatever else this administration has lacked, it has always maintained confidence that it could control economy.

But, we are at the point where the "You never had it so good" crowd are beginning to wonder if this is really so. The housewife is mad about the soaring cost of bread, milk, and eggs. The food retailers and the farmers claim they are not getting the money.

In the automotive industry, the situation is similar. Insurance company claims in the last 10 years have tripled. The number of claims has increased only 55 per cent. Rates are soaring. And the motorists are paying through the nose. But, the body shops say they are not getting any more than they did 10 years ago. And they say they are being squeezed on parts costs. Insurance companies claim they are losing money in the collision business. Who's getting the people's money?

One thing is sure. The man who hands the final bill to the customer is getting a bad reputation, whether he deserves it or not.

It won't be long until somebody starts "cutting off the small businessman's hands". Your hands. Sound ridiculous? In California, government is thinking of setting up a shop where the economically deprived can get auto repairs free. On a national scale it has been suggested that the government provide free diagnostic and safety checks to motorists. In New England, a prominent insurance company is planning to set up a body shop to do repair work for its own policy holders.

Finger by finger, the hand is being cut off

We Agree

The Murray County Herald at Slayton speaks sensibly in an editorial concerning the election for state railroad and warehouse commissioner. We agree with the statements made as follows:

If P.K. Peterson is not elected railroad and warehouse commissioner next November, we will start wondering anew about the motives of the majority of Minnesota voters This is one case where partisan politics should be cast aside.

Much to the chagrin of party leaders, the DFL nominated a man by the name of Youngdahl to this same post. He was nominated only because of his name. By his own admission he has no qualifications for the post and knows nothing about the problems confronting the transportation industries and public utilities—areas in which the RR&WC is profoundly interested.

Peterson, on the other hand, is a most qualified man. He is a former lawmaker, mayor of Minneapolis and practicing attorney. He also served, if we recall correctly, on the Metropolitan Airport Commission.

What excuse can even the most partisan of voters have for supporting a candidate who by his own admission knows nothing about the office he seeks and has no qualifications to serve in that capacity over one who is experienced, well educated and highly trained for the post?

It's a mystery how Mr. Youngdahl got through the DFL primary over other more qualified candidates. If he gets through the general election it will be more than a mystery—it will be a disaster.

Hire the Handicapped

This week serves to focus attention on activities which are carried on by many organizations throughout the year to help the disabled worker return to gainful employment. To call the attention of the employers and the nation to the valuable contributions being made by our handicapped workers, and to encourage employers to hire on the basis of ability to do the job and to discount the applicant's disability. Handicapped workers make excellent employees!

The handicapped person is a human being. He wants to live and take his place in society as a citizen. Unless he is able to work, he will have to be supported by public funds. All he asks is that the employer consider him on the basis of his ability, not his disability! Studies of employed workers have proven that when placed in suitable employment, they are as good or better than their non-handicapped co-workers.

Should you have an opening that a physically handicapped worker can fill, call your nearest state employment office. They will assist you in filling your opening with a capable, qualified applicant.

If you know of an employable handicapped veteran who is having difficulty in finding and holding a job, have him get in touch with the veterans employment representative at the nearest state employment office. He will provide testing, counseling and guidance services and other means to assist him in finding and holding suitable employment.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Is this a healthy town?" inquired the home-seeker of a local resident.

"Yes, certainly," was the answer. "When I came here I hadn't the strength to utter a word; I had scarcely a hair on my head; I couldn't walk across the room, and I had to be lifted from my bed."

"You give me hope!" cried the home-seeker with enthusiasm. "How long have you lived here?"

"I was born here," replied the native.

They hung the butcher in 18th century France because his prices were too high. In the days of Diocletian, they cut off the hands of the baker for the same reason. In 1966, they executed a South Vietnamese merchant for "profiteering." But, in each case it was not the businessman who set the wheel in motion for high prices, it was inflation.

Inflation comes in stages. In the beginning, the cheapening of money seems to work for the benefit of all. And those who protest can easily be put down by the statement: "What are you kicking about? You never had it so good". But with each depreciation of the dollar, the price rises. Then the situation begins to run away and government reacts with price controls and outlandish taxation. Finally, they start blaming everything on the businessman.

We are now fairly deep into the first stage of inflation. The prosperity of The Great Society is based on inflation. Whatever else this administration has lacked, it has always maintained confidence that it could control economy.

But, we are at the point where the "You never had it so good" crowd are beginning to wonder if this is really so. The housewife is mad about the soaring cost of bread, milk, and eggs. The food retailers and the farmers claim they are not getting the money.

In the automotive industry, the situation is similar. Insurance company claims in the last 10 years have tripled. The number of claims has increased only 55 per cent. Rates are soaring. And the motorists are paying through the nose. But, the body shops say they are not getting any more than they did 10 years ago. And they say they are being squeezed on parts costs. Insurance companies claim they are losing money in the collision business. Who's getting the people's money?

One thing is sure. The man who hands the final bill to the customer is getting a bad reputation, whether he deserves it or not.

It won't be long until somebody starts "cutting off the small businessman's hands". Your hands. Sound ridiculous? In California, government is thinking of setting up a shop where the economically deprived can get auto repairs free. On a national scale it has been suggested that the government provide free diagnostic and safety checks to motorists. In New England, a prominent insurance company is planning to set up a body shop to do repair work for its own policy holders.

Finger by finger, the hand is being cut off

We Agree

The Murray County Herald at Slayton speaks sensibly in an editorial concerning the election for state railroad and warehouse commissioner. We agree with the statements made as follows:

If P.K. Peterson is not elected railroad and warehouse commissioner next November, we will start wondering anew about the motives of the majority of Minnesota voters. This is one case where partisan politics should be cast aside.

Much to the chagrin of party leaders, the DFL nominated a man by the name of Youngdahl to this same post. He was nominated only because of his name. By his own admission he has no qualifications for the post and knows nothing about the problems confronting the transportation industries and public utilities—areas in which the RR&WC is profoundly interested.

Peterson, on the other hand, is a most qualified man. He is a former lawmaker, mayor of Minneapolis and practicing attorney. He also served, if we recall correctly, on the Metropolitan Airport Commission.

What excuse can even the most partisan of voters have for supporting a candidate who by his own admission knows nothing about the office he seeks and has no qualifications to serve in that capacity over one who is experienced, well educated and highly trained for the post?

It's a mystery how Mr. Youngdahl got through the DFL primary over other more qualified candidates. If he gets through the general election it will be more than a mystery—it will be a disaster.

Hire the Handicapped

This week serves to focus attention on activities which are carried on by many organizations throughout the year to help the disabled worker return to gainful employment. To call the attention of the employers and the nation to the valuable contributions being made by our handicapped workers, and to encourage employers to hire on the basis of ability to do the job and to discount the applicant's disability. Handicapped workers make excellent employees!

The handicapped person is a human being. He wants to live and take his place in society as a citizen. Unless he is able to work, he will have to be supported by public funds. All he asks is that the employer consider him on the basis of his ability, not his disability! Studies of employed workers have proven that when placed in suitable employment, they are as good or better than their non-handicapped co-workers.

Should you have an opening that a physically handicapped worker can fill, call your nearest state employment office. They will assist you in filling your opening with a capable, qualified applicant.

If you know of an employable handicapped veteran who is having difficulty in finding and holding a job, have him get in touch with the veterans employment representative at the nearest state employment office. He will provide testing, counseling and guidance services and other means to assist him in finding and holding suitable employment.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Is this a healthy town?" inquired the home-seeker of a local resident.

"Yes, certainly," was the answer. "When I came here I hadn't the strength to utter a word; I had scarcely a hair on my head; I couldn't walk across the room, and I had to be lifted from my bed."

"You give me hope!" cried the home-seeker with enthusiasm. "How long have you lived here?"

"I was born here," replied the native.

At a recent political meeting a well-known Republican was speaking. He remarked that his method of obtaining votes for the Republican Party was to give every taxi driver a large tip, then tell him, "Vote Republican."

"I think my way is better," said a party colleague. "I give them no tip and tell them, 'Vote Democratic'."

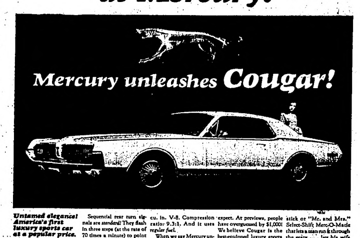
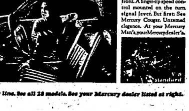
Look what's happening at Mercury!
Mercury unleashes Cougar!





Untamed elegance! America's first luxury sports car at a popular price.
This is the day of the Cougar. An entirely new kind of driving machine from Mercury.
Mercury Cougar is a true luxury car. With an ice-cool elegance. With a European flair and thrust to its styling. With a roomy, full-width rear seat! With standard features found, until now, only in expensive cars. Examples:
Sequential rear turn signals are standard! They flash in three steps (at the rate of 70 times a minute) to point the way you're turning.
And in a car this luxurious, you'd expect a V-8 engine. Cougar has it. A 289 cu. in. V-8. Compression ratio: 9.3:1. And it uses regular fuel.
When we say Mercury unleashes Cougar, we mean it. Cougar is a superb sports car. It moves on cat feet. Tracks true. Rides smoother, quieter.
The price? Less than you'd expect. At previews, people have overguessed by $1,000! We believe Cougar is the best-equipped luxury sports car for the money.
And at Cougar's price, you can indulge yourself in such better-idea options as: Styled steel wheels. 4-speed stick or "Mr. and Mrs." Select-Shift Merc-O-Matic that lets a man run through the gears . . . lets his wife leave it in automatic. Also a 4-barrel Marauder 390 GT V-8. Vinyl-covered Oxford Roof. Sports Console.
Also: Tilt-Away steering wheel. Power-disc-brakes up front. A finger-tip speed control mounted on the turn signal lever. But first: See Mercury Cougar. Untamed elegance. At your Mercury Man's, your Mercury dealer's.

Opposing Views Aired At Candidate Series

Residents of the Thief River Falls area heard two sides of the gubernatorial contest campaign within several days at the Chamber of Commerce "Meet the Candidate" meeting held at the Elks club rooms. Speakers were Harold LeVander, Republican candidate for governor, and Robert Short, DFL candidate for lieutenant governor.

LeVander spoke at a breakfast session Thursday when more than 100 people turned out for the 7:30 a. m. meeting. Short was the speaker Tuesday noon at a luncheon meeting with approximately 100 people in attendance.

LeVander Talk

Exhibiting some of the oratory which won for him acclaim as a debater in his college days, LeVander told the audience Thursday morning that his travels throughout Minnesota have revealed the public is "tired of patronage, scandal and lack of leadership" and has a strong desire for "honest, sincere, decisive leadership."

He said it is most essential that every act of the state be governed by principle and not political expediency. "I am more concerned about having a good society in Minnesota than a 'great society'," LeVander stated.

Stressing the theme that the people "want to be proud of Minnesota again", the GOP candidate asked: "Are we proud of the insurance situation" in the state where questions about the governor's involvement in the Allied Insurance scandal have gone unanswered? "Are we proud of the way the election was won in the first place? Are we proud of our patchwork highway system?" he asked.

Gov. Rolvaag has repeatedly professed his interest in institutions and education, LeVandar noted, but does not mention his cut-back of four and one-half per cent in state school aids and five per cent in state institutions because of a shortage of funds which the governor anticipated but did not materialize. "He claimed a shortage when none existed, and now he takes credit for a surplus," the GOP hopeful said.

LeVander said a more effective program of traffic safety must be developed in the state. The loss of population— 100,000 in the past 10 years—must also be halted.

"My opponent has taken credit for the junior college program and passage of the taconite amendment," LeVander said. "The governor had nothing whatsoever to do with the junior college program; it was a product of the conservative legislature. And the governor was opposed to the taconite amendment until it appeared the measure would pass. The surplus in the income tax fund for which he takes credit is a result of $750 million

Mrs. Rolvaag To Show Slides of Governor's House

Mrs. Karl F. Rolvaag will show slides of the governor's mansion in St. Paul at a special meeting open to the public on Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Elks club rooms. Mrs. Clarence Joringdal is making local arrangements for the showing which is sponsored by the Pennington County Women Volunteers for Rolvaag.

"The session is not a political meeting but rather an educational forum," Mrs. Joringdal said. "Mrs. Rolvaag has had slides made of the new governor's house, and will comment on the history of some of the collector's items pictured in the series."

Coffee and cookies will be served by the sponsoring organization and all interested persons are encouraged to attend the slide showing.

TRF Employment Shows Gains in Third Quarter

Employment in Thief River Falls as of mid-September showed a substantial gain over mid-June, according to R. S. Eldevik, manager of the local office of the Minnesota State Employment service. Total employment was 3,092 an increase of 268 from mid-June.

Manufacturing was up 117 as a result of the reopening of the Land O'Lakes turkey processing plant for the processing season, and government employment was up as a result of the opening of schools. Local trade showed a minor loss with all other categories showing minor gains.

Construction employment was up from 209 to 222 because of local street work and building projects, Eldevik said. Employment was expected to remain about the same until the end of October.

The supply of workers as of mid-September was very limited. Labor supply was expected to increase by mid-November when cold weather will have curtailed construction employment and turkey processing will be completed. The only available labor supply as of mid-September was college and vocational students, the manager noted.

An increased demand for sales and office workers is expected during the fourth quarter of the year. Statistics for employment by industry in the city were listed as follows:

Industrial Group	June 1966	Sept. 1966
Total	2825	3093
Local trade	1067	1061
Service	612	612

Finance	99	104

Police Check on Death of Cats

City police are investigating possible causes of the deaths of a number of cats in a small neighborhood area in the southeastern part of the city, according to Chief Elton Cumming.

A neighborhood survey showed that nine cats had died and four others were sick, Chief Cummings said, and only a limited investigation was made. One of the cats which had died recently was referred to the local veterinarian for analysis as to possible poisoning.

Although there is no proof of poisoning at this time, the chief said, the high incidence of death and illness among cats in a restricted area of the city indicates such a possibility.

Dr. H. P. Wendt, city health officer, has suggested that parents of young children in the area be warned of the possibility of poisoned food being left outdoors where it could be found by children. He said that further announcement would be made following clinical examination of the cat that has been referred for study.

Lions Will Again Host Children at Hallowe'en Event

Preliminary plans have been made by a four-man committee of the Thief River Falls Lions club for the annual Hallowe'en party for area youngsters, according to B. F. Contos, general chairman.

Grades one through six in the local school system will be given a free movie at the Falls Theatre, grades 7, 8 and 9 will have a skating party at the city arena and senior high, vocational and junior college students are invited to a dance in the city auditorium.

Committeemen and their responsibilities include James Carlson, dance; Neil McEwen, movie; and Jon Larson, roller skating. More details will be announced later, the chairman said.

Late Buses Will Begin Operation At Schools Mon.

Late busses will begin returning rural youngsters in the junior and senior high schools to their homes following extra curricular activities on Monday. A maximum of four buses will operate in the program which was recently authorized by the board of education on an experimental basis.

Buses will leave Franklin junior high school at 6 p. m. and Lincoln senior high school at 6:15 p. m. each school day, according to Neil Taverna and Richard Edlund, principals of the respective schools. West side students who wish to do so may ride the buses from Franklin to Lincoln.

Edlund emphasized that the transportation will be provided only for those students participating in school-sponsored activities. Schedules are being arranged to permit as many extra curricular activities as possible to be held in the two hours following dismissal of classes at the schools.

Buses leaving the schools at 6 or 6:15 p. m. will not have a set route or time schedule, since this will be dependent upon the students who choose to ride the buses. Students or parents with questions on the program are asked to contact the principal's office at either Franklin or Lincoln schools.

Turnout Larger Than Expected; Big Margin Noted

Voters of the Thief River Falls school district gave overwhelming support at the polls Tuesday to two bond issue questions proposed by the board of education. A total of 1,737 ballots was cast—far from the record of 3,202 set on March 5, 1963, but considered by the board to be a large turnout and a representative view of public thinking.

Question No. 1, which asked authorization of $330,000 in bonds for a new vocational - technical school carried by a margin of just over six to one at 1,490 "yes" votes to 247 "no" votes. Question no. 2, asking authorization of $200,000 in bonds for an indoor swimming pool addition to Franklin junior high school, carried by almost two to one at 1,130 "yes" votes to 597 "no" votes.

None of the 1,737 ballots cast on the vocational - technical school question was spoiled, it was revealed by the canvass of ballots conducted by the board of education following the election count. There was only one spoiled ballot in the 1,728 votes cast on the swimming pool question.

Board members expressed both surprise and satisfaction over the turnout of voters, since very little public discussion on either question was offered prior to the election. Contrary to the situation which existed in 1963 when a $1,495,000 bond issue for a new junior high school and elementary school was passed, there was no organized opposition to either question on the ballot this year.

In 1962 the junior high school and elementary plan was defeated 1,750 to 1,354 as 3,104 ballots were cast. A second attempt at passage immediately following that election brought a smaller turnout but a larger measure of rejection. On March 5, 1963, the record turnout of 3,202 voters were noted as the junior high school measure passed 1,676 to 1,508 and the elementary school passed 1,641 to 1,473.

"A much more positive attitude was exhibited by the voters in Tuesday's election on the vocational-technical school and swimming pool addition," stated M. R. Hankerson, superintendent of schools. "The favorable margin on both questions clearly indicates the desires of members of the district. Members of the board have asked me to express for them their appreciation to the voters for their support and to volunteer citizens who assisted in distributing information on the two questions."

The board will now consult further with its architects—the firm of Jyring and Whiteman of Hibbing—prior to having final plans and specifications drawn up for the two projects. Upon approval of final plans, the district will call for bids in hopes that construction can be underway early next year.

Context of the questions approved at the election Tuesday was as

Lawson and Chwialkowski Vows Exchanged At Stephen

Miss Mary Ann Margaret Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lawson of Thief River Falls, and Ralph P. Chwialkowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chwialkowski of Stephen, exchanged marriage vows at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, September 13, at the St. Stephen Catholic church in Stephen. Rev. George Clemen officiated at the double ring ceremony with Miss Paulette Price as organist.

For the ceremony attended by approximately 250 relatives and friends, bouquets of white gladioli accented with plum tinted carnations flanked the altar. The pews were marked with foliage and large satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of rayon crepe designed in empire fashion with a detachable full length train. Alencon lace enhanced the scoop neckline and high-rise waistline. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was held by a fabric petal headpiece outlined with seed pearls and centered with a crystal tear drop. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with deep pink sweetheart roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Cathie Lawson of Minneapolis. Other attendants were another sister, Judy Lawson of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Fred Billings of Lake Bronson, sister of the groom. They were attired in empire fashioned floor-length gowns styled with plum colored rayon velvet bodices topping softly gathered slim skirts of pink rayon crepe. A garland of flowers encircled the waistline. Their headpieces were Empress tiaras of clear rhinestones hand-set in Silverton metal and each carried a crescent arrangement of pale pink roses accented by deep pink roses.

Dave Chwialkowski attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Lawson of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, and Fred Billings of Lake Bronson; brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Herman Knoll and Richard Pawloski, brother-in-laws of the bride and groom, respectively. They wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a two piece deep pink knit suit with beige accessories. The groom's mother wore a three piece, plum-colored knit ensemble with matching shoes and white accessories. Their corsages were plum tinted carnations with white miniature mums.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was catered at the American Legion hall by Mrs. Jacob Stich, Mrs. Otto Benson, Mrs. Bernard Holgrapher, and Mrs. Art Laudal. Mrs. Kenneth Knoll of Karlstad, sister of the groom, registered the guests while Mrs. Richard Pawloski and Mrs. Eugene Chwialkowski of Strandquist, sister and sister-in-law, respectively of the groom, presided at the punch bowl.

Centering the bridal table was a diamond shaped, three-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with plum colored roses and topped with a floral cross. Streamers extended from the top of the cross to two miniature diamond shaped cakes on either side. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Mike Chwialkowski of Stephen, godmother of the groom, and Miss Margaret Giefer of Minneapolis, godmother of the bride.

Assisting at the gift table were Mrs. Melroy Clark of Moorhead, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Herman Knoll of Stephen, sister of the bride. Waitresses were LeMae and Kay Cryskiewicz and Mary Lou Holgrapher of Stephen together with Kathy Bacon, Marcy Forsberg and Peggy Walders of Thief River Falls.

Friends and relatives attending the wedding were from Seattle, Wash.; Grand Forks, N. D.; Moorhead Karlstad, Lake Bronson, Thief River Falls, Anoka, Argyle, Strandquist and Nicollet.

For the wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells, Milwaukee, Wis., and the Twin Cities, the bride wore a two-piece pink suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses.

New Twist Given to Butter Promotion

First shots are being fired this week in an all-out offensive to recapture customers for the dairy industry's "balance wheel" product—butter.

Promotion weapons, ammunition and strategy are being tested for accuracy and effectiveness in three great target areas simultaneously. The markets are the Twin Cities (Minneapolis - St. Paul); Milwaukee, Wis.; and Des Moines, Ia. If successful, the "battle for butter" blueprint will be used in larger markets throughout the nation in 1967.

Dairy farmers are financing the quarter-million dollar test campaign, which they regard as a kind of "holy war" against butter imitations. American Dairy association has mapped the strategy and is calling the promotional shots.

Whatever the results, the test-market battles have both immediate and long-range ramifications for the dairy industry—both in the Midwest and nationally, according to ADA of Minnesota.

Butter, historically, is the economic "balance wheel" of the dairy industry—the product upon which the price of all other dairy products is based. Moreover, butter accounts for some 23 per cent of the total milk utilization (fluid milk accounts for about 50 per cent) and will realize more than one billion dollars in commercial sales nationally this year.

Strategy of the new butter promotion offensive calls for saturation bombardment of consumers in the test markets with television commercials and newspaper ads. . .coupled with intensive point-of-purchase (in-store) merchandising.

"Better with Butter" is the campaign theme. Spokesman, both in print and tv versions, is comedian George Gobel.

The campaign hammers on butter's superior flavor and quality—which dairy promoters believe can best be demonstrated by use of butter in and on hot foods.

Exploiting Gobel's comedy talents, the ads and commercials are expected to score high in consumer acceptance by virtue of their entertainment. (For example, in one commercial, after nearly a minute of the "Better with Butter" pitch, Gobel admits there MAY be exceptions: when he finds that his wife, "Spooky Alice," has served him a slice of cold watermelon with three parts of butter on it.)

Will it work?

"We honestly don't know," says Cliff Markuson, ADA of Minnesota manager. "Butter has been taking it on the chin ever since the 'Guns or Butter' days of World War II when our product was put on the food ration list. Now we're going to fire some big 'guns FOR butter' in an effort to get our market back. It's a case of try-your-best-and-hope."

Markuson pointed out that Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa rank one-two-three in butter production and all enjoy above-average per capita butter consumption.

"If we can prove that promotion can boost butter sales in areas where sales already are above average, we should be on our way," Markuson said. "Our big job is to reinforce the loyalty of present butter customers. . .and show those who've left us what they've been missing."

National per capita consumption of butter has declined gradually from nine pounds to 6.5 pounds during the past 20 years.

(Best figures available indicate the current per capita consumption of butter is about 8.5 pounds in the Twin Cities market and up to 10 pounds in non-metropolitan Minnesota.)

"Since Minnesota produces about one-fourth (352 million pounds in 1965) of all butter churned in the nation, our dairy producers and industry people have the biggest stake in the new butter offensive," Markuson says. "Acutally, all of Minnesota has a big stake in this undertaking, because with 80 per cent of our total dairy production being exported, the results could mean millions of dollars in additional income for our state over the longhaul. Furthermore, these market tests will have to be considered of national significance because as butter goes, so goes the dairy industry."

ADA officials emphasized. . .that the new test program for butter will be carried on over and above the butter promotion which is part of ADA's current nationwide program of advertising and promotion for all dairy products.

Langen Requests Resignation of Orville Freeman

"In view of the serious charges made against Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman by former agriculture department executive Frank Le Roux, the secretary should immediately submit his resignation," declared Congressman Odin Langen, chairman of the House Republican Task Force on agriculture. Langen's remarks were contained in a statement made before the House of Representatives following a published article by Clark Mollenhoff of the Minneapolis Tribune and Des Moines Register.

Langen noted that Le Roux, who resigned last week as general sales manager of the department of agriculture told reporter Mollenhoff that he not only had knowlege of Freeman's personal interest in "driving down the price of wheat, corn, pork and other agriculture products," but that Freeman actually launched a four-stage drive to cut wheat prices.

Le Roux outlined the four steps as (1) a cut-back in the sales abroad under the P. L. 480 program; (2) an announcement of an increase of about 7.7-million wheat acres, designed to lower prices; (3) an announcement of an enormous world wheat crop prediction that Le Roux said was completely false; (4) and finally an announcement of an additional increase in wheat acreage of about five million acres. Le Roux declared that Freeman and his assistant secretary knowingly took the four steps to cut wheat prices, and said they were successful in dropping the market 25 or 30 cents in the last month.

"These new charges substantiate the observations many of us have made for months," Langen said, "that the administration has launched a war on farmers." Langen noted Le Roux's attempts to get the White House to intervene in the agriculture department's efforts to drive down the farm prices, before he made his findings public.

"It is now obvious that the administration either condones, or is directing such tactics. Either way, the secretary of agriculture has outlived his usefulness to either the American farmer or the consumers of the nation. This is consumer politics at its worst, and the secretary should be promptly put to pasture."

Candidates Give Opposing Views At TRF Meetings

investment in business of the state, $500 million of which is in the taconite industry."

LeVander asked for real estate tax relief for the aged, solutions to the problem of only 12 per cent of beginning teachers still teaching after 10 years, and tax reform to lower real estate taxes and correct personal property tax enequities.

He proposed formation of a "blue ribbon committee" similar to that in Wisconsin which eliminated $33 million in state expenditures without reduction of state services. The candidate pledged his cooperation to the legislature and said his efforts for 30 years had been directed toward pulling divergent groups together.

Talk by Short

Robert E. Short, DFL candidate for lieutenant governor, said here Tuesday that the November 8 general election will affect the future of Minnesota more than any election in the state's history.

Short said that no state election has ever placed so much responsibility on the voters. The choice that the voters make, he said, can influence the course of progress for many generations.

"Time is running out for the legislature to take action on tax reform and reorganization of government," Short said. "If the legislature, at the next session, does not provide for effective tax reform and intelligent reorganization of government, we may never recover from the consequences."

The voters of Minnesota should realize, Short said, that never in history has it been more significant to decide whether the leadership of government should be in liberal or conservative hands.

The record of Governor Rolvaag's administration, Short said, has been clearly established. "There has been outstanding performance in education, conservation, fiscal management, programs for the mentally ill and mentally retarded, and in all other fields of government service. On the other hand, the Republican candidates have presented no positive programs. They have been evasive on major issues. They have attempted to disguise their roles as conservatives, and they have been content to concentrate all of their efforts of the current campaign on deception and sham."

Short predicted that the voters will not be deceived. "I cannot believe," he said, "that the people of Minnesota will place the future of this state in the hands of office-seekers who hold to a political philosophy that has been rejected, time and again, in favor of an administration that has given Minnesota its greatest prosperity and greatest record of progress in history."

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

Last week as I turned on the radio right after noon I happened to get the re-broadcast of the campaign talk given by Mr. LeVander, the Republican candidate for Governor. According to Mr. LeVander, everthing was wrong and neglected in the state of Minnesota. However, he failed to call attention to the fact that our Legislature, which is our law-making body is entirely dominated and controlled by the Republicans. If there is so much wrong in the state, then the fault must lie with our legislature which makes the laws.

Of course we all want a good, clean and law-abiding state government. I am sure we all agree on that. That is why our state administration got busy as soon as this insurance trouble came up. That is why the $2,000 campaign contribution that worried Mr. LeVander so much was refused and returned as soon as it appeared that it probably came from an insurance corporation. But why did Mr. LeVander have so little to say about the return of this money? Why try to ignore the return? Was he trying to make up a political smear out of this?

Also, we would like to know just why Mr. LeVander had little or nothing to say about the investigation that was made and the prosecutions that resulted. Why didn't Mr. LeVander tell his listeners that as a result of the co-operation of state and federal governments and the investigation that was made the insurance companies are now dissolved and out of business, and seventeen (17) defendants are now awaiting trial in federal courts on this matter?

Naturally before you start a prosecution you must investigate and get the facts and the proof. This of course takes some time. But investigations were made, and action was taken. Prosecutions were taken, and are now pending in court, awaiting trial. What more could be done? The insurance companies are now dissolved and out of business, the companies are now dissolved and out of business, the campaign is returned and refused, and seventeen (17) defendants are under prosecution. What more could our Republican friend Mr. LeVander have done? Why is he so anxious to make a political football of this matter? Governor Rolvaag has done his duty fully and completey.

In a state political campaign it is well to remember that in Minnesota our Republican legislature has something to say about what is to be done. All that we need to do is to remember the fight that we had in the last session of the legislature over the matter of re-districting, when the legislature tried to deprive the farmers and the county districts of their fair share of the representation on our law making body. Let us remember how a few of the standpat members of the legislature brought an action in court and tried to deprive the Governor of his veto power, so that they could legislate and re-district in their own way.

Mr. LeVander should keep in mind that if our laws are old and outdated then the fault lies with the legislature. Then he should take his Republican members of the legislature to the woodshed for a spanking. While he is busy spanking in the woodshed, let us all go to the polls on election day and vote for Karl F. Rolvaag, Walter F. Mondale and all the rest of the Farmer-Labor candidates.

Very truly yours,
H. O. Berve,
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Mrs. William Rupprecht and Candice accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Art Grandstrand of Viking motored to Stephen Wednesday where they visited at the Dora Hopper home.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Epilepsy often misunderstood

Centuries-old superstitions and ignorance often inhibit public understanding of the disorder known as epilepsy. Yet the disease is about as common as tuberculosis or diabetes. Approximately 2 million people in the United States are victims of this brain disorder which causes various kinds of convulsions or seizures.

According to the Minnesota State Medical Association, an epileptic seizure is the outward sign of an abnormal release of energy in the brain. These seizures may take various forms. The most common type is the grand mal seizure characterized by an appearance of fainting and violent convulsions. Children and adolescent epileptics are often afflicted with petit mal (pronounced petty-mahl) seizures—brief, but frequent loss of consciousness, during which the eyes may blink rhythmically, or the arms jerk. A third common type of seizure is the psychomotor seizure. This kind of epileptic attack is a period of unusual or bizarre behavior which the victim generally does not remember.

Epilepsy may result from brain injury before or during birth, from a virus infection such as meningitis, from a tumor in the brain, or from any damage to the cells of the brain any time during a person's life. In fact, almost everyone is subject to a seizure if the cells of the brain are irritated enough.

Contrary to the widespread belief the disorder itself is not inherited. A tendency to acquire epilepsy may be hereditary in the same manner as some families have a tendency toward high blood pressure.

With medical treatment, says the State Association, the epileptic can work, marry, have children, participate in sports, and do practically anything his non-epileptic neighbor can do. Unfortunately, public misunderstanding, rather than his epileptic seizures, often prevent him from doing so.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Circled in Crayon

The Canadian National hockey squad, based in Winnipeg, is eager to continue its preparations for the world hockey tournament at Vienna, Austria. But they are having difficulty in arranging a competent schedule of games.

Their playing schedule has a number of dates circled, in pencil, subject to erasing, but one game, which is circled in crayon, and which will be played in Winnipeg, is the game against coach John Mariucci's American squad. This game is slated for Sunday afternoon, November 20. For local senior hockey fans who are interested in seeing the United States team in action against top-flight opponents, this is the game. Coach Mariucci will have such boys as Don Foss of Roseau and University of North Dakota, Billy Reichardt of Rochester, and perhaps the Christian brothers, Roger and Billy, on the American squad.

The United States squad will be engaging in their practice sessions in South St. Paul's Wakota arena. And an indication that the Twin Cities area is booming hockey-wise is given by a note I received stating that 204 hockey games will be played in the Wakota arena this season. In fact, the first non-conference high school hockey game will be played there on November 26 when the Eveleth Golden Bears meet the South St. Paul Packers.

It's a fact that the Twin Cities area, on the high school level, is "catching up" with the high school hockey squads in the northern part of the state. And one of the reasons is the number of artificial ice rinks that have been and are being built down there.

But don't forget that November 20 date, when the U. S. Nationals play the Canadian Nationals at Winnipeg.

Touch Football

The Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears of the National Football league didn't play a more bitterly - contested game on Sunday than the "touch" football game played at the fairgrounds on Monday night between the Bridgeman's and the Noreen's. The Bridgeman's, on a second-half rally, defeated the Noreens', 14-7.

The Noreen's, playing without the services of their center, and sponsor, Kenny Noreen, gained an early 7-0 lead. Dennis Bakke was the quarterback for the Noreens', and he was hitting such targets as DelRay Offerdahl, Dwight Tangquist and Lowell Halvorson. The Noreen's had to "draft" a sideline spectator, Roger Nygaard, to complete their lineup and there were several occasions when it was doubtful if Roger could make it back to the huddle!

The Bridgeman's, with rangy Elton Hornseth putting on a strong rush, and with Rick Jensen directing the play, came back from that first-half deficit to gain the win.

With the tough competitors playing in the game, on both squads, there were times when I thought a "riot" call whould have been in to the local law enforcement crew. The boys hate to lose—the Noreen's and the Bridgeman's.

Miscellany

It is evident that a standing-room-only crowd will be on hand at Grand Forks on Saturday afternoon, when, at 1:30 p.m., the North Dakota Sioux meet the Bison of North Dakota State. The two teams are among the top-rated in the smaller college field, with the Bison from Fargo being given and nod over coach Marv Helling's North Dakota squad. It has been several years, or quite a number of years I should say, that the rivalry in football between the two major North Dakota schools has been so intense. Back in the days when such former Prowler athletes as Gordon and Rich Dahlow played with coach Jack West's famed Sioux teams, the North Dakota series was explosive. . . .One of the top golfers in Winnipeg junior ranks is Rod Lindquist. Lindquist is one of the twin sons of Vic Lindquist, the ice hockey referee who is well-known here, and on Saturday he led the University of Manitoba golf squad to the western Canada intercollegiate golf championship. Vic is pretty proud of the golf accomplishments of young Rod. And the two boys are capable ice hockey players, too.

Prowlers Third In Region Eight Cross-Country

Fifty-six cross-country runners, representing eight high schools, participated in the Region Eight cross-country competition held at Crookston on Monday afternoon. Coach A. J. Kramer's Roseau Rams, the pre-tourney favorite, won the regional title with a total of 29 points. The Bemidji Lumberjacks won runnerup honors with a total of 67 points and coach Roger Solheim's Prowlers gained third place with a total of 74 points. Other team totals were: Park Rapids, 98; Middle River, 141; Crookston, 153; Bagley, 175; and Fosston, 207. The first place winner, Roseau, and the runnerup, Bemidji, will participate in the state cross-country meet at the University of Minnesota on Saturday, October 29.

Roseau, in winning the title in convincing fashion, had five runners placing in the "top ten", with Ray Grindahl in first place and John Lindberg gaining second place. The Prowlers' Gary LaValley finished in third place and gained an entry in the state tournament. In fourth place was Rod Forbes of Park Rapids; and in fifth place was Tom Beltz of Bagley. Forbes and Beltz, finishing in the first five, also gained berths in the state tournament.

Other finishers in the "Top ten" were Carl Draheim, Bemidji; Galen Lisell, Roseau; Bob Museus, Bemidji; Dee Erickson Roseau; and Terry Olson, Roseau.

The Prowlers point-winners, in addition to LaValley's third-place finish, were Jim Gibson, 13th; Larry Johnson, 14th; Chuck Bedard, 21st; and Doug Knutson, 23rd.

Hunting Season Calls for Caution On Rural Roads

Hunting season calls for special precautions on our roads and highways, Highway Patrol Chief John Harbinson warned today.

"During the next several weeks, thousands of hunters, most of whom are accustomed to driving in the city and on main trunk highways, will be using the secondary highways and rural roads. Not only will the traffic be heavier on these roads, there will be more drivers unaccustomed to the special conditions encountered there. There is also the possibility of unfavorable weather and driving conditions.

"Rural trunk highways and county and township roads have approximately 22 per cent of all traffic accidents and one fourth of all personal injuries, but two thirds of all traffic fatalities. They have the highest fatality rates per mile of travel.

"Drivers should keep in mind that when they leave the rural freeways and main trunks special conditions call for special caution. The first is that much local traffic is likely to be present, moving at a much slower speed than prevails on the main highways. Guide signs and traffic controls may be lacking, so it is not safe to take them for granted.

"Finally, many of the hazards that have been eliminated on the freeways and main highways are still to be found on the rural roads- the sharp turn, the unmarked four-way intersection, the blind curves and rises, and, occasionally, the pothole.

"It is not only important, it could be a matter of life and death, for the driver leaving main highways to keep these hazards in mind and adjust his speed and attention accordingly."

Poll State Bar On Judge Choices

Results of the Minnesota State Bar association preference poll of judges and practicing lawyers of the State of Minnesota for the two contests for associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court were announced today by David C. Donnelly, chairman of the association's judicial selection committee.

Martin A. Nelson, incumbent associate justice and member of the court since July of 1953, received a preference of 2,513 votes against 218 for his opponent, Minneapolis attorney William G. Dressel.

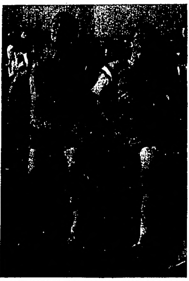
WINNING first place in the Region Eight cross-country meet at Crookston on Monday afternoon was Roseau's Ray Grindahl. Sophomore Grindahl toured the 1.9 mile course in 9:36 as he led coach A. J. Kramer's Roseau Rams to the regional team title. The Rams scored 29 points to outdistance the second place Bemidji squad's 67 points.



STRIDE-FOR-STRIDE are Prowlers Larry Johnson, left, and Jim Gibson in the Region Eight cross-country meet at Crookston on Monday. Gibson edged out his teammate to gain 13th place in the meet, with Johnson finishing 14th. The Prowlers scored 74 points for third place in the team standings.

Bemidji Win in Wednesday Game Would Mean Title

The Bemidji Lumberjacks, already assured of a tie for the conference title, can clinch a fifth successive Northwest conference football championship by scoring a win over an improving Prowlers squad at Bemidji on Wednesday evening. The game, which will be played on the Bemidji State college field, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

In last week's play coach Jim Sims' Prowlers surprised a favored Roseau Rams club to record a 49 to 18 win over the Rams at Roseau. Gary Almquist, Nickie Drees and Karl Poppenhagen, each with two touchdowns, led the Prowler scoring splurge. And Rod Collver scored a touchdown. Five of these touchdowns were triggered by the passing of quarterback Bob Brodin.

The Bemidji Lumberjacks, with quarterback Bob Boyer passing and running for touchdowns, defeated the Crookston Pirates, 40 to 20.

Great River Road To Be Depicted On 5-Cent Stamp

Mississippi River Parkway commission of Minnesota announces that the postmaster general has authorized a five-cent stamp commemorating the Great River road. The stamp is to be issued October 21.

The five-cent stamp commemorates the longest parkway in the world, stretching from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, a distance of 5,600 miles.

In Minnesota, the Great River Road follows the Mississippi river from the Iowa border to the Twin Cities. From the Twin Cities to Lake of the Woods, the road follows the river frontage and lakeshore with occasional stretches through evergreen forests.

Ceremonies for the issuing of the stamp on October 21 are scheduled for Baton Rouge, La. The parkway commission urges all Minnesotans to use this stamp liberally to promote one of the greatest tourist attractions in Minnesota.

Oklee Wins Over Plummer To Lead Grid Conference

Two fourth quarter touchdowns by Richard Bluemke gave Oklee a 12-7 win over Plummer Tuesday in the battle for supremacy in the Tri-County conference. Both teams had carried undefeated records into the game at Plummer.

The game had all the thrills of a championship contest. After a scoreless first half marked by some rugged defensive play, Plummer scored in the third period when Bob Martell returned a punt 85 yards for a touchdown. Martell also tallied the conversion attempt and the Cardinals carried a 7-0 margin into the final quarter.

Oklee took to the air in the fourth period and Bluemke scored on a 45-yard pass play to bring his team within one point of Plummer. The extra point try failed and Plummer held a 7-6 margin.

Oklee gained the win with two minutes and seven seconds of the game remaining when Bluemke plunged into the endzone from one yard out to cap the Bobcat scoring march. Again the conversion attempt failed. Oklee now has a conference record of seven wins without a loss while Plummer has five wins and one loss in conference play. The Bobcats shaded Goodridge 14-13 last Friday while the Cardinals rolled over McIntosh 43-13.

State To Receive $1,137,017 from Federal Gov't.

Minnesota will receive $1,137,017 as its share of federal land and water conservation funds for fiscal year 1967, the conservation department reported today.

The funds are to be used for the purpose of acquiring and developing outdoor recreation areas and facilities. By law, the local units of government are to receive 50 per cent of the state allocation with state agencies receiving the other half.

Each county in Minnesota and the three cities of the first class—Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul—have now received an apportionment from the state allocation for the fiscal year of 1967.

The distribution of funds is based on a formula which takes population into account. The smallest apportionment available to any of the 90 local units of government under the formula is approximately $2,800 and the largest is $42,731.

The $511,651 apportionment to local units in fiscal year 1967 added to the amount apportioned in fiscal year 1966 brings to $1,264,117 the amount now available to municipalities and counties for outdoor recreational and acquisition and development.

In addition there is $140,464, or 10 per cent of the total funds available to local units for fiscal years '65, '66 and '67 which is reserved for use on local projects with exceptionally high state need, according to the state plan.

In order to qualify for participation in this federal program, counties and cities of the first class must present a comprehensive outdoor recreation plan, or they may present evidence that such a plan is being prepared and will be submitted by Dec. 31, 1966.

The land and water conservation act funds are derived from a federal tax on fuel used in marine motors, sales of surplus federal property and sales of permits for the use of certain federal recreation areas.

Fresh Fruit and Vegetables Give Needed Vitamins

Fresh fruits and vegetables in current supply at local markets can add interesting color and flavor to autumn meals.

They are also important for their food value—particularly as sources of vitamins C and A which contribute to growth and proper functioning of the body, say extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota.

Four or more servings of fruits and vegetables recommended for each person daily should include fruits and vegetables high in both vitamins C and A, the nutritionists point out.

Although citrus fruit is the best source of vitamin C, good sources at this time of year include broccoli, green peppers and cantaloupe. Tomatoes, tomato juice, raw cabbage and potatoes cooked in their jackets provide fair amounts of vitamin C. During the fall it is easy to substitute two fair sources of vitamin C for one good source. Since vitamin C cannot be stored in the body, it is necessary to eat foods containing this vitamin each day.

Dark green or deep yellow vegetables are rich in vitamin A. Squash, carrots, broccoli and cantaloupe are all good sources of this vitamin. At least every other day meals should include a serving of a dark green or deep yellow vegetable or fruit rich in vitamin A. Since vitamin A can be stored in the body, what is eaten one day can be used the next, according to the nutritionists.

Such autumn fruits and vegetables as pears, grapes, apples, celery cauliflower and parsnips add variety to meals and will help fulfill the requirement of four fruits and vegetables daily, even though they may not make an important contribution in vitamins A and C.

Roseau Hospital Adopts Minimum Wage Schedule

A minimum wage of $1.25 per hour for full-time employees was adopted by the Roseau area hospital district board of directors at reported this week. The board emphasized that an extreme shortage of qualified non-professional applicants, plus the ever increasing demand for more professional

The hospital and nursing home will be covered under the federal minimum wage law beginning February 1, 1967, and the increase in wages will be financed in part by a $2 increase in room rates, it was stated.

In explaining the increase, hospital administrator James Shipley said, "if we are going to continue to attract qualified personnel into the health field, we are going to have to adequately pay them for their services."

Central Exchange To Retire Stock

Farmers Union Central exchange supply cooperative, will retire for cash $2,225,000 in patronage refund stock during October. This was announced by General Manager T. H. Steichen who said that over 850 farmer-owned cooperatives from Lake Michigan to the Pacific coast will share in the cash payment; 237 Minnesota co-ops will share $485,000.

Patronage refund stock represents the savings made by cooperatives through purchases of farm supplies from the Central exchange—their own regional purchasing co-ops. The 850 community co-ops are owned by 350,000 midwestern farm families.

Steichen said that the stock retirement was "convincing proof that cooperatives actually realize financial rewards for their members."

The $2,225,000 payment includes the redemption of three per cent of all outstanding patronage stock issued prior to 1965 plus 10 per cent of the 1965 patronage stock. In June, this year, 20 per cent of the 1965 savings, amounting to $1,740,000 was paid in cash. The affiliated companies of the Farmers Union Central exchange will have received a total of $3,966,000 in cash during 1966.

This is the 26th stock retirement in the 35 years of Central exchange operations. Throughout that time the total amount of stock retired has climbed to nearly $47½ million.

VFW Membership Drive Here Seeks 400 Members

Membership drive of Minnesota Veterans of Foreign Wars Post for 1967 will hit its peak on the weekend of October 29-30, according to plans announced by State V. F. W. Commander Robert Pierce of Pine City.

State officials of the organization of overseas combat veterans will visit 19 key areas in Minnesota on that weekend to accept membership reports from the state's 307 V.F.W. posts and to conduct post officer's schools.

VFW Post 2793 in Thief River Falls has its 1967 drive already under way, according to Commander Ben Wold and expects to report a total of 400 members at the time of the state round-up.

Local post officers and members will be attending the school and membership pick-up at McIntosh on Saturday, October 29.

Eligibility for membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars is confined to men with honorable military service who have earned a campaign medal during a United States war or military expedition. Men now serving in Viet Nam are eligible, as are those who have served for the required period of time in any of the other "hot spots" in the cold war.

The Minnesota V.F.W. reached a membership total of over 60,000 in 1966 to establish a new record. This was the 15th consecutive year of membership increase in Minnesota.

Post 2793 plans to break its own membership records in 1967 and has already collected advance dues payment far in advance of any previous year, Wold said. He urged eligible veterans to contact him at the post home to apply for membership.

Teacher Militancy

Writing in a recent issue of "Action", the official monthly bulletin of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers, Dick Bennett comments on teacher militancy, and the "new breed" of teacher. This is part of what he has to say:

"Why the sudden surge of teacher militancy? Why a rash of strikes, pickets, boycotts, sanctions, threats, and mass resignations? Why is a profession which basked in complancency for several centuries with only few notable exceptions suddenly making itself known?

"The reasons are many but are actually rather simple to understand. The 'new breed' of teacher is concerned with his conscience. He knows that he must do something about our schools' inequities, such as overcrowded classrooms, segregation, outdated textbooks, poor relations with school boards, administrative paternalism, lack of good-faith bargaining with school boards, political apathy, preservation of status-quo, poor teacher-training and a host of others.

"The teacher of today is no longer content to wait or to 'proceed with deliberate speed' but realizes that recent gains of negroes, migratory workers, farm laborers, Indians, came after signs of militancy. After centuries of waiting for the 'goodness of man' to correct poor wages, discrimination, and terrible living conditions, the minority groups rebelled. North Minneapolis negro youth got jobs only after they threw bricks through store windows. Watts and Harlem attracted attention only when their residents rebelled.

"Teachers by the thousands are asking for equality and are getting it. Sometimes it takes a strike or a picket line or some serious discussion but they are getting it. It's comforting to know the AFT-MFT has been the leader in this quest for full-status of the teaching profession."

It is interesting to note that the writer of the above editorial mentions a large number of educational problems, but that the MFT publications have given a preponderance of space to collective bargaining and salary negotiations. This question is this: IS the MFT genuinely interested in the education of the state's children or is it laying a double-talk smoke screen to cover advance as one predominant goal of financial affluence for educators?

It is also interesting to note that Bennett attempts to establish the high degree of professionalism in the teaching field when he says, "Perhaps the greatest humiliation a teacher submits to is the annual 'hat in hand' request for next year's salary to a school board who has already established the budget." In the same article, however, he lumps the MFT attitudes and actions with those of unskilled negroes and Indians, migratory workers and farm laborers—none of which, we are sure, he would consider "professional".

What the MFT wants is to maintain the status quo of professionalism which years of dedication have brought to teaching, while obtaining legislation and organization which will enable its member groups to go to school boards with big stick in hand rather than hat in hand.

As distasteful as the MFT approach must be to the average citizen of a school district, little hope can be held that it will not grow. The Minnesota Education association, which is losing some of its moremilitant members to the MFT, is picking up some of the MFT battle cry. Just how long it will be able to hold out as an organization for better education in advance of the "new breed" of teacher is impossible to estimate. We hope it has infinate longevity.

Tell Me Why

Why do sane men rise ere dawn
Has touched the leaf-strewn, frosty lawn,
To pull their creeping longies on
And go hunt ducks?

Why do these men of every age—
Be they half-wit, sane or sage—
Think it's just the "Living rage"
To go hunt ducks?

These poor souls of many kinds—
Why do they shiver in the blinds,
Freeze their fingers and behinds
To shoot some ducks?

Isn't it a wee bit weird
That clean men like their clothing smeared
With mud, and scratch an itchy beard. . . .
And wait for ducks?

Why do they leave a soft, warm bed
For bitter wind and rain instead
To throw a magnum charge of lead
At some poor duck?

Why do they stumble to the sloughs,
Braving branches prone to bruise,
Breathing words unfit to use
In hunting ducks?

What fun is there to scan the skies
With weary, bleary bloodshot eyes
And play the odds that fate defies—
That they'll see ducks?

Why do they huff and puff and wheeze
Through clinging muck up past their knees
Exhausting all their energies
In quest of ducks?

How can they crouch so iron-willed,
So staunchr and yet completely chilled
With hip boots almost water filled
As they hunt ducks?

And if they get a chance to take
A shot and bag a hen or drake,
What good is it for goodness sake?
They don't eat duck.

They reverently hope and pray
That they can give the prey away
And hunt again another day
Just one more duck.

Why do they act like asses so?
Don't ask me, friend, for I don't know.
I'll give it som deep thinking, though—
While I hunt ducks.

A Touchy Subject

If you were to select 50 names at random from the Thief River Falls telephone directory, call each number and ask the head of the household what he believes to be the annual salary of a member of the city council, we doubt you would get more than two correct answers.

One citizen of the community heard that salaries of aldermen had been increased, however, and took the time to do some investigating and some complaining. As a result, the council has been deemed in violation of statute by increasing salaries above a maximum set by law. They must now refund the salaries received in excess of maximum since January or stop drawing monthly salaries until the excess has been cleared from the city's books.

This is both fortunate and unfortunate.

It is fortunate in that the council has been made aware of a law that it in all probability did not know existed. This will result in more careful investigation before taking action in the future.

It is unfortunate in that an action conceived and born in innocence can be made to look like a deliberate attempt to disregard the law. We are convinced that this is not the case.

Thief River Falls, along with four other commenities in Minnesota (East Grand Forks, Red Lake Falls, Melrose and Cloquet) operates under the laws of 1895. The council has a number of limitations imposed by action of the state legislature which can be amended only by the legislature. And the legislature is disposed to make these amendments only if all five communities present a united request for change.

One of these limitations is the salary of council members, set at a maximum of $600 annually a number of years ago. Acting on advice that the council could not raise its own salary, the city fathers voted an increase last year for the following year's council. The budget was set to include annual salaries of $1,200 rather than the $600 maximum set by statute.

The aforementioned citizen—a former city council member—was aware of the law while the present council members apparently were not. It is perhaps fortunate that the error was brought to light as soon as it was, before the amount of money involved accumulated to a much larger sum.

We can sympathize with the city council's belief that a salary increase was both deserved and warranted. The seven men entrusted with operation of the municipality have a thankless, time-consuming and important job. If the maximum salary of $600 per year were twice doubled it would not adequately compensate them for their efforts.

Many, many committee meetings are held during the year, quite a number of them at meal time since aldermen also hold regular employment and have work obligations of their own apart from city business. There is no provision in the statutes for compensation for these meals. They must be paid out of the alderman's pocket or—if you will—from his monthly salary. Countless hours of time are consumed in planning, inspection, discussion and review on the city's many facets of operation.

If the aldermen are guilty of anything, it is in not making a public announcement of the salary increase. This would have brought the matter to the immediate attention of the citizens of the community and it could have been aired openly at that time.

Perhaps this is one instance where the council can see the value of a published report of the city's financial statement. With such a report, the citizens would have no cause for complaint about being unadvised of the city's financial affairs. The same applies to publication of minutes of regular meetings. It's a touchy subject—but something to think about.

In that same five-year period, the annual interest payment on the debt has risen from $9 billion to $13 billion. It helps to put things in proper perspective to understand that this $4 billion increase would finance the school milk program (which the President asked Congress to curtail) for the next 40 years." —Rep. Fifteen million Americans say...
"Our co-ops are links in progress for the private enterprise system"

Who says co-ops are private enterprise? Fifteen million rural and urban Americans. They've learned it the easy way. By doing business with their co-ops. Co-ops are owned by local people. Co-ops are controlled by local people. Co-ops are saving and earning money for these very same people . . . in direct proportion to the amount of business they do at the co-op. Yes, co-ops are links in progress for the private enterprise system. You, too, can move ahead in private enterprise at your co-op: You own it . . . you control it . . . you profit by it . . . when you patronize it!

That's why nine Midwest Governors say...
"We hereby officially proclaim October is Co-op Month"

Who says October is Co-op Month? Nine Midwest governors. They recognize the contributions co-ops have made to the private enterprise system in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. They know that millions of Americans in these states have strengthened their own private enterprise through co-ops. They urge everyone to become better acquainted with co-ops during October Co-op Month.

LEADERSHIP WILL COUNT

The re-apportionment act of 1966 will mean great changes in the Minnesota Legislature. All rural Minnesota as well as northwestern Minnesota will have fewer voices speaking for them.

Rep. Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle farmer, has 14 years Legislative experience. He has served on these important committees during the past session:
- CHAIRMAN—HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS
- RULES
- AGRICULTURE
- REAPPORTIONMENT
- PUBLIC DOMAIN

INTERIM COMMITTEES:
- MINNESOTA OUTDOOR RECREATION RESOURCES
- CHAIRMAN—HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS SUB-COMMITTEE ON MEDICAL SERVICES
- LEGISLATIVE ADVISERY COMMITTEE

As chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee and member of the House Rules Committee, the policy making committee of the House, Rep. Fitzsimons is in a powerful and influential position to secure for Northwestern Minnesota its fair share of the economic growth of Minnesota. This means our fair share of the increases for School Aids, Welfare, Highways, State Parks Agricultural Research and Natural Resource Development.

Yes, Legislative Leadership will count more than ever this coming session. Rep. Richard Fitzsimons has proved his ability to lead during seven terms in office and by his powerful committee positions.

Keep this strong voice speaking for Northwestern Minnesota in the Legislature!
Re-elect Richard W. Fitzsimons
State Representative-Dis. 67A
Inserted and to be paid for by Fitzsimons for Representative Vol. Committee, Duane Gunderson, Argyle, Chairman; Lewellyn Larson, Argyle, Secretary.

Queries Answered on Federal Income Tax

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q — I quit my summer job to go back to school. When is my employer supposed to give me a Form W-2?

A — In your case it should be within 30 days of your final pay day. Be sure to file the Form W-2 with your 1966 tax return. If your total income was under $600 for the year you still have to file to get a refund of income taxes withheld.

Q — I'm buying Series E savings bonds for my child's education. Do I have to report the interest on my return or can I put it on my child's return since he is the owner of the bonds?

A — If your child is listed as the owner of the bonds then he or she is liable for the interest. If your child elects to report the increase in bond value each year, the child should file a return showing this interest and any other income he might have the first year. Then no further return need be filed until the child has $600 income a year. If this election is not made the interest is reported when the bond is cashed.

Q — My employer told me that if I knew how to take shorthand I'd be promoted to secretary. If I took a course for this would the cost be deductible:

A — No. Educational expenses incurred to obtain a promotion or better job do not qualify. If a course is required by your employer to keep your present job the cost be deductible?

Q — You made a mistake in my refund check. Who do I write about it?

A — You should write to our office in St. Paul. When any change is made in a refund an explanation of the change is usually sent. When you receive this, if you have not already, it should answer the question you have about the refund. If your question remains, address your inquiry to Internal Revenue Service, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Q — I'm making more money this year than I expected. Can I change my declaration of estimated tax?

A — Yes. On the reverse side of the estimated tax installment notice you receive there is a place to make a change. Or you may obtain a copy of Form 1040-ES from your local IRS district office and send in an "Amended" return.

If the change occurred after September 1 the amended declaration should be filed by Jan. 16, 1967.

Q — Will your teaching taxes program be offered to schools again this year?

A — Yes, it will. Notices on the program are being sent to junior and senior high schools as well as some business schools and colleges. Schools wishing to participate will receive their free materials the first of the year when the 1967 tax forms and instructions are available.

Q — I got a small scholarship which pays my tuition costs for one semester. Does this have to be counted as taxable income?

North Central Sept. Boardings Here Total 218

North Central Airlines set new traffic records for September, while completing 99.7 per cent of its 1,586,689 scheduled miles, according to Frank N. Buttomer, vice president-traffic and sales.

The airline carried 180,740 passengers in September—more than 35,000 over the same month last year—for a 25 per cent gain. Passenger miles flown increased 22 per cent to 29,939,708. Thief River Falls boardings totaled 218 in September, raising the 1966 boardings to date to 1,884.

Total cargo ton miles rose 16 per cent to 407,794. Mail ton miles climbed 20 per cent; express ton miles 17 per cent; and freight ton miles 14 per cent for the airline system.

During the first nine months of 1,550,356 passengers, 29 per cent ahead of the same period in 1965. Total cargo ton miles increased 37 per cent, with gains of 60 per cent in mail and 32 per cent from both freight and express.

Since inaugurating servinoe in 1948, North Central has carried over 13,228,000 passenters and flown 2,190,000,000 passenger miles without a single fatality or injury to passengers or crew members.

North Central serves 90 cities in 10 Midwest states and Canada over a 7,000-mile route system.

Gamble's Offers Scholarships To 28 Students

Twenty-eight B. C. Gamble scholarship awards will be presented at the end of the current school year, according to Stan Pladson, local store manager. This year's 28 awards will bring the total number of winners to 240, sharing over $84,000 in awards since the inception of the plan in 1958-59.

The current 1966-67 scholarships, each worth $350, will go to 28 high school seniors graduating in June of 1967. Scholarship winners may use the funds for any course of study at any accredited college or university.

All who qualify for the awards must demonstrate special ability in salesmanship, either through high school programs or part-time jobs, as well as acceptable scholastic aptitude during their senior year. The scholarship program is in its eighth consecutive year.

In 1964 Paul Peterson from Thief River Falls was a scholarship winner. He was a student at Lincoln high school and is attending Gustavis Adolphaus college as a junior this year.

During a sales contest during the month of October, stores in 23 states will compete for the right to award one of the 28 scholarships. The highest percentage of sales increase over their October quotas determines the winners.

Senator Testifies On Budget Act

"The American farmer is tried of being accused of annual treasury raids," Senator Walter F. Mondale declared recently. "The farmer wants it known that he is not in fact the passive recipient of a huge federal subsidy, but rather a dynamic and highly efficient contributor to America's unprecedented prosperity."

Mondale was the lead-off witness today at hearings before the Senate agriculture committee on the fair farm budget act, which Mondale introduced in August. The bill would require the agriculture department to break down its budget into two categories: one showing the amount going to support farm income, and the other indicating expenditures which benefit the public at large.

"The truth of the matter is that out of a total agriculture budget of about $7 billion, only one out of every three dollars goes to maintain farm income. Two-thirds of the money spent by the department of agriculture is for programs which are to clear benefit to everyone in the United States—such as the U. S. forest service, the meat and poultry inspection service, the hot lunch and school milk programs and many others."

The efficiency and productivity of the American farmer has been such, Mondale noted, that if the price of food had increased as much as the price of all other products since 1952, the housewives of America would have had to spend over $7 billion more for food last year than they actually did.

Special motor-vehicle user taxes contribute 24 per cent of total state tax revenues, the Minnesota AAA reports. The total state tax revenues in 1965 amounted to $26.1 billion, of which motor vehicle owners and operators contributed $6.3 billion.

IS HE YOURS

You try to be modest about it, but your heart is bursting with pride. He is the most beautiful baby — and — he's yours!

Or is he?

It can be pretty disturbing the first time you realize that your baby really isn't yours at all — that you do not possess him. Yet the sooner you do realize it, the better. We can't possess another person no matter how dearly we love them. And in the case of our children, we are custodians, not owners.

He is a beautiful baby—and you, naturally, want nothing more than for him to grow up into a fine young man. It is your responsibility, in the years ahead, to help him do so — and you will find the strength and guidance to aid you in your task in your church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Flowering bulbs can be the highlight of the garden in the spring if you plant them this fall. Tulips and daffodils are especially delightful in their broad selection of colors and flower types.

Most bulbs need full sun or will tolerate some shade. They like a soil that is well drained and that has a medium level of fertility. These are the basic requirements for growing good quality blooms.

Tulips and daffodils are planted during late September and October. Tulips may be planted until the time the ground freezes in the fall.

When buying bulbs be sure to buy good quality. It's not necessary to buy the jumbo sizes. With the daffodils the double-nosed types are satisfactory. Always buy bulbs that will bloom at different times. For example, the Red Emperor tulips bloom the earliest, followed by the early singles, the cottage, the Darwin, the Breeder, the Parrot, and, last, the peony-flower types.

Plant tulips and daffodils from six to eight inches deep, depending upon the soil type. If the soil is very heavy, five per cent clay, they should be planted at the shallower depth. If the soil tends to be lighter and warmer, they should be planted to a depth of seven to eight inches.

Avoid planting the bulbs close to the house on the southwest side. Usually during the latter part of winter the soil thaws in this location and the bulbs will come up before danger of heavy freezes is past with the result that the bulb may be killed.

Tulips can be planted in small groupings of seven to nine bulbs or they can be planted in beds by themselves. The large beds should be sketched on paper prior to the planting in the garden to assure the development of good design as well as to give you an estimate of the number of bulbs needed. Both tulips and daffodils should be mulched to a depth of six inches with marsh hay or clean straw for the winter to protect the soil from freezing and thawing.

Married—Father of Five Children
Lifetime resident of Marshall County for 49 years
Community Committeeman of Marshall County ASCS
Presently serving as supervisor of Marshall County Soil & Water Conservation District
Township Supervisor for 17 years
Veteran of World War II and Member of American Legion

If elected, will cooperate fully with any individual or group on matters pertaining to roads, flood control and drainage, taxes, schools, and any other county problems.

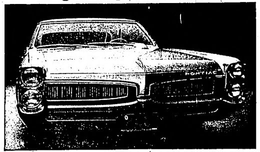
I will continue to work diligently for duck, beaver and flood control and will seek the cooperation of the State Game and Fish Dept. and Federal Wildlife on these problems.

I am strongly opposed to any wetlands expansion by the Dept. of Conservation, in the 5th district. I firmly believe that more state land should be offered for sale and in that way be placed on the tax rolls.

YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT WILL BE APPRECIATED AT THE GENERAL ELECTION ON NOVEMBER 8

(Pol. Adv.—Prepared and circulated by Nilo Rantanen in his own behalf.)

You don't believe a 6 can act anything like an 8?



With our new Overhead Cam Six you'd better believe it.

Our OHC 6 delivers 165 hp on regular gas. And 215 horses from the premium gas 4-barrel version. Most American sixes (and some underprivileged V-8s) don't even come close. Expensive European sports machines do, but they're overhead cams, too. In fact, they inspired us. Our OHC 6 is standard on all Tempests and LeMans. So are a host of new safety features like passenger-guard door locks, General Motors' new energy absorbing steering column and a four-way hazard warning flasher. We've said enough. If a test drive won't sell you, nothing will.

Many Fur Types Available for Fall Fashions

Furs have taken on a new dimension this fall, with "young furs" or "fun furs" prominently displayed where the fashion-conscious high school, college and career girls shop.

Many of these furs are priced around $100. Styles may be faddish, but no one expects these fur garments to last forever.

The furs may be combined with suede, leather and fabrics of all kinds. Instead of the usual full-length coat, there are double-breasted pea coats, ponchos belted trench coats, full-length evening wraps, fur skirts, fur dresses, pant suits and a wide variety of accessories. Of course you can still buy the traditional luxury furs.

Whether you buy a "fun" fur for a season or a luxury mink for many seasons, you are protected by the fur products labeling act which has been in effect since 1952, says Thelma Baierl, extension clothing specialist at the University of Minnesota. The act imposes a severe penalty on anyone who sells fur without labeling it with its true name. Federal law requires a tag at least 2 x 3 inches to be attached to every fur or fur-trimmed garment.

This tag must include such information as: The true name of the animal from which the skins are taken; the country of origin if the skins were imported; and the name of the store selling the fur or the full name and address of the manufacturer.

If the fur is dyed, bleached or otherwise changed from its natural state, this fact must be stated on the label. If the fur contains pieces of less valuable parts, this information must also be given.

With the protection from the federal labeling law and the guidance of a good fur retailer, the consumer has some assurance of getting the quality of fur she wants.

Farmers Receive Benefits from Grain Grading

Preliminary reports indicate that farmers are receiving definite benefits from a recent program change regarding grain delivered under the price-support program.

Use of official grade certificates to verify quality became effective for all wheat deliveries on July 1, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. Good teamwork on the part of both government and private industry has resulted in the smooth adoption of the program improvement with only minor difficulty.

The chairman said that the benefits most evident from the first 2½ months' operation of the program change are that (1) farmers are receiving credit for the correct grade of the wheat they deliver and (2) warehousemen are in a better position to segregate like qualities.

All results point to another step forward in improving the overall quality of United states wheat, Dahl said.

Missionary Nurse To Speak Sunday At Local Church

Miss Anita Simonson, a missionary-nurse to New Guinea, will be featured at the annual mission festival of St. John Lutheran church this Sunday.

Miss Simonson recently returned from five years of work in the western highlands of New Guinea, among natives just emerging from the stone age and the barbaric practice of head-hunting and coming under the influence of the Christian message, according to Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor at St. John.

Miss Simonson will speak at the 10:30 festival service of St. John church, and will narrate a film on her work immediately following the main service.

The Sunday school choir will sing a mission anthem and the confirmation classes will sing "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" in Pidgin English, the dialect of the South Pacific. A pot-luck dinner will be served immediately after Miss Simonson shows her film. All guests and visitors, plus members of the parish, are invited to the special mission festival service and fellowship dinner.

The last noon luncheon will be held on Tuesday, November 1, when Rep. Odin Langen, seeking reelection as Seventh District Congressman, will be the speaker.

The other four meetings in the series will be one-hour coffee sessions starting at 3 p.m. Sepakers atthese will be candidates for the State Senate from the 67th Legislative district and candidates for the state House of Representatives from District 67-B. Three of these four speakers are incumbent office holders who have experienced a change in district boundaries due to reapportionment.

At 3 p.m. on October 31, Rep. Everett Battles of Warroad will be the speaker. Senator Donald Sinclair of Stephen will speak at a November 4 coffee session. Herman Kjos, candidate for state Senate, and Rep. Andrew Skaar, both of Thief River Falls, have been scheduled for meetings November 2 and 3.

Due to the appearance of Sen. Walter Mondale Wednesday, the Lions club has canceled its meeting for that day. Sen. Mondale was appointed by Gov. First Concert of 1966-67 Season Slated Saturday

The concert will start at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Admission is by season membership only.

A highlight engagement was a performance at the White House in Washington, D. C. The Revelers' current sold-out tour will take them to cities throughout the United States and Canada.

Summer engagements often feature them as the singing school board in Meredith Willson's "The Music Man." Their album of Gospel hymns is played on radio Bible hours across the nation. Seeks $18,750 To Plan Project For Area Elderly

Application for a preliminary loan of $18,750 for planning of low-rent housing for the elderly has been made by the Thief River Falls housing authority, according to William Fahey, executive director. The authority was appointed last April by Mayor Orin Green and approved by the Thief River Falls city council.

Members of the authority include Kenneth Onken, president; Wallace Tunberg, treasurer; Paul Roy and Randall Noper, members. The group works through the Housing Assistance administration of the Department of Housing and Urban development.

According to Fahey, the authority is considering construction of 125 units for rental at $32 to $40 per month. The preliminary study loan of $18,750 will be used to determine the need for such units and to arrive at a conclusion as to the number of units needed. Hodne and Associates, the firm which has been retained by the local planning commission as city planner, is serving as the architect for the housing authority.

Fahey said that construction of rental housing units would be financed by bonds sold by the authority but guaranteed by the federal government. The units would be tax-free, but 10 per cent of the rental income would be paid to the city, county and school district on a proportionate basis in lieu of taxes.

If rental income is not sufficient to cover bond payment after payment of expenses, the federal government will pay the difference, the executive director said.

The authority meets on the second Monday of each month in the city council chambers. Interested persons are invited to attend the business sessions. Federal housing of all levels for Thief River Falls will be administered by the authority.

Girl Scout Group Has Annual Meet

At their third annual meeting, Pine to Prairie Girl Scout council members paid tribute to five members who have served the council in special ways. Mrs. R. B. Griffith and David Kessler, Grand Forks, N. D., and Mrs. James O'Connell, Valley City, N. D., were given recognition by Gordon Caldis, council president.

As they retired from the Board of Directors after three years of service to Pine to Prairie council, they were cited for that service, plus their previous association with Project 11, the organizational group of the council and several years of various jobs with their respective former councils. Each was presented with a token of appreciation.

Mrs. Griffith, in turn, presented "Service to Girls" plaques to Caldis and to Jack Sather. Caldis served as the first council president to Pine to Prairie and chairman of Project 11, as well as a member of the former Red River Valley council. As Camp Hiawatha supervisor, Sather has contributed countless hours of service to the building and operation of the council's established camp near Clearbrook, the council reports.

Vickie Goulet And M. Bump Wed Here at St. Bernard's

Miss Vicki Goulet, daughter of Mrs. Doris Goulet of this city and the late Leonard Goulet, and Michael Bump, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bump of Marshall, exchanged marriage vows at a Nuptial Mass at 11 a.m. Saturday, September 17, at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city. Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 200 relatives and friends.

The church choir provided the nuptial selections, accompanied by Miss Erin Carlson, organist. They sang, "On This Day", "Adoramus Te", "At Cana's Wedding Feast" and "O Lord I Am Not Worthy". "Ave Maria" was sung as the bride and groom proceded to the altar of the Virgin Mary where a red rose was offered by the bride.

Two baskets of long-stemmed aqua and white mums graced the main altar while arrangements of similar flowers were on the two side altars.

Given in marriage by her brother, Jack Goulet, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and peau de sole. Fashioned with a fitted bodice with sculptured neckline and Mary Stuart sleeves, the gown featured a full skirt with chapel length train of peau de sole and matching lace. Her fingertip tulle veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and iridescent crystals and she carried a cascade bouquet of tangerine roses accented with yellow roses and glossy foliage.

Diane Goulet of this city attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore an aqua blue ceramo floor length gown styled with bell sleeves and a flowing train attached in back at the empire waistline. To complete her attire, she wore as a headpiece an aqua rose with two large leaves on each side and she carried a large bronze mum surrounded by miniature yellow roses.

Attired similar to the maid of honor were the bridesmaids, Linda Goulet of Thief River Falls, sister of the bride; Barbara Bump of Minneapolis, sister of the groom and Diane Brickzin of Moorhead, a friend of the bride. Flower girl, Vicki Werner of Marshall, niece of the groom was also in similar attire. All wore pearl pendants, gifts from the bride.

Craig Holm of St. Louis Park, a nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. He was attired in a black tuxedo.

As his attendants, the groom chose his cousin, Jim Jandl of Amiret, as best man and his brothers, Lyle and Tom Bump, both of Marshall, and Kenny of Detroit Lakes, as groomsmen. Serving as ushers were friends of the couple, Paul Schornach of Detroit Lakes and David Gunderson of Thief River Falls. All wore black tuxedos with miniature white mum boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a rose.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink three-piece ensemble of lame knit with pink and black accessories. Her corsage was composed of red roses and yellow mums. The mother of the groom wore a metallic green dress with matching jacket and coordinating accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white roses with baby mums. Also presented with a corsage of yellow and white roses was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Goulet of Thief River Falls.

A five o'clock wedding dinner for about 150 guests was given in the church parlors by the mother of the bride. Mrs. Robert Lasha of Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride, served as hostess and the bride's sisters, Kaye and Donna Goulet, presided at the punch bowl and registered the guests, respectively.

The four-tiered wedding cake featured a winding stairway with a miniature bride and groom, together with their attendants, ascending to a church that topped the cake. Mrs. Caroline Brunelle of Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Bill Sabinski, friend of the groom, cut and served the cake while Mrs. Lawrence Audette of Red Lake Falls, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Cecil Kneiff poured. Lorae Inman-Robert Wick Speak Vows October 1st

An arrangement of yellow mums on the altar graced on either side by baskets of palms formed the setting at the Community Methodist church at 3 p.m. Saturday, October 1st, for the nuptial vows spoken by Miss Lorae Inman and Robert Wick.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denny Inman of Thief River Falls and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wick, also of this city.

The Rev. Merrill Harris officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Lowell Swenson, organist presented a program of nuptial selections as the guests were ushered to their seats by a cousin of the bride, Ronnie Davidson of Newfolden, and Dennis Haider of this city, a friend of the groom. Judy Spray of Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride, sang "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white floor-length gown of ribbon and lace fabric. Designed and fashioned by the bride, the gown featured an empire bodice with long tapered sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her veil of silk illusion flowed from a crown forming a full length train edged with a border of white fabric roses, fashioned by the bride. She carried her white confirmation Bible, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. George Mostue of this city. It was topped by a cascade arrangement of deep pink roses and bronze feathered mums.

Karen Kelly of Minneapolis, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a forest green A-line street length gown styled with a lace yoke and full length bell sleeves of matching lace. Her shoulder length veil fell in soft folds from a forest green fabric cabbage rose headpiece.

Miss Junice Flattum of Minneapolis was bridesmaid and the junior attendants were Mary Inman and Marlys Wick, sisters of the bride and groom, respectively. They were attired in olive green gowns and headpieces styled similar to the maid of honor. Each attendant carried a single long stemmed bronze mum. Their gowns and headpieces were maid by the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Darrell Wick of St. Paul. Groomsmen were his cousins, Dennis Haugen of this city, Roger Thompson of Minneapolis, and Jeff Rustvold of Fargo, N. D. All wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Inman chose a beige lace dress with black accessories. Her corsage was composed of yellow roses surrounded by orange carnations. The groom's mother wore a plum colored two piece suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations. Attending the wedding as honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Inman, Kelliher, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Thompson and Mrs. Katherine Wick, grandparents of the groom.

A reception followed with Mr. and Mrs. Connie Haugen, uncle and aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Phyllis Davis, aunt of the bride, as host and hostess. Sharon and Shelvie Davidson, cousins of the bride, registered the guests and Mrs. Merle Johnson, aunt of the bride, served the punch.

The square four-tiered wedding cake, with four large round cakes serving as a base, was topped by a tree of white sugar bells. Baked and decorated by Mrs. William Mehrkens Jr., of this city, a friend of the family, the cake was cut and served by Mrs. Rudy Christenson and Mrs. Elmer Wick, aunts of the bride and groom respectively. Mrs. Gib Overvold of Middle River, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Milton Davidson, aunt of the bride, poured. The gifts were opened and displayed by Sheree Mostue and Marlyce LaValla, friends of the bride.

Out-of-town friends and relatives attending the wedding were from Williston and Fargo, N. D: Crookston, Erskine, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Middle River, International Falls, Virginia, Ada, McIntosh and Kelliher.

As the couple left on their wedding trip to the Riding Mountain National Park in Canada, the bride wore a two piece pink woolen suit. Both are graduates of Lincoln high school, the bride in 1965 and the groom in '64. They are at home in this city at 709½ North LaBree. The groom is employed by the Soil Conservation service. Photo—Ken Johnson Studio—Crookston.

The trip, a gift from her daughter, was made by North Central and Northwest airlines. On her return trip, she spent a week at Portland and Eugene, Ore., visiting friends and relatives.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. PERCY STOKKE
of Viking

Are you prepared for the hordes of ghosts, witches and goblins that will soon invade the community? For something different, when they come rapping on the door, why not give them bars that have been wrapped in aluminum foil?

Today's recipe, contributed by Mrs. Percy Stokke of Viking, contains three ingredients that are rated high on the list of favorites among the younger set. They are chocolate chips, marshallmallows and nuts. When combined with other ingredients, the result is a very tempting bar.

Chocolate Marshmallow Bars

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
¾ cup shortening
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 package (6 oz.) chocolate chips
½ cup nuts
large marshmallows

Method: Cream the shortening together with the brown and white sugar; add egg and beat well. Sift soda and flour together and add to creamed batter together with the chocolate chips and nuts. A teaspoon of vanilla may be added, if desired. Bake in a greased 9x13 inch pan for 20 minutes in a 325 degree oven. Top with 20 or more large marshmallows and return to a 300 degree oven for 15 minutes. When cool ice with your favorite fudge frosting.

The Percy Stokkes live in the village of Viking. They have four children, Marlys, employed at the Thief River Falls Times at Thief River Falls; Byron and Colleen, attending school at Viking and Kim, who was born in July.

With a baby in the house, Mrs. Stokke doesn't have too much time at present for hobbies. She enjoys gardening, especially working with her flowers. She is active in church work at the Mission Covenant church at Viking, where the family attends services, and is an officer of its ladies aid. Mr. Stokke is employed by Midland Co-op Inc. at Warren.

Legis Lative Letter

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

The last couple of months our House appropriations committee has been holding hearings concerning the need for more family doctors or general practitioners in our rural Minnesota communities. Some of the testimony the committee has received has been very disturbing. If present trends are allowed to continue, many communities will, by 1980 have lost their doctor or will have seen him retire.

The average age today of our rural family doctors in Minnesota is 57 years and each year fewer graduates become family doctors. The testimony also brought out that most medical schools focus the medical students toward special fields of surgery, psychology, neurology and other areas where the financial benefits are greater and there is lss work and more recognition of his abilities.

Investigation also brought out that most young students feel that by 1975, they could not keep up with current trends in medicine in less modern facilities. All this indicates fewer rural doctors, and also a very serious shortage of other medical personnel. By 1980, we will also see the services of rural dentists taxed almost to the very limit.

At this time there are 600 highly trained doctors per year leaving England to come to the United States. They also come from nations where economic standards are at a level where a doctor cannot afford to practice. If it weren't for foreign doctors there would be a greater shortage.

Without any doubt one of the most important decisions the 1967 Legislature must make is how to solve this shortage. There are several choices: expand the University of Minnesota medical school; support a new private medical school; or adopt programs to stimulate more students to become family doctors in rural areas.

If nothing is done the average doctor who today sees 28 patients will by 1975-1980 have to see 45-50 patients. This average doctor will be 62-65 years old.

The committee which has been hearing testimony from many state and national sources will make its decisions and recommendations to the legislature and findings known to the public. The first students to graduate from any expanded facilities cannot possibly do so until 1975-76. I hope in this coming 1967 session we can help solve this shortage for the future years.

Senator Sinclair Meets Swedish Parliament Group

Senator Donald Sinclair of Stephen was one of a small group of Minnesota legislative leaders invited to meet with the agricultural committee of the Swedish Parliament during a reception and conference in St. Paul last Friday.

The Swedish group is touring the United States to obtain an eyewitness view of latest American farming methods.

Senator Sinclair was invited to attend the gathering in his capacity as chairman of the Senate agriculture committee. With other members of the Minnesota group, he exchanged views on agricultural technology, management, policy and legislation with the Swedish delegation.

The veteran northwest Minnesota legislator, who was president pro tempore of the 1965 Senate, represents the 67th legislative district, comprising Kittson, Roseau, Marshall and Pennington counties.

NEW AID for apprehension of speeders is the portable radar unit recently received for use in the Thief River Falls area by the Minnesota highway patrol. The unit, shown above with Patrolman Clifton Mattson, is similar to the one which the Thief River Falls police department purchased a short time ago. Through use of the radar system, a stationary patrol car can accurately chart the speed of approaching traffic. Charting equipment is located inside the car with only a small part of the equipment visible outside the car.

Provisions for GI Enrollment In College Given

Minnesota veterans enrolled in colleges this fall under the new GI bill were reminded today that the school must certify their enrollment before they can receive their first check.

John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans administration center, St. Paul, said the veteran must present two copies of a Certificate of Eligibility to the school, which submits one of these, filled out, to the VA.

In the first check, the VA will pay the amount due at the end of September upon receipt of the enrollment certification by the college. Murphy said that in most cases the first check will be only a portion of the usual monthly check since many schools did not have a full month's session in September. For all subsequent checks no action is required by the college. However, the veteran must certify his attendance at the end of each month to the VA; otherwise, he will not get paid, he said.

Murphy said some veterans had experienced delays in receiving their first checks during the summer session. Most of these late payments occurred as a result of the veteran's failure to supply the college with his enrollment certificate for completion and return to the VA by the school.

Receipt of this form will permit the Veterans Administration to make the initial payment to college level students. For students below college level, monthly certifications of attendance are required beginning with the first month.

Murphy advised that in cases where the student enrolls then changes his courses to a reduced number of hours, it is the responsibility of the veteran to return his check for adjustment.

State Tourist Market To Grow, Specialist Says

If Minnesota is to claim its potential share of the ever-growing tourist market in this country, private and public factions will have to form a partnership, according to Lawrence R. Simonson, University of Minnesota extension specialist for tourist services.

In a speech at Sugar Lodge near Grand Rapids, Simonson said that the tourist market will be greatly expanding because of increased leisure time and accessibility of travel.

Speaking at the leisure use conference to a group of government, business, church and recreation leaders Simonson quoted a statement by the Minnesota department of business development estimating a $350 million annual tourist impact on the Minnesota economy.

Projections for the increase of resort guests indicate a 44 per cent increase from a little over a million guests in 1963 to about a million-and-a-half by 1976. Seasonal homes will increase 150 per cent from 73,000 to 181,000 during this same period. Simonson said a 107 per cent increase is expected in the use of outdoor services and facilities by Minnesotans alone.

Simonson emphasized that these increases would not automatically come to Minnesota. "We will need improved, attractive facilities and an expanded marketing program if we are to achieve this potential," he said.

Mrs. P. E. Sihlberg has been in critical condition at the hospital in Greenbush since Tuesday. She has also had major ugrery which is pretty hard to take for one in her 80's. We wish her a speedy recovery.

It was surely good fortune Mrs. Gilman Stennes was home on Friday afternoon as a bad chimney fire would have had too good a start. Visiting with her was Mrs. Elmer Holmstrom and as the two ladies visited they noticed smoke pouring out of registers and walls. Mrs. Stennes then called the fire department from Newfolden who came at once. Noticing the house was filling with smoke they climbed the roof and found the chimney completely blocked. In the back of their builtin cabinets there had been a stove pipe hole which had been covered with tin and plaster. Plaster on the chimney cracked and some flooring upstairs was torn up so smoke ad water damage will keep them busy to repair for a long time but they were grateful the fire department arrived so quickly. Gilman was out in the field not aware his house was in danger until the fire department arrived.

Hilma Lofstrom received a 30 pound box of apples at the Johnson store drawing Saturday evening.

REX HARRISON stars as Professor Henry Higgins, the witty and tyrannical phonetics expert in "My Fair Lady" to be shown starting Friday at the Falls Theatre. Friday will also mark the grand reopening of the theatre following remodeling with free candy bars to be given to the first 500 customers. Only one showing will be held at 8 p.m. each evening with special prices of one dollar for adults, 75 cents for students and 35 cents for children in effect for the five-day run. Harrison played the role 1,006 times on the musical stages of New York and London before playing the movie role.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I understand the GI home loan program for World War II veterans is about over. Is that true?

A—The deadline for World War II veterans is July 25, 1967. Your entitlement runs 10 years from the date of discharge plus one year for each three months of service, but in no case will it go beyond July 25 1967.

Q—My father is a World War I veteran and needs an operation. He can't afford it and neither can I. Can he get into a veteran's hospital?

A—Amditance to a Veterans Administration hospital is in this order: First, veterans with service connected disabilities; second veterans who are unable to pay. The latter are admitted when beds are available.

Q—In 1918, I suffered TB and was sent to a Naval hospital from which I was discharged a year later with 100 per cent temporary total service-connected disability. In 1942, I was told that my condition was inactive. Why is there a difference in service-connected disabilities?

A—The difference is the severity of each disability. Each case is decided on the degree the veteran is disabled. Just about any ailment or disability could be service-connected but not all are compensable.

Q — I have a service-connected disability presently rated as 100 per cent. Are my children entitled to benefits under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act?

A — Sons and daughters of living veterans with total service-connected disabilities considered permanent in nature are entitled to Educational Assistance under the War Orphans Program. The question of permanence is decided on the facts of each individual case.

Q—Will you please tell me if the 10 per cent deducted from the income of a nonservice - connected veteran is only for Social Security benefits, or does it include local, state, and railroad benefits or pensions also?

A—Report the full amount of Social Security and all other non-VA pensions to the Veterans Administration and the VA will then make the 10 per cent deduction from all of them, including local, state, private and railroad retirement benefits.

Q—I am 77 years old and receiving $59 a month from Social Security pension with no other income of any kind. I lost a son in France July 16, 1944. Could you please inform me as to whether I am eligible for a pension from the VA or not? If so, who do I contact?

A—You should contact the closest VA Regional Office for an application to file for dependency and indemnity compensation as the dependent parent of a serviceman killed in action.

YOU DON'T FORGET...
It's been eight years since Odin Langen left his farm near Kennedy to become our voice in Washington. His knowledge and concern have made him a recognized national farm authority.
Our children are eating hot lunches and drinking milk in school this year, thanks to Odin Langen's efforts on the Agriculture Appropriations Sub-committee. Important agricultural research, plus REA and Land Grant College programs, and watershed and conservation projects, are continuing due to his insistence.
Langen's Chairmanship of the Minority Task Force on Agriculture has resulted in a new awareness by Congress and the people of recent Governmental efforts to depress farm income.
Re-elect the man who believes now, as always, that an adequate income for our farmers provides the only true incentive with which to guarantee an adequate supply of food at reasonable prices for all Americans.

Joseph L. Donovan Has Sponsored or Supported 60 Different Motor Vehicle Laws Since 1955

● Donovan has probably saved countless lives and untold property losses by introducing reflectorized license plates. Reflectorizing reduces highway accidents. He recommended an amendment which reduced the additional reflectorizing cost from 50 cents to 25 cents per year.

● Donovan saves motorists thousands of dollars each year. He sponsored the law changing the registration deadline date from November to January. He felt this was an unjust penalty, a requirement to pay before the tax is actually due.

● Donovan saves Minnesota taxpayers over ¼ million dollars every year by initiating the use of sticker tabs on license plates. Full-size plates can now be used for three years.

Langen Begins Campaign Tour; In City Nov. 1

Congressman and Mrs. Odin Langen have left Washington and are on their way to Minnesota's Seventh district to launch Langen's campaign for re-election to a fifth consecutive term in the U. S. House of Representatives. The Langens were on the road early this morning for a "whirlwind" tour of the district that will take them into all 23 counties.

In noting that the unusually long session of Congress has cut his active campaign to only two weeks, the Congressman said that he and Mrs. Langen will travel separate routes each day. "In this way, it is hoped that at least one of us will have visited in every community by election day," he stated.

Congressman Langen said he welcomed this opportunity to visit with the people of northwestern Minnesota and report on the activities of the 89th Congress.

Langen has scheduled five major public speeches during the next week: in Park Rapids, Wadena, New York Mills, Wheaton and Alexandria. He will speak at the Thief River Falls "Meet the candidate" session at noon on Tuesday, November 1.

Laundering Care Tips Given for Permanent Press

Durable or permanent-press garments will live up to their iron free and wrinkle-free properties if homemakers follow laundering instructions carefully.

Most manufacturers and retailers prefer to call the fabric durable press rather than permanent press, since durable more accurately describes the finish, explains Thelma Baierl, extension clothing specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Wash durable press garments frequently to prevent stains from setting, the clothing specialist suggests. However, when stains do occur, pre-treat them before laundering by rubbing in a thick suds of soap or detergent.

Before laundering, turn all garments inside out to reduce wear and whitening of seams. Sort the clothes by color, fabric, construction and degree of soil. Do the whites separately, light colors together and dark clothes alone. It is important to keep washer loads smaller than normal, Miss Baierl says, because crowding can cause unnecessary wrinkles. For best appearance, durable press should be tumble dried, with the dryer set for wash and wear. As soon as the dryer stops running, take out the garments and place them on hangers.

Opportunities Abundant In Health Careers

By 1970, at least 175,000 people who want to help people will be needed for the booming health services industry. The need is so great that the health service industry must attract into a health career one out of every ten students who graduate from high school between now and 1970, the Minnesota State Medical Association said today. The statement was made to emphasize one of the themes of Community Health Week October 16 through 22: the abundance of career opportunities in the health service industry.

The Minnesota State Legislature is currently studying means of providing more physicians for the state. The shortage of other health personnel is as great or greater. According to the Medical Association, in some areas there is a critical shortage of nurses. Many more medical and radiologic technologists, therapists, hospital personnel, researchers and administrators are needed. There are at least 200 career pursuits in the health field, and most of them need more people to meet the public demands for health services.

The demand for more and better health services is beginning to exceed the supply. This demand, combined with continuing medical advances, the advent of new health services, and the refinement of existing services, has made the health field a career area of exceptional promise.

A health career can offer a lifetime of challenge, reward, and personal satisfaction for the person who wants to help people. In addition, health careers also provide rapid opportunities for advancement, rising salaries, attractive fringe benefits, and almost universal employment opportunities, says the Medical Association.

NRA Says Hunting Can Be a Safe Recreation

This year many millions of hunters will take to the hills, woods and fields in search of game. The number of licensed hunters, according to the division of fish and wildlife, U. S. Department of the Interior, in 1965 was more than 14 million.

The National Safety council records only 1,000 accidental deaths resulting from the use of firearms in public during 1965. This figure includes all deaths in firearms accidents in recreational activities and a small number from explosions of dynamite, bombs, grenades, etc. Actually, more hunters die from heart attacks each season than from firearms accidents.

The National Rifle association has made significant contributions in the area of hunter safety. The tremendous increase in hunting participation and the corresponding rise in hunter fatalities after World War II caused the NRA, in 1949, to inaugurate the first widespread and continuing study of firearms accidents related to hunting. It is called the NRA uniform hunter casualty reporting program, and two-thirds of the 50 states participate. The program collects and categorizes the number and causes of hunting mishaps.

The NRA, after careful research and study, set forth rules and principles for safe hunting. More than three million students have graduated from its hunter safety program. There are more than 50,000 certified NRA hunter safety instructors.

The association has attempted, through its programs, to decrease the human factor in casualties. The efforts have not been in vain. One of the nation's largest insurance companies places hunting sixteenth on the list of so called "dangerous sports." Some of the recreational activities listed as more hazardous than hunting were football, baseball, horseback riding, golf and fishing.

Hunter safety or safety in the field and safety with firearms, by tradition, is a parental responsibility. Under the guidance of his father, a youngster becomes acquainted with his first .22 or shotgun. He becomes acquainted with firearms safety. The NRA believes and has acted on the premise that the soundest approach to firearms safety is education combined with proper motivation.

The association has instituted and designed a hunter safety training course, the only one of its kind in the U. S. Initiated in 1950, it has grown to a point where more than 400,000 persons successfully complete the course each year. Hunter safety training courses are either required by law or are voluntary in 37 states and five Canadian provinces. Thousands upon thousands of volunteer instructors have devoted their time and energy with such dedication that there has been a definite effect on the hunting accident rate. The hunting accident ratio, according to the National Safety council's 1965 report, is 0.5 per 100,000 population.

Hunter fatalities and casualties still happen despite the efforts of the NRA, its affiliated clubs and its volunteer instructor. Some people feel it is impossible to eliminate all hunter casualties. They say, ". . .it has to be." Other experts hold that it has become a question of hunter attitude, that is, the individual hunter's mental approach to hunting, safety and the recognition of the responsibilities he, as a hunter has toward conservation, fellow hunters, private property and public domain.

"A person indoctrinated with safe hunting procedures, but not properly motivated or careless, may be considered an unsafe hunter." The NRA says, "Attitude is an important factor in hunting safety. A hunter who willfully destroys or mutilates private property damages crops or generally behaves in a manner contrary to good sportsmanship will not use safe hunting procedures, even if known. He merely increases his chances to become a hunter casualty statistic."

It can be summed up in this manner: Hunter casualties do happen but it does not follow that they must happen. Be a safe NRA hunter.

Deer Hunters Are Invited To Take Special Course

A deer hunter's course, co-sponsored by the area vocational-technical school and the Thief River Rifle club, will be held three consecutive weeks beginning Wednesday.

The first, "Guns, Shooting and Care of the Kill", instructed by Ted Mills, will be a discussion of various rifles and shotguns in the sport, why such a variety, study of ballistics, discussion of loading ammunition and proper care of carcass in the field.

On November 2, "Safety and Woods Law", instructed by Sheriff Charles Richards and Ronald Anderson, will deal with precautions to be observed to prevent accidentally getting mistaken for a deer, compass reading, what to do when lost and rescue procedures.

The third and final session to be held November 9, "Game Laws" and instructed by Lester Borning, area game warden supervisor, will discuss game laws and reasons why such laws are necessary.

All meetings are in vocational room 127 and meet from 7:30 p. m. until 9:30 p.m. There is no charge for the course.

Appropriation Is Made for Roseau River Program

The public works appropriation of $4.1 billion, which includes $50,000 for the project planning of the Roseau River drainage project, has been signed into law and preliminary planning on the project is now assured, it was learned this week.

The study climaxes a lengthy effort for recognition of the flooding problems on the Roseau river and ends work of some 50 years to get the work done.

While it does not assure completion of the entire project itself, it does mean that the study is to be made by the Army Engineers and that information on the overall project will be available for further consideration.

Estimated cost of the overall project is over a million dollars. This estimate will be updated in the study which the $50,000 authorizes. It is expected that the Corps of Engineers can begin the study as soon as it can be programmed.

Roseau Area Man Pleads Not Guilty To Murder Charge

A plea of "not guilty" and "not guilty by reason of insanity" was entered by Clifford Mattson when arraigned before Judge Hans O. Chommie in Roseau Friday. Mattson was indicted by a grand jury recently on a charge of murder in the first degree in the shooting death of Lawrence Kveen on May 28.

The indictment was read to Mattson and his attorney, Lyman Brink, by County Attorney Chester Yon and the plea was then entered.

It was indicated that a hearing may possibly be held regarding bond in the near future. Should such a bond be granted, it would free Mattson until the trial and the decision reached as a result of the trial, County Attorney Yon reported.

No date has yet been set for the trial in district court but court is tentatively scheduled to resume on October 24. It is not known whether or not the case will be an early item on the calendar.

Red Lake Falls Area Praised for Friendly People

Red Lake Falls area received a strong boost for its friendliness with foreign visitors in a report this month to the U. S. Department of State's agency for international development, submitted by the Farmers Union International assistance corporation, an AID contractor.

The National Farmers Union group this past summer trained 10 farm cooperative officials from seven French - speaking African countries in the French - speaking Red Lake Falls area.

Favorable reference to Red Lake Falls in the FUIAC report to AID included the following comments: "The value of having AID participants in this French-speaking rural area was the biggest 'plus factor' in favoring the Minnesota selection." Of the ten host farmers in Minnesota, eight spoke French.

"The Red Lake Falls community proved to be exceedingly warm in their attitude toward the African visitors. From the moment of their arrival in Red Lake Falls, the participants were treated as visiting dignitaries. By the time of their departure, after four weeks in the area, they had established many lasting friends in the community."

Farmers Union International assistance corporation is now preparing its 1967 leadership training program with the French - speaking African countries, calling for similar farm co-op training in rural communities.

Labor Department Issues Leaflet On Wage Law

Major provisions of 1966 amendments to the fair labor standards act are outlined in a new publication of the labor department's wage and hour and public contracts divisions.

The publication is a leaflet entitled "Highlights of the Fair Labor Standards Act, as Amended 1966".

Included in the publication are new minimum wage rates that will apply to about 30 million employees now subject to the act, minimum wage and overtime pay standards for some eight million workers brought under the law for the first time by the amendments. The new amendments, signed into law on September 23 by President Johnson, becomes effective on Feb. 1, 1967.

The leaflet also covers some exemptions from pay provisions and equal pay, child labor and record-keeping requirements. It also covers enforcement procedures.

Copies of the leaflet may be obtained from the division's regional and field offices throughout the country or from the national office in Washington, D. C.

Food Production Not Keeping Pace With Population

First step for dealing with the world food problem is to help the less developed nations increase their per capita production of agricultural products, according to Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the institute of agriculture at the University of Minnesota. This can be accomplished only through a sustained effort to increase yields per acre in these countries, he said.

Speaking in Chicago at the annual meeting of the American Bakers association, Berg pointed out that while the current annual world population growth rate is 2.1 per cent, the rate of increase for food production in the world from 1964 to 1965 was only 1.5 per cent.

Food production rose faster than population in the Western Hemisphere and Western Europe in that year, but the reverse was true in most of the rest of the world.

Total production fell in Eastern Europe and the U.S.S.R., dropping per capita output considerably. In Asia, total agricultural output was larger than in 1964, but output per capita declined.

Berg, who is also chairman of the national advisory commission on food and fiber, added that two-thirds of the world's people live in countries with nutritionally inadequate diets. The diet of people in these areas averages 900 calories per day below the level of diet-sufficient countries.

"The less-developed nations are losing the capacity to feed themselves," he said, "and many of these countries have nearly exhausted their supply of new land that can readily be brought under cultivation."

The solution to the problem of increasing per capita production of agricultural products, he repeated, lies in a sustained effort to increase yields per acre in these less developed countries.

How does he suggest doing this? First, the United States and other Western nations will have to increase their technical assistance to these countries.

In addition, Berg said, present programs of food aid to underdeveloped nations must continue for a good many years to come. The wheat, has increased significantly in recent years. This increasing demand comes at a time when U. S. stocks are decreasing at a rather rapid rate.

It will also be necessary, he added, that the level of income in these diet-deficient nations be increased to permit the accumulation of capital. And along with a stable agriculture industry will have to develop a strong nonagriculture supporting sector.

Roseau May Vote Again on Liquor Sales Question

The question of whether or not to legalize the sale of intoxicating liquor in Roseau may come to a vote this fall, it was learned this week. A petition requesting a vote on them after during the November 8 general election is being circulated.

The village clerk indicated that no petition has yet been filed in his office. A similar proposal was defeated las tyear. Greenbush and Badger voted to legalize the sale of liquor last year and have established liquor outlets in their communities.

Mrs. Davison Is Speaker at Oklee Meet Wednesday

Mrs. Davison pointed out that approximately 30,000 people have left the 23 county area of the Seventh Congressional district since 1960.

"The people that are leaving are the ones who have the greatest potential for making a productive contribution to the area," she said. "They are the young people who leave to receive higher education, better jobs and greater cultural advantages. They are also the farmers and businessmen who can no longer receive an adequate income in rural America. Many of these problems can be solved by effective representation in Washington."

Badger Creamery Signs Contract With Milk Group

Members of the board of directors of the North Star Creamery association in Badger met with Phil Lambert of Lake Bronson recently for the purpose of signing a marketing contract with Nationwide Milk Products, Inc., Wilmington, De. Several months ago the board signed the NFO master processor's contract.

Milford Lange, board president, said that the contract doesn't go into effect until the NFO processor's contracts are activated.

It is not known when the contracts will be activitaed, but NFO members say they will go into effect in the future.

Lange stated that the majority of the local creamery patrons have asked that the board sign this contract. The stated purpose and aims of Nationwide and NFO are to gain control of production so they will have a collective bargaining power in securing a fair price for the farmer in return for his dairy products.

GI Loan Program Deadline Nears; July 25 Is Date

World War II veterans have less than one year left to take advantage of GI guaranteed or insured loans, according to the Veterans administration. July 25, 1967, is the deadline for World War II veterans' eligibility.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center, St. Paul, said eligibility for World War II veterans is determined by a formula which adds 10 years to the date of their last discharge plus one year for each 90 days of service. Eligibility for many has already expired, but the July 25, 1967 date is the cutoff for all other World War II veterans.

Murphy said veterans who were discharged for a service-connected disability and the widows of veterans whose death occurred in service or was due to a service-connected disability will be eligible up to the July 25 deadline. Those eligible may obtain a guaranteed or insured loan to purchase a home, farm or to buy or start a business.

For veterans of the Korean conflict, the formula for determining GI loan eligibility is the same as for veterans of World War II, Murphy said. However, the Korean conflict entitlement did not begin to expire until Jan. 31, 1965, and the final deadline is Jan. 31, 1975.

As in the case of World War II veterans, Korean conflict veterans discharged for service-connected disabilities and widows of veterans whose death occurred in service or was due to a service-connected disability are eligible up to the final 1975 deadline. Eligibility for post-Korean veterans under the new GI bill does not begin to expire until 1976, he said.

Tax Questions Are Given Answers by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—My husband is with the army in Viet Nam and I don't know how to answer the letter I just got regarding our tax return. What should I do?

A—Contact one of our local offices and they will give you all the help they can.

Q—I just got married. Is there any change I should make in my withholding?

A—A married taxpayer's withholding is at lower rates than a single taxpayer's, assuming other things are equal. Therefore, by notifying your employer of the change in your marital status, with the filing of a new Form W-4, your withholding may be reduced.

You also may want to take an exemption for your wife. This will reduce the amount withheld from your paycheck. However, if your wife works and claims her own exemption, then you may not claim her exemption too.

Q—Are gardeners considered household employees for Social Security purposes?

A—If you pay a gardener $50 or more cash wages during a calendar quarter, and an employer-employee relationship exists, then you are required to report the wages and pay the Social Security tax on them. Form 942 is used for this purpose. A gardener working for you as an independent contractor is not your employee.

Q—I lost my refund check. What can I do to get it replaced?

A—Report the loss to your local IRS office. They will explain the procedure for making a claim for a duplicate check.

Q—A friend of mine is still liable for his federal taxes even though he went bankrupt. Why does he still owe for taxes and not for anything else?

A—The law provides that although commercial debts of a legally declared bankrupt are dissolved, federal taxes remain a legally collectible debt.

Q—I've been told that you can save on estate taxes by using the marital deduction. How does this work?

A—The law provides that the total value of the taxable estate may be reduced by that portion of the estate that has been left, generally by will, to the surviving spouse. However, this total reduction is limited to one-half of the adjusted gross estate (the total estate less certain expenses).

Q—In a divorce, that exenses are deductible? How about the alimony I pay, under the court decree, lawyer's fees for getting the divorce, and child support payments? Also, who is entitled to claim the children's medical expenses?

A—Periodic payments of alimony may be deducted if you itemize your deductions. Child support payments, specifically designated as such in the decreee, legal fees to get the divorce, and lump sum cash settlements are not deductible.

The medical expenses you pay for your children may be deducted if the children qualify as your dependents, or would qualify as your dependents except for the fact that they had $600 or more income or filed joint returns with their spouses.

Q—The deductions that were disallowed when my return was audited were put in by the fellow I paid to prepare my return. Actually, I wasn't aware of them until your agent pointed them out to me. Is there anything I can do to get back at the fly-by-night who prepared my return?

A—The taxpayer is legally responsible for all of the information on his return no matter who helped him prepare it. Your experience proves the value of using only reputable and trustworthy advisors for help on a tax return. Further, when help is used, the taxpayer should carefully check every item on it himself before signing his return, since he is responsible for its accuracy.

AUDREY HEPBURN wears this striking hat designed by Cecil Beaton for her role as the guttersnipe-turned-Cinderella in "My Fair Lady" which opens for a five-day run Friday at the Falls Theatre. Friday will mark the grand reopening of the theatre after remodeling and free candy bars will be given to the first 500 customers. Miss Hepburn and Rex Harrison star in the movie which cost $17 million to produce. It is based on George Shaw's play "Pygmalion".

"All greatness in style begins, I imagine, with such respect, deep and passionate enough to produce a humility which will not assert itself at the expense of things; out of which submissiveness a desire to serve is born, in disinterested accuracy toward the object, whatever it may be."

27 Million Miles

"American astronauts have covered an estimated 27 million miles in outer space," states the Minnesota highway department. "If their safety record had been comparable to that of our motorists, one or two astronauts would now be dead and all would have been hospitalized an average of three or more times."

While interesting to a point, this is hardly a good comparison. The astronauts have had thorough safety checks of their vehicles, are themselves in top physical condition and "professional drivers", they are not meeting other space ships at 17,000 miles an hour and being separated only by a white line and a few feet of space and they haven't had "a couple for the road" before blasting off into the wild blue yonder.

If the astronauts piloted uninspected vehicles, scored only 71 per cent in their tests of driving efficiency, manned their craft after drinking, overtook slower moving vehicles and were required to pass, and found space as congested as the freeways, our space program couldn't keep trained men alive long enough to complete a space journey.

A Change in Attitude

Resounding support of the school bond issues presented to the voters by the board of education Tuesday certainly reflected a change of attitude over previous elections. We are sure that members of the board are gratified at the confidence shown in their action and recommendation through voting results.

We didn't expect that the vocational - technical school question would have much difficulty in passing, but we hardly expected that the voters would favor such construction by a six to one margin. This certainly reflects creditably on the existing school, and shows the foresight which the district has in providing for the educational needs of our young people.

And while we believed the indoor swimming pool addition to the school would carry, we certainly did not anticipate that it would be accepted by a two to one margin. We recall all too well how a proposal on an outdoor pool was soundly defeated only a short time ago.

Perhaps the most surprising—and most satisfying—feature of the whole election was the number of ballots cast. While the 1,700-plus votes represent less than half of the eligible voters in the district, the turnout was still considered large. This shows an interest in the affairs of the district, and that is a healthy attitude no matter what the election results might be.

The Thief River Falls Citizen's Committee, a volunteer group which has promoted the past several school bond issues after study and evaluation, has continually cited the firm establishment of Thief River Falls as an educational center in Northwestern Minnesota. The favorable action taken by the voters in Tuesday's election will do much to help this community toward that goal.

Now that the city has completed its negotiations and purchased the site for a junior college campus, we expect things to really start to hum in the educational field here. The new vocational school, to be built on school district land adjoining the junior college site, should be under construction next spring. Assuming that the state legislature carries through on its junior college intentions and makes the necessary appropriations, the junior college campus could also start to show initial signs of work next year.

And who knows what the future may hold for either or both facilities? Demand for educational courses and services may cause the need for expansion of either or both schools in the educational complex. We certainly hope so, for the area may then offer even more advanced training to the young people who so desperately need it in the competitive job markets of today.

It is good to know that the residents of the Thief River Falls school district are not standing idly by with a "wait and see" attitude toward higher education. They are aggressively seeking the means to provide it and supporting the individuals whom they have elected to administer the educational affairs of the district.

And now, even after the election has been held, there are still a number of unanswered questions in the minds of some people. Not the least frequently heard of these queries is, "Will the swimming pool be open for us, or is it just for the kids in school?"

As has been pointed out by the school board and the citizen's committee, the primary purpose of the pool is to provide swimming instruction to school children through the school's own physical education program. The pool will be devoted to this purpose during school hours.

After school hours and on Saturdays and holidays, the pool will be open for public swimming. Since the pool is not exceptionally large, however, it is likely that some type of schedule will have to be arranged so that all people of the district have an equal chance for pool use for recreation. At present, it is planned that the pool will be closed about one month out of the year for cleaning and necessary maintenance. This will make it available to the public during two of the summer vacation months.

Of course, these aspects of pool use will have to be worked out through experience once the pool becomes a reality, but they definitely will be public recreational use in addition to swimming instruction in the school.

Meeting the Candidates

As time passes and political candidates put their thoughts and ideas on the line before local people, we have gained increasing respect for the "Meet the Candidates" sessions arranged by the legislative committee of the local Chamber of Commerce. It is too bad that more people do not attend the sessions, although attendance has been generally good.

Candidates realize, of course, that their appearance at these sessions reaches much farther than the immediate audience. News media coverage is added, and word-of-mouth reports to friends and acquaintances multiplies the total effort.

To date the principal speakers have been candidates for state office, with the exception of one Congressional candidate. Candidates for state Senate and House of Representatives from the 67th District and House District 67-B will be heard within the next few days.

So what about the speakers so far? Were they impressive as aspirants to high office? Did they seem as though they were sincere in their convictions and would make honest, decisive, conscientious and dedicated leaders? Or were they just vote-seeking individuals marching under a party flag?

Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag was the first speaker in the series, and gave his comments prior to the September primary election. At that time his opponent was A. M. Keith, an ambitious youngster who met his Waterloo in the primary.

The governor is a down-to-earth speaker who is not disposed to using big words and involved sentences. He speaks with sincerity, and even those who disagree with his thinking are prone to believe he has faith in what he says. He has a tendency to be careless with facts, however, and has a short memory about how certain things came to be while he was in office.

Keith Davison, seeking to upset Rep. Odin Langen as Seventh District Congressman in Washington, must be rated as a poor speaker. He is green to the campaign trail, and he shows it. He is not well-versed in affairs of the district, and he fields questions on such affairs in an indecisive and uninformed manner. In private conversation he seems to be a "nice guy", but it would require quite a stretch of the imagination to consider him a leader or an independent thinker.

Harold LeVander, GOP candidate for governor, is an able orator. His experience in college debate stands him in good stead on the speaker's platform. He is personable, seems sincere, and people who have become acquainted with him over the years seem to think he is intelligent and efficient.

He, too, is green to the campaign trail, and has permitted his professional campaign help to steer him in the wrong direction a couple of times. Sincerity and ability in other fields seem to be his main credentials, since he has never before sought a major state office. But he does seem informed on state government, and this is to his credit.

Robert Short, DFL candidate for lieutenant governor, was the most recent speaker. His delivery should qualify him for the title of the Billy Graham of Minnesota politics. He is also a fluent speaker, but his thinking is shallow and some of his facts are lies. We respected his credentials prior to hearing him speak, but became convinced during his talk that he is as phony as a three dollar bill.

He praised Rolvaag's record as governor by crediting him with the accomplishments of the conservative legislature. Then he criticized the conservative legislature for failing to act on legislation in which the governor failed to provide leadership. He said a sales tax (a tax people pay on things they buy) would be grossly unfair, and favored an excise tax (a tax people pay on things they buy) as a better method of collecting revenue. Figure that one out, if you can.

Perhaps one of the best ways the Republicans could win the office of lieutenant governor on November 8 would be to contribute to the Short personal appearance fund. He sounds better on paper than in person.

The field is now cleared for legislative candidates. More on that later.

A Touch of Humor

Several rural electric cooperatives in the area publish regular papers or bulletins which have classified advertising columns for their members. We understand that the "Rural Le-Light" published by the Wild Rice Electric Cooperative at Mahnomen recently carried the following advertisement, obviously planted by someone with a wry sense of humor:

"For Sale: Cheap. Large quantity of sour grapes. Planted on slopes of Sugar Hills, June, 1965. Harvested September 13, 1966. See your local DFL committee."

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

A number of new books are finding their way onto the shelves again, and we want you to know about some of them. Han Suyin's "A Mortal Flower" is a worthwhile successor to her other novel, "The Crippled Tree" and outshines it in scope, vividness and brilliance of writing.

The story of a Eurasian girl thrust upon life in Peking in a tumultuous era of China's history it embraces a period which witnesses the rise of a Chiang-Kai-shek, with one idelogy and of Mao Tse Tung with another. This autobiography is that of a girl with an intense desire of serving mankind through the healing art of medicine. The ostracism and aloneness she suffers in the process of following her dream is the core of this story.

Interviews with men who knew first hand of Mao's rise to power and the overthrow of the Kai-shek regime form the core of her profile of the dictator. The internal struggle of China caused the author to return there in 1938 as the Japanese became a threat, and she writes with knowledge of the agony of her country throughout these decades.

Madame Kai-shek is another of the characters of whom she speaks with ease as if she were a next-door neighbor, and this is true to a great extent of the others whose names make China's history of the recent past and today's present. The pull that compelled her to return to China in turmoil brings the book to a poignant conclusion. Worth the reading.

Do the faces of the elderly portray a record of their years spent on earth? "The Innocent Eye" the life of Robert J. Flaherty, by Arthur Calder-Marshall, on its jacket portrays the main character of this book and prompts the above question. Anyone connected with the dollars-and-cents, business end of the movie industry would instantly recognize his name today.

But it was not always like that: Flaherty knew the agony of years of going unrecognized, followed by recognition that did not, as he says, pay, and "didn't buy ham sandwiches". The creator of such movies as "Elephant Boy", "Man of Aran", and "The Louisiana Story", among others, he traveled to the locales of these films, which were set at times in domestic settings and at others in exotic places, and brought his wizardry to the silver screen.

These travels, and the story of the man who could be warm at times, tempestuous at others, yet always brilliant in his accomplishments, limitless in imagination (and always, at the bottom human) make for absorbing reading. All of these qualities mirror the man as he was, the colorful, adventure-filled questing nature of his personality. It's a character study in depth. Read it.

In "The Promise of America", John Blum, with unabashed pride, holds up for the huzzah of acclamation what he finds in America's heritage that is worthy of praise, and conversely he explores and exposes the faults and flaws in our national make-up. Of the latter, the wouldn't-you-like-to-sweep-that-under-the-rug scandals, the social inequities and other ills that have wracked our young nation during its period of growth and its emergence upon the world scene, he is justly ashamed, and makes no effort at hiding his feelings.

He sees in America, as a whole, a colossus of awesome power, a force for continued leadership and a pivot on which could well rest the future of mankind. At once a flag-waving, and a hanging of the head in shame at the dark spots which blot our history, it is still a look toward a brighter, stronger future for the greatest nation on earth, if we will work to keep it that way.

A book so universal in its appeal that it is a family love is Sterling North's latest book, the successor to "Rascal". . ."Raccoons Are the Brightest People". Already it has won the acclaim of Library Journal and Chicago Tribune's books Today reviewers, along with that of other top-flight critics. The illustrations are almost unbelievably human, and in the minds of many set the raccoon apart as being next to man on the intellectual scale.

Reading of the uncanny antics of the little creatures who dominate the pages of this book, the reader tends to gasp at the intelligence of these "natural wonders" with the ring tail, and with mischief on their minds and at the wizardry of the camera artists who managed to be in the strategically best spots at the most opportune moments. This one's headed for the top. Don't miss it. It's in the adult non-fiction section.

When a group of indefatigable and industrious civic-minded women sets out to preserve something for prosperity, it usually gets the job done admirably. Such is the case of the group in "Mount Vernon Is Ours", written by Elswyth Thane. The author traces the rescue of Mt. Vernon from a state of near-ruin to masterful restoration. Miraculously upright through the ravages of battles that raged around it, the historic mansion and its environs had eventually fallen into a shocking state of disrepair.

Today, due to the vision and patriotism, the planning and drive of countless women, it stands as a shrine lovingly visited by over a million persons each year. Thank to their efforts, we are able to say, with the author of this book, "Mount Vernon Is Ours."

Don't forget to set aside the second Tuesday of each month for the film showings on "The Humanities" here at the library. Clifton Fadiman narrates, and the films are in color, accompanied by sound that adds much to their enjoyment.

Nonfarm Jobs In Minnesota Again Break Records

Nonfarm wage and salary jobs in Minnesota climbed to 1,162,700 in September, the fifth consecutive month that a new all-time Minnesota employment record has been established.

Robert J. Brown, Commissioner of the State Department of Employment Security, also noted that employment last month was 52,600 above September, 1965. This marks the 59th consecutive month in which nonfarm employment in Minnesota has exceeded the level for the comparable month in the previous year.

Brown also reported that unemployment in the State in September dropped to 34,600. This was down 6,900 from August and 10,100 below the number unemployed in September, 1965. The unemployment rate of 2.2 per cent in September was three points below August and seven points lower than September, 1965. The 2.2 per cent rate last month was the lowest since 1957.

Seasonally adjusted, the rate of unemployment in September figured out to 3.0 per cent, Brown said, the lowest for September since this series of records began in 1950. Brown explained that the "seasonally adjusted" figure eliminates the effect of strictly seasonal factors, thus giving a better picture of comparative labor market trends.

Brown said that the over-the-year employment increase of 4.7 per cent approximates the average rate of increase maintained during the first eight months of 1966 (4.9 per cent). Other than 6.5 per cent recovery in 1950 from the 1949 recession, the September over-the-year increase this year was higher than any September to September increase since detailed employment records were first collected in 1947. The 1964 to 965 increase was 3.4 per cent for the month of September.

Manufacturing employment reached 287,700, or 1,400 higher than August and 15,000 higher than in 1965, Brown said. The over-the-month gain was not as high as it has been in previous years, largely because of a new decrease of 300 jobs in firms engaged in the production of durable goods. Lumber and wood products showed the largest loss (-700) in this sector, with smaller decreases noted in electrical machinery (-400), primary metals (-100) and fabricated metals (-100).

Nondurable goods manufacturing increased 1,700 jobs over August to 138,600. Most of this gain resulted from an increase of 1,800 jobs in the canning industry and 400 jobs in sugar refining. Over-the-month losses were noted in meat packing (-100), dairy products (-300), malt beverages (-200), and other miscellaneous food industries (-100). Other losses of about 100 jobs each occurred in apparel, chemicals, and petroleum products.

Although there were scattered losses in various nonmanufacturing industries, the industry showed a net gain of approximately 1,200 jobs from August. The largest gains occurred in transportation (3,200), retail trade (1,500), services (1,100), and the educational sector of local government (2,600). In spite of the increase in local education, total government employment decreased by about 3,000. The normal increase in government employment between August and September did not occur, largely because Summer employment had been much higher than normal in 1966. The decreases resulting from termination of Summer projects offset the usual increases occurring in this sector.

Brown also reported that manufacturing production worker earnings were slightly higher in September because of generally higher numbers of hours worked by slightly higher paid workers. Average weekly arnings for September were $115.23 for 41.2 hours of work at $2.80 per hour. Each of these averages were up from the August figures of $114.50 per week for 41.0 hours of work at $2.79 per hour. The corresponding figures for last September were $112.21, 41.6 and $2.70.

The American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Ed Lubarski Friday evening, Oct. 14 with 9 members present. After giving the pledge of allegiance to the flag the secretaries report was read and approved. The gift shop and dollar shower will be remembered as usual and a motion carried to remember the children's home at Roseau. Meeting adjourned after a history of auxiliary doings of "20 years ago" was read by Mrs. Morris Lindstrom which was very interesting. The auxiliary will also serve a luncheon for the teachers during National Education Week. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Ed Lubarski.

United Fund Kick-off Set Thursday Morning

Kick-off breakfast for the 1966 United Fund campaign in Thief River Falls will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Rex cafe, according to Dr. A. E. Jacobson, director of the drive. A goal in excess of $17,000 is being sought for the benefit of nine participating agencies.

Dr. Donald Goodrich is president of the United Fund with Vernon Nelson as secretary-treasurer. Approximately 30 solicitors will do volunteer service in the campaign which is scheduled to be completed by November 17, Dr. Jacobson said.

Participating agencies this year include the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Boy Scouts of America, Minnesota Association for Retarded Children, United Service Organizations, Girl Scouts, Arthritis Foundation, Salvation Army, Children's Home Society and Red Cross.

United Fund agreement cards to be used this year will permit participants to indicate which agencies they prefer to receive their donations, Dr. Jacobson said.

"Again this year we are encouraging contributors to note that there are nine agencies participating in the campaign and to make their donations accordingly," the director said. "The purpose of the United Fund—making one drive instead of many for the benefit of charitable organizations—will be defeated if contributors give only as much to the total effort as they would to solicitation by any of the individual agencies."

In the past several years the campaign has not met its quota and the organizations participating have received only a percentage of what the United Fund had budgeted for them. Fund officials are hopeful that the quota can be met successfully this year so that participating agencies will not be forced to withdraw and conduct fund drives of their own.

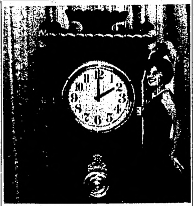
TO SHOW GOSPEL FILM

Rev. Arthur F. Ortmann of Warroad will show the gospel film, "A Time to Speak" in the Grygla school auditorium Sunday at 2:30 p.m.



DON'T FORGET to set your clocks back one hour before retiring Saturday night, as Daylight Saving Time officially ends at 2 a.m. Sunday, October 30. The "fast" time has been in effect since Sunday, April 24, under a federal standardization program which was approved last spring by the Minnesota attorney general. Mary Dahlquist, Miss Thief River Falls of 1966, is shown with the clock in the above photo.

To Retest County Cattle November 4

Minnesota State Livestock Sanitary board will assign a group of doctors of veterinary medicine to Pennington county on November 4 to conduct a brucellosis retest. All herds in the county will be tested. Those herds not tested by the ring method will be blood tested, according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural agent.

The retest will be conducted at this time to continue having the county certified brucellosis - free The last recertification test was conducted approximately three years ago. This retest will be conducted at state and federal expense; there will be no direct expense to the county or to the cattle owners.

The Livestock Sanitary board will employ the veterinarians who practice in the Pennington county area to conduct the retest. Veterinarians from the district area will be used only if there are insufficient local veterinarians available to fill the organization. Each of the veterinarians will have an assistant who lives in the area in which he will work.

The veterinarian or the local assistant will make an appointment with the cattle owner to test his herd. The owner is then to have his cattle in the barn and help restrain them for the test. The testing must proceed on schedule with no delays, so cattle owners with later appointments will not be inconvenienced, and so the county retest can be completed on schedule, Courneya said.

A brucellosis - free county means more markets for dairy products, healthier and more productive herd and less brucellosis infection of human beings.

Doctor Alfred Peterson, area supervisor, will be in charge of the Pennington county retest and will be available during it to answer questions and give more information.

"Education Adds Up" Is Education Week Theme

BUSY days are ahead for the student council at the Thief River Falls state junior college, which is meeting twice a week to develop student government policies for the college. Dick Brown, freshman class representative, is shown in the foreground above with others pictured left to right including Myrna Weckwerth, Thief River Falls, sophomore class representative; Nancy Quam, Thief River Falls, secretary; Doug Soderstrom, faculty advisor; Greg Herling, Roseau, treasurer; Steven Furuseth, Thief River Falls, president; and Joel Fuller, Thief River Falls, vice president. The council is in charge of all extra-curricular activities, student activity funds, dress codes, selection of a college emblem, college colors and supervises all college social activities.

"Education Adds Up" is the theme for American Education week which will be observed in the local schools and throughout the nation November 6-12, according to William Desrocher, chairman of the local American Education Week committee and principal at Washington and Northrop elementary schools.

Other members of the committee include Lynda Rolfson, Peggy Stahl, Arnt Aune, Richard Edlund, Kenneth Swenson and Neil Taverna. As part of the observance, the Times will carry a series of feature articles on various phases of the educational program in Thief River Falls.

As in the past, local schools will extend an invitation to the parents to visit their children's schools during the week. Open house will be held as follows:

Monday, November 7, 1 p. m. at Northrop elementary and 7:30 p. m. at Franklin junior high school; Tuesday, November 8, 1 p. m. at Washington elementary school; Wednesday, November 9, 1 p. m. at Knox elementary and 7:30 p. m. at Lincoln senior high and the vocational - technical school; and Thursday, Novmber 10, 1 p. m. at Mark Twain elementary school. Further details on the program for open house will be announced in later editions of the Times.

American Education Week was inaugurated in 1921 by the American Legion and the National Education association, which were joined in 1922 by the U. S. office of education and in 1938 by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers as co-sponsors.

The event was established as a means to attain a program of education adequate to American needs. At that time, the local chairman notes, the greatest need was to correct conditions that allowed an alarmingly high proportion of youth to be illiterate and physically unfit.

"Today's needs are far more widespread, for they include not only corrective measures but enrichment measures," Desrocher said, "Education is as important to the bright, talented youth with diverse and creative interests as it is to the disadvantaged youth hoping only for a chance to stay in school long enough to develop sufficient skills to hold a steady job."

The first feature story in the series written for the Times by Editor Marvin Lundin will concern two relatively new phases of the local educational program. It will include interviews with Mae Skjolten school social worker, and Fay McPhail, speech therapist, and will be published in the Monday edition.

Other interviews and pictures will be published in succeeding issues.

$369,500 Grant Made to City for Sewer and Water

Announcement of a federal economic development grant of $369,500 to the city of Thief River Falls for construction of water and sewer system was made today by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, speaking at a noon luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce "Meet the Candidates" series.

Sen. Mondale's announcement noted that the city will match the grant with equal funds for a total project of $739,000.

The funds will provide new water and sewer systems to serve a proposed industrial park site, vocational - technical school and junior college site and residential areas. The senator said he had been authorized by the White House to announce approval of the grant.

Schedule Listed For Lions Club Hallowe'en Event

Junior high school students will be hosted to a roller skating party in the city arena from 7 to 9 p. m. Music will be provided during the evening, according to James Carlson who heads this portion of the Lions project.

Officers Elected At Junior College

After a two-week election campaign, student concil officers were elected last week at Thief River Falls state junior college. Class officers were elected on Friday.

Officers are planning to meet twice weekly during the fall quarter because of the amount of work to be done in developing student government policies for the college, now in its second year. The student council is in charge of all extra-curricular activities, student activity funds, dress codes, selection of a college emblem, college colors and supervises all college social activities.

Sophomores — Ron Hanson, Erskine, president; a three-way tie will be decided in a run-off vote this week for vice president; Susan Finney, St. Vincent, secretary; and Dennis Hoel, Erskine, treasurer.

Junior College Asks Instruments To Start Band

Local junior college students, interested in forming a pep band, are seeking assorted band instruments to borrow or purchase, according to Dean Victor Charles.

About 15 experienced musicians have met three times, pondering how to get enough instruments to practice and play on, since the college does not offer band in the curriculum and there is no budget for instruments.

The pep band is being organized as an extracurricular, no credit activity for the purpose of playing at basketball games and on other occasions, to lend to the collegiate atmosphere and stimulate school spirit.

The only funds available are student activity fees paid by all full-time students. However, all expenses of the athletic programs, including referees, equipment, transportation, motels and so on, as well as for the college newspaper and other activities, are paid solely from these student fees.

The activity fund budget is not large enough at this time to purchase or rent all of the instruments needed. Nancy Quam, a freshman from Thief River Falls and a student director of the Lincoln high school band last year, is the student director. Den Victor Charles is the sponsor.

Instruments students wish to borrow or purchase are clarinets, trumpets, alto sax, French horn, drums and cymbals, bassoon and trombone. Instruments loaned to students will be carefully safeguarded, Dean Charles said. All in the band are experienced players. Anyone wishing to sell a used instrument, or to loan one, may call the college office, 681-2181.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Plan Installation Here

Annual joint installation of officers of the local Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at the local Odd Fellows hall.

A special installation staff will conduct the ceremonies to seat the elective and appointed officers in their various chairs. The lodges will have a short business meeting at 7 p. m. for the members, and the joint installation is free and open to the public at 8 p. m.

A lunch and social time including dancing will follow.

Senator Sinclair Makes Contacts On River Program

Senator Donald Sinclair reports that, at the suggestion of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce flood control committee, he had recently contacted the Army corps of engineers and the state department of conservation with reference to improvements on the Thief river.

Spokesmen for the corps of engineers indicated that they were presently reviewing all information available from former partial surveys on the Thief river to determine whether they could undertake a more comprehensive survey with funds presently available.

The commissioner of conservation stated that the department intended to ask the next legislature for funds to install a control gate in the Thief River dam. Water levels then could be adjusted to aid in flood control.

Written confirmation of these conversations is expected shortly.

Holly Ann Knutson Is Bride of Dennis Wilson

Miss Holly Ann Knutson and Dennis Arlen Wilson exchanged marriage vows at a candlelite ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday, September 3, at Trinity Lutheran church. The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harland Knutson of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wilson of Goodridge.

The Rev. Harold Peterson officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Peterson served as organist. She played a program of appropriate selections as the guests were ushered to their seats by Jon Wilson of Thief River Falls, a cousin of the groom, and Robert Niemi of Plummer, a friend of the groom.

George Ennen of Lakota, Iowa, great uncle of the bride, was soloist. He sang "O Perfect Love" and "Precious Lord Take My Hand." Baskets of white gladioli graced the chancel for the ceremony attended by 250 relatives and friends.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white chantilly lace. Styled with a scoop neckline enhanced with sequins and pearls, the gown was fashioned with long tapering sleeves and a floor-length sheath skirt featuring a detachable bouffant chapel length train. A crown of nylon petals, accented with seed pearls, secured her bouffant veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascading bouquet of American beauty roses and white carnations. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Bruce Russell of Thief River Falls. Miss Sandra Anderson of this city, a friend of the bride, was bridesmaid.

They wore identical floor-length gowns of pink nite-lite fashioned with sleeveless fitted bodices, scoop necklines and softly pleated skirts. Their headpieces were veiled pillbox hats fashioned of matching nite-lite and each carried one long-stemmed American Beauty rose.

The groom chose his friends Larry Martinson of Minneapolis as best man and Dwight Ortloff of Thief River Falls as groomsmen. The men of the wedding party were attired in dark business suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Knutson wore a champagne beige lace dress in sheath fashion, complemented by rose colored accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a yellow three piece knit ensemble with matching hat and black accessories, of American Beauty roses.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs. Inga Knutson and Mrs. J. H. Claussen, grandmothers of the bride, and Mrs. Hilda Wilson, grandmother of the groom.

A reception in the church parlors followed immediately after the ceremony. Mrs. Sidney Wilson, aunt of the groom, served as hostess and Linda Knutson, cousin of the bride, registered the guests.

The diamond shaped, four-tiered wedding cake was iced in white, trimmed with pink roses and topped by a miniature bride and groom. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Ted Hornseth, godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Raymond Ptacek, relative of the groom. Mrs. Joe Panek of Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Joe Virkus, great aunt of the groom, poured. Waitresses were Mrs. Richard Hruby and Mrs. Archie Wilson, aunts of the groom, and Mrs. Olga Troland, friend of the bride. Those in charge of the gift table were Mrs. Bernie Wilson, cousin of the groom, Mrs. William Elleson, cousin of the bride, and Mavis Besch, a friend of the bride.

All who assisted at the reception were presented with corsages designed by Mrs. Sidney Wilson, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Alvin Burstad, a friend of the couple. They also made the centerpieces for the tables composed of lighted candles surrounded by floral arrangements.

For traveling on the wedding trip, the bride was attired in a blue woolen suit with black accessories and a corsage of sweatheart roses. Her personal attendant was Mrs. Orel Stocks of this city.

County Receives $51,500 for ACP Program in 1967

Funds totaling $51,500 have been allocated to Pennington county for cost-sharing assistance to local farmers cooperating in the 1967 Agricultural Conservation program, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. This compares with the allocation of $57,900 for the 1966 program.

Program funds are allocated primarily on the basis of conservation needs. Up to 25 per cent of the funds are expected to be reserved for such uses as increased treatment of conservation problems on low-income farms and for starting a sound conservation program on farms where one has not yet been undertaken.

In recent years, most of the county's ACP funds have been used to help farmers carry out such practices as new seedings of legumes and grasses, ditching, stock water pits, wild life food plots and tree plantings.

Overall ACP goals for 1967 in Pennington county are to emphasize solutions to conservation problems which improve the appearance of farm and ranch land, as well as protect the resources of the farm and the community.

The chairman points out that producers on about 500 county farms are using ACP each year in bolstering the nation's ability to meet its food, fiber and timber requirements for the future. Over a period of six years, the program has reached about 85 per cent of the county's total farms.

As in previous years, farmer-elected ASC committees will administer the 1967 ACP with technical assistance from state and other federal agencies in coordination with work plans of local soil and water conservation districts.

Odd Fellows Give Traveling Gavel To Fort Frances

Local Odd Fellows of Young Pine Lodge 221 and Rebekahs of Lyon 69 made a special visitation to the Fort Frances, Ontario, lodge Saturday evening. The group delivered a "traveling" gavel that has been in possession of the Odd Fellows for a number of weeks, and used about 20 times by the area lodges while here in the promotion of fraternal visits by the lodges.

The gavel was started by Bellingham Bay Lodge 31 of Bellingham, Wash., when that lodge presented it to Excelsior Lodge 7 of British Columbia, on Nov. 13, 1956. The gavel is to move across the Candian border, and work eastward each time it moves, crisscrossing the border each time and has taken about 10 years to work this far.

When it gets to the east coast, it is to be returned to its home lodge where it will be kept, along with the log books that accompany it. All members register their names in such log books and many members and lodges have participated in promotion so far.

The gavel itself is unusual in its size, being about 19 inches long and with a five-inch head, and bears the name plate of its home lodge. Alvin Aaseby past grand of the local lodge, presented the gavel to Clarence Gillies, noble grand of Fort Frances lodge. Millard A. Nelson of Thief River Falls served as master of ceremonies. Twenty-three Odd Fellows and Rebekahs traveling by charter bus, participated in the presentation.

DFL Plans for Gala Fun Fest at Moorhead Armory

Seventh district DFL is planning an event being billed as a "Giant Fun Fest and Gala," Monday evening at the Moorhead armory.

In addition to the entertainment, the entire state DFL slate of candidates will be present to participate.

"This is an evening of entertainment very similar to that which was presented in Minneapolis recently when the tickets cost $100 apiece," states G. W. Powers, district DFL chairman. "However, we're selling tickets for only $1 each."

Tickets may be obtained from any DFL county committee member or may be purchased at the door.

Roseau at East Grand Forks.
Bemidji at Brainerd.

Coach Kenneth (Red) Wilson's Bemidji Lumberjacks won their fifth successive Northwest conference football title on Wednesday evening by rolling up a 47-19 win over the Prowlers in a game played at Bemidji. It was the final conference game of the season for the 'Jacks, giving coach Wilson's squad a mark of four wins and no losses.

In the process of defeating the Prowlers on Wednesday, with senior halfback Craig Daniels scoring five touchdowns and three conversion points, the Lumberjacks set a new season's scoring record. Bemidji, in the four conference games played, rolled up a total of 170 points, bettering the mark of 155 points set by the Bemidji champions of 1964.

In another conference game played last week, on Tuesday evening at Roseau, an improving Crookston Central squad defeated the Roseau Rams, 21-13. The win boosted Crookston into a tie for third place in the league standings with the Prowlers, and the two clubs, the Pirates and the Prowlers, will play at Crookston on Friday night. It will be the season's finale for both teams.

On Friday night, in a game played on the Hylden field in Grand Forks coach Ron Thompson's East Grand Forks Green Wave defeated the St. James Royals, 27 - 21. The win clinched the greater Grand Forks high school football title for the East Grand Forks team. The Green Wave will conclude its 1966 schedule on Friday afternoon by entertaining the Roseau Rams on the East Grand Forks field. The game will be a Northwest conference game.

The conference champion Bemidji Lumberjacks will travel to Brainerd for their traditional season-closing game against Dick Lagergren's Brainerd club. The game will have additional emphasis for Bemidji as it was Brainerd that scored a win over Crosby-Ironton a couple of weeks ago, and it was C-I that handed the 'Jacks their lone defeat of the year to date.

Newfolden Wins First Game 12-6 Over Lancaster

Newfolden Nordics defeated the Lancaster Cardinals 12 to 7 in the Nordics' homecoming feature on Tuesday, October 18. This was the first win for the Nordics in seven games and gave them a Little Seven conference mark of 1-5 for the season. Lancaster had also been winless for the season but has one more game to play.

The Cardinals received the kick-off and promtly gave the ball over to the Nordics who could not move the ball either. After much play in the Cardinals' territory, the first quarter ended in a scoreless tie. In the second quarter the Nordics got moving near the end of the period and went on a 30-yard drive to score with Deland Elseth going in from six yards out. The extra point try failed, but the Nordics held a 6-0 halftime lead.

The Nordics scored again in the third period when they recovered a Cardinal fumble on the Cardinal 20-yard line. James Hodny carried the ball in on the second TD and again the try for extra point failed.

The Cardinals finally reached pay dirt in the fourth quarter on a pass play that covered 50 yards and converted on a plunge to make the final score 12 to 7.

This was the last game for three senior boys, Capt. Lyle Hagenbeck, James Hodny and Richard Ness. These boys will be missed next year from the small squad which was out for football this year, reports Supt. John P. Halvorson. It is hoped that more enthusiasm will be shown by the boys in the Newfolden school to turn out for football in greater numbers so there can be regular scrimmages within the squad, he said. Seventeen was the largest number of boys out for the squad this year, and injuries cut that down, so most of the time the first squad had to play the entire game.

Coach Roy Hokkanen's Oklee Bobcats won the North Tri-County football conference title by scoring a 12-7 win over the previously-undefeated Plummer Cardinals in a game played at Plummer on Tuesday night. The game, which closed out the schedule for Oklee, gave the Bobcats a conference mark of seven wins and no losses.

Oklee, trailing by a 7-0 score entering the fourth period, with Plummer's Bob Martell scoring on an 85-yard punt return, tallied two touchdowns in the final period to gain the win. Oklee scored the game-winning touchdown with less than three minutes of game-time remaining.

Plummer currently shares conference runnerup honors with Middle River, and the two clubs, the Cardinals and the Skippers, will meet at Plummer on Friday night with second place at Stake. Plummer will be faced with the task of stopping the conference scoring leaders, the Middle River Skippers.

In six games, Middle River has racked up a total of 163 points. The lone loss on the Middle River slate was a 20-19 defeat by Oklee in a game played at Middle River several weeks ago. Friday night's tilt shapes as an even-stephen affair, with the home field giving the Cardinals a slight edge.

Sportsmen Club Sponsors Tour of Agassiz Refuge

Pennington County Sportsmen club, in conjunction with personnel from the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, is sponsoring a guided tour of the refuge for all members of the Pennington county Sportsmen club and prospective members.

All persons wishing to go on the tour are asked to be at the refuge headquarters at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 29.

It is felt that refuge personnel are misunderstood by the general public and that a better understanding could be had by all who attend a guided tour.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

One of the Finest

I have watched Bemidji Lumberjack football teams since back in days when Doc Diedrich brought his Bemidji team over here, with its Minnesota shift, and I must rate the current Bemidji squad as one of the better offensive squads produced over there.

Coach Red Wilson's 1966 Northwest conference champions had all the earmarks of a typical Wilson-coached squad, executing well and being able to strike for major scores from any point on the field.

It is perhaps true that there have been Bemidji teams with better "up the middle" strength than the 1966 aggregation. And I quickly bring to mind the 'Jacks that had Mike Falls and Harold Drescher at fullbacks. Both of these boys went on to have a career with the Minnesota Gophers, gaining honors as linemen.

In place of having a hunk of muscle at fullback this season's Bemidji club had Dave Bublitz, who is a dashman in track. Bublitz would move into and through the line with great speed. And, of course, John Boyer at quarterback provided coach Wilson and his staff with an expert passer. Craig Daniels, who scored five touchdowns against the Prowlers, is an able receiver, being a member of coach Bun Fortier's basketball squad and possessed of "good hands".

But to get back to that Bemidji team coached by Doc Diedrich (he was a dentist in Bemidji at the time). They came over here and in game played on the fairgrounds field, scored a 49-0 win over a good Prowler team. The Prowlers of those days had Ernie Barzen at fullback, and what a fire-plug physique he had! That Lumberjack squad utilized the shift made famous by Minnesota's H. L. Williams. Dr. Diedrich was a Minnesota graduate.

A Respite

I spent the weekend, and the Monday following, in Northwestern hospital recovering from an attack of 'pulmonary edema' This attack came on suddenly late Friday night, and I had some anxious moments as I gasped and labored to gain breath. Fortunately, I was able to get into the hospital in a hurry—and under 'intensive care'—and responded to treatment.

Don't know what 'triggered' the assault, but it is the second or third that I have had and I can assure you that it gives a person a feeling of 'angst'.

And the phrase 'pulmonary edema' will be added to my vocabulary. On the same floor as I, after leaving 'intensive care', was Evonne (Ole) Olson, and when I tried to explain what my trouble was he said it was caused by the fact that 'I talked too much and said too little.'

But Ole should talk! His troubles undoubtedly stem from the night when his Land O'Lakes bowling team dropped four points to the Thief River Realty!

Operation Pheasant

In the hearts of sportsmen, particularly the hunters and the fishermen, 'hope springs eternal'. And so it will be on Saturday, October 29, when, during the early-morning hours, carload after carload of northern Minnesota pheasant hunters will be wending toward the south and west to await the noon-hour opening of the 1966 Minnesota pheasant hunting season.

As usual, the problem for these migrating hunters will be posted land. Unless a hunter has a near-and-dear relative, at least on a father-and-son basis, hunting on a private farm will be a luxury. There are a number of Game Management Areas, and there are pheasants in these 'nursed' areas, and they will provide some hunting. The problem here will be pressure.

But it is probable that the discouraging and pessimistic reports that have been circulated will tend to keep some of the boys at home. And these hunters can always await the onslaught of the 'northern flight' of ducks. Last Saturday's intense and vicious storm did stir a few ducks from Canada. But the storm was too short-lived to start a mass migration of the hordes of ducks that are reported to be on Canadian waters.

And there is a party of optimistic pheasant hunters leaving town tonight and headed for Nebraska and a 'bonanza'. They will be guided by Helmer (Great Northern Ole) Ness. That means that the boys will come back with a bag of Leghorns and Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds, Ole doesn't know the difference!

Memorials Given To Heart Fund

Heart fund memorials in the name of the late L. G. Owen of Thief River Falls were recently received by the Minnesota Heart association, according to David Drotts of Thief River Falls, Pennington county memorial chairman.

Because the full amount of these gifts will be used for heart research, Drotts said, they are likely to lead to further advances in the conquest of heart disease.

Father and Son Football Banquet To Be Held Monday

Fourth annual Father and Son banquet for the Lincoln high school football team will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the basement of St. Bernard's Catholic church. All players and their fathers are reminded of the event.

Speaker for the evening will be Rev. Merrill Harris, Pastor of Community Methodist church and Donald L. Olson will serve as master of ceremonies for the evening. Bob Brodin will speak in behalf of the sons attending, and his father, Rodney, will give the response for the fathers. Ralph Skay, LHS athletic director will award football letters at the banquet.

Committeemen in charge of the event are Robert Carlson, Richard LeMoine and Evonne Olson. Persons interestd in securing tickets may contact members of the committee.

MEA Conclave Hears Challenge of Change

Challenge of change resulting from a booming society and the means of meeting that challenge was the thread running through general sessions and scores of sectional meetings in the politically-flavored 84th convention of the Minnesota Education association (MEA).

Pace-setter was Dr. Irvamae Applegate, president of the nearly one-million-member National Education association (NEA), on leave from St. Cloud state college, where she is dean of the education school. Mrs. Applegate, immediate past president of the MEA, told the opening general session in the Minneapolis Armory:

"There are many challenges facing us. Our facing them positively requires our professional commitment. (Theme of her year-long term is "Individual Commitment to Excellence".)"

She cited three: the challenge of change, the challenge of responsibility, the challenge of leadership.

Convention-goers—some 25,000 of them—watched proceedings also on open television—first time in the association's century of existence that the public also has had access to sessions during the two days.

They heard the Applegate theme supported by others:

MEA President Nicholas E. Duff, Minnetonka high school social studies teacher: "Today the education scene is changing so rapidly no man can predict with certainty what the schools of 1976 will be like."

Duff said the change challenges the MEA, that the association is geared to retain its leadership in the teaching profession, through higher standards of teacher qualifications and obtaining a voice in decision-making. He also emphasized MEA leadership in the school district consolidation movement, because "Every child deserves the opportunity to attend a school system sufficiently large to offer him the educational opportunities he needs."

MEA Executive Secretary A. L. Gallop also supported in his biennial convention report the convention of change:

"During these years of change, a new image of the American teacher has been developing. He is becoming a respected professional.

"No other area of American life is more political than education." Gallop pointed out that most tax revenues at local and state levels are spent for education and that virtually all decisions in education are rooted in political action—basically stemming from legislative control over school districts.

U. S. Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming, one of five speakers in an afternoon full of impact sessions, also stressed the political theme:

"It is time for the teachers to come out of the academic closet into the political arena. For altogether too long those individuals who dedicate their lives to education have been intimidated by administrators and school board members to be 'non-political'—whatever that means.

"The hard fact of our time, however, is that the great pressures on modern education and educational development have often converted education into a political football or have warped or distorted its image because defenders and supporters defaulted their responsibilities to advance its just cause."

"Why," the two-term Democrat, a former teacher, asked, "should the greatest profession of them all —education—pretend to look the other way while the political ball is thrown back and forth among the pros?

"It doesn't make good sense that society, which rests a great portion of its education ideology on the teaching of democracy and free government, should require in the next breath that the teachers themselves somehow remain aloof from all things political. This approach is utterly ridiculous."

Another speaker among the five in simultaneous session who alluded to politics-in-teaching was Arnold Wolpert, NEA's director of urban affairs. He discussed professional negotiations as opposed to union-oriented strikes, referring to the Minneapolis collective-bargaining-for-teachers argument that has found its way to the state's highest court:

"I believe that the Minnesota supreme court has the courage—and certainly the logic—to uphold the education laws of Minnesota and will find the existing laws as constitutional. A special law should be passed by the next session of the Minnesota Legislature.

"Schools and children will be better served when working, good-faith, professional negotiation procedures are in effect."

Other speakers referred to the change theme and the effects of public opinion. Dr. Richard B. Kennan, executive secretary of the NEA's professional rights and responsibilities commission, told one of the five impact sessions: "Fundamentally, the only powers that the teaching profession has to bring about change and improvement are public opinion and professional solidarity; and the former is by all odds the greater power."

East Marshall Farmers Union Elects Officers

Other officers elected included Vernon Wikstrom, vice-chairman; Lyndon Magnuson secretary; and Leo Orpen, treasurer.

Other business of the evening included the adoption of farm policy recommendations and the presentation of "Rural Community Leadership" awards to 11 officers of Farmers Union locals in the county. Those honored for their work for betterment of the rural community were John Cwikla, Leo Orpen, Clarence Lian, Mrs. Art Johnson, Mrs. Juell Aune, Alton Sparby, Art Johnson, Aksel Gormsen, Alva Sparby, Paula Aune and Olive Ostby.

Speaking at the county convention, Edwin Christianson, president of Minnesota Farmers union, said that the recent announcement that manufacturing milk support rates would continue at $4 per hundred pounds through March 31, 1963, was a most welcome one and a factor which will give dairy farmers assurance of stability for some time to come.

"Dairymen will be able to plan ahead better because they will know that they will be able to count on at least $4 milk prices through March, 1968," he said.

Since dairy supports are at 89¼ per cent of parity near the top of the 75 to 90 per cent permitted by law, it will take new legislation to authorize any further substantial increase, he explained.

"Certainly, USDA should be given authority to use direct payments in supporting dairy products," Christianson said.

Christianson also noted that the Farmers Union effort to retain the seven per cent investment tax credit was a very significant factor in getting consideration for farmers and small businessmen. This is the law under which farmers, businessmen and other taxpayers can deduct from their federal income tax in the year of purchase, seven per cent of the value of new production machinery or equipment and then take normal depreciation in succeeding years.

Langen Asserts Minority Holds Value in Congress

Congressman Odin Langen wound up his second day of active campaigning for re-election, Tuesday following the weekend adjournment of Congress, speaking before a public rally in New York Mills. As he did the night before at Park Rapids, Rep. Langen reported on the just-completed second session of the 89th Congress.

Noting the importance of a strong two-party system of government, Langen cited examples of the positive accomplishments this year when the minority moved to save programs that had proven themselves through years of successful operation.

"One good example came when we considered the agriculture department appropriations bill," said Langen, who serves on the House agriculture appropriations sub-committee. "The budget proposal called for drastic cuts in the school milk and hot lunch programs elimination of much of our valuable agriculture research, REA and conservation programs, land grant college and extension programs.

"But the hue and cry from you out here and other parts of the nation, after we hoisted the red warning flag, resulted in our successful efforts to restore these programs that provide benefits for all Americans. It would have been a tragedy to scrap such tried and tested programs merely to finance new and untried spending schemes.

"That's why it's important for our people to know the true facts," Langen said. "The credibility gap in Washington is ever-widening," he warned, "but a continuing strong minority voice can narrow that gap and provide the people with information they can believe."

Official Explains Payment Practice Under Medicare

Everyone 65 or older should save his receipts for payment of doctor bills and other medical expenses, according to Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security.

Everyone who signed up for the voluntary medical insurance part of medicare has to pay the first $50 in medical expenses in a year out of his pocket. This year he pays the first $50 after June 30. After that, medicare pays 80 per cent of the reasonable charges; the patient pays the rest.

The patient completes the request for payment from and sends it, together with receipts for bills that he has paid, to his Blue Shield office. This form is in his medicare handbook, Kittelson said.

In instances where the doctor accepts assignment of a bill, he bills Blue Shield. Then the patient pays the balance of the bill to his doctor.

When a patient is hospitalized, the hospital bills Blue Cross. The patient gets an explanation of the benefits paid to the hospital under the hospital program. If he has additional medical expenses, he should send this explanation of benefits to Blue Shield together with his request for payment application.

GOOD GOVERNMENT DOESN'T JUST HAPPEN

Good government is the result of good leadership and clear, decisive action. Four years ago Rep. Fitzsimons was selected Chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee. Let's look at just a few of the resuts of the leadership displayed by Rep. Fitzsimons.
● EDUCATION:
School aid increased by 40% A new Junior College at Thief River Falls—A new Minnesota Tech at Crookston—Liberal Arts and Associated Art Degree Institutions in Northwestern Minnesota for the first time.
● AGRICULTURE:
Northwestern Minnesota's biggest business. 50% increase in Agricultural Research—25% increase in Agricultural Extension Budget—An Appropriation to help sell Minnesota Agriculture's products for the first time.
● WELFARE:
Striking gains for the Mentally Retarded and Handicapped. New programs to aid the counties and its citizens in aid to the disabled and medical assistance.
● FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY:
All appropriations for all state government must be submitted to and approved by Rep. Fitzsimon's committee. How well Rep. Fitzsimons met this great responsibility is best illustrated by this excerpt from House Resolution No. 28. This is a very rare tribute that the members of the House gave Rep. Fitzsimons.
"Now therefore, Be It Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the State of Minnesota that we extend to Richard W. Fitzsimons our sincere and grateful appreciation for his work as Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for the 1965 Session and to the people of the State of Minnesota."
Keep this strong voice speaking for Northwestern Minnesota in the Legislature!
Re-Elect Richard W. Fitzsimons
State Representative-Dist. 67-A

Look Who's Railroading

The following editorial from the Fergus Falls Daily Journal contains some of the most clever play on words and imaginative writing we have seen for some time.

Gov. Karl Rolvang's campaign train is still huffing and puffing along, although it seems to have come upon a very rough piece of roadbed and has been slowed to a crawl on an up-hill grade. The fireman, a tireless workman who is constantly in motion between the coal tender and the blazing firebox trying to keep up a head of steam in the boiler that leaks a bit here and there and loses pressure rapidly when the engineer hangs onto the whistle cord instead of the throttle, is Bob Short. The engineer, of course, is Rolvaag himself, whose chief qualification seems to be that he has been over the route once before.

The rest of the crew, except for one, is not so well known. There is a brakeman without a lantern, for instance, that they call Youngdahl because they don't even know him by his first name. The two other brakemen, Bob Hansen and Wayne Olson, are better liked by the engine crew. The conductor, Joe Donovan, has a lot of seniority. He's been a crewman from way back.

Between the locomotive and the caboose is one of the strangest trains ever put together in Minnesota. It's not long, rather short in fact, but it carries an odd assortment of freight. One car, for instance, is marked explosives, a consignment from American Allied, a shipper that went out of business after the car had been loaded and delayed for months on a St. Paul sidetrack. This car was supposed to have been on another man's train, an engineer by the name of Keith, but it was coupled up with Rolvaag's recently and it looks now as though it will be in that train all the way. Another car is marked "Highway 35 Scandal," containing return merchandise of some sort that Rolvaag hauled the other way on his first trip. Another, which is about half empty, is marked "Unattended Business." This car has a couple of flat wheels and a burned out journal, but it can't be uncoupled because there is no place on the main line to set it off.

Other cars in the train include a few empties, marked "1962 Campaign Promises," and a sleek new steel car bearing the stenciled words "Andersen's Taconite Ammendment—Credit to Rolvaag." An old passenger coach is coupled into the train bearing the name Sugar Hills. It's empty now Tagging along near the end of the train are two flat cars, one called Humphrey and the other Mondale. They were hooked on just before departure time.

Several hobos have hitched a ride, of course, like George Farr, who is hanging on behind the tender, and some others who aren't so recognizable from a distance.

People who have been congregating at railway stations along the route say they've heard the engineer tell the fireman he doesn't know exactly where he's going, but Rolvaag shouts all the places he's been to everyone with in earshot as the train goes huffing and puffing by. The timetable says "The Spirit of '66" is due to arrive at her destination on time, but some folks aren't so sure anymore.

An Open Letter

Success Motivation institute of Waco, Texas, makes some very clear and blunt points in the following "open letter" to young people:

Dear Kid:

Today you asked me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids out of high school can't find work.

But, I hired a teenager today. You saw him. He was the one with polished shoes and a necktie. What was so special about him? Not experience, neither of you had any. It was his attitude put him on the payroll instead of you. Attitude, son, A - T - T - I - T - U - D - E. He wanted that job badly enough to shuck the leather jacket, get a haircut, and look in the phone book to find out what this company makes. He did his best to impress me. That's where he edged you out.

You see, Kid, people who hire people aren't "with" a lot of things. We know more about Bing than about Ringo, and we have some Stone-Age ideas about who owes whom a living. Maybe that makes us prehistoric, but there's nothing wrong with the checks we sign, and if you want one you'd better turn to our wave length.

Ever hear of "empathy"? It's the trick of seeing the other fellow's side of things. I couldn't have cared less that you're behind in your car payments. That's your problem, and President Johnson's. What I needed was someone who'd go out in the plant, keep his eyes open, and work for me like he'd work for himself. If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You'll be head and shoulders over the rest.

Look, Kid: The only time jobs grew on trees was while most of the manpower was wearing G.I.'s and pulling K.P. For all the rest of history you've had to get a job like you got a girl: "Case" the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing.

Maybe jobs aren't as plentiful right now, but a lot of us can remember when master craftsmen walked the streets. By comparison you don't know the meaning of "scarce."

You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way. When they find one, they can't wait to unload some of their worries on him.

For both our sakes, get eager, will you?

Stirring the Coals

Pardon us for stirring the coals, but we wonder what happened to the flames that were flaring just a short time ago regarding the area driver's license examiners. It would appear that the legislators who were fanning the fire got their fingers burned, and are now reluctant to even approach the ashes.

We know that Rep. Harvey Wilder of Crookston and Sen. Norman Larson of Ada made some highly derogatory statements about the three examiners working in this area of the state. We also know that the state highway department promised an investigation. We know that the investigation of complaints was conducted, and we further know that the examiners are still working on schedule.

It should be expected that the dedicated, public-spirited officials who made the charges and demanded an investigation make a report to their constituents. They should show that the results proved their charges and that remedial action was taken—or they should admit they were acting hastily with personal or political motivation and publicly apologize to the men they wronged.

The examiners were declared guilty by Rep. Wilder and Sen. Larson, although they were never so much as formally advised of the charges. They were compelled to work under this dark cloud of implied guilt which must certainly have made their job even more difficult than normal.

It is apparent that the two legislators—facing competition for their jobs in reorganized district—were seeking recognition. Rep. Wilder is a Liberal and Sen. Larson is a Conservative in the state legislature. Neither one is from our local district. But if they were, this editor knows of two legislators who would find their program of character assassination too unpalatable to digest. And our indigestion would show on the ballot.

Underselling Ourselves

It was with considerable interest that we listened to Dr. James Tate at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday. While he is a veterinarian by profession, Dr. Tate prefers ranching, and is both optimistic and enthusiastic about the possibilities for ranching in this area of Minnesota.

"Your grassland in this area is the most undersold commodity you have," he told the club. "The quality is good—and I've had it tested for feed values—and the grazing cost is cheap. I am sure that I can put greater gain on cattle faster than can be done in the Dakotas, Colorado and Nebraska. Your water is also better than any I have found anywhere except in the sand hills of Nebraska."

Dr. Tate investigated the possibilities for two years and has now made arrangements to start his venture. He has fenced some land and is fencing more between the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers on the Red Lake Indian reservation. His "ranch" will be about 60,000 acres and his initial contract is to feed 10,000 steers next summer.

Cattle to be grazed in this herd come from Mexico. They will be wintered in the south, shipped here about mid-May next year at a weight of 500 to 550 pounds, and pastured through the summer. Then they will go to a commercial feed lot for finishing to market weight.

Dr. Tate is convinced that every ingredient for ranching—grass, water and credit—is available here. He predicts that in 10 to 15 years this area of Minnesota will carry more cattle than comparable acreage in the Dakotas.

We will certainly watch with interest to find out if Dr. Tate's research and projections prove out in actual facts. If they do, he is sure to have company in the ranching business here. Efficiency of gain is the key to profitable beef production. Cheap land with good quality feed and water have much to offer cattlemen. Have we been looking past something in our attempts to bolster the area economy?

Our Piece of Poverty

There are six states in the Great Lakes region of the Office of Economic Opportunity. According to statistics from the Chicago office, programs currently operating in the region total $321,488,109. Of this total, $35,798,496 is being spent in Minnesota.

When consideration is given to the fact that this region comprises six states out of 50, and that some of these may be considered sparsely populated, it is easily seen that the poverty program is no little part of the nation's unbalanced budget.

Our piece of poverty in Minnesota is small compared to the national total, but it's a pretty wide wedge of pie no matter how you slice it.

9th Federal Reserve Dist. Shows Growth

Economy of the Ninth federal reserve district continues to register its summertime ascension, according to the Minneapolis federal reserve bank.

Except for a slack created by a slowdown in construction, most district economic sectors are registering moderate increases. The construction decline is more than made up by exhibits of growth in the manufacturing and government sectors.

Crop output and prices appear favorable for farm income. The September crop report showed a marked improvement in district crop production estimates as compared to the August report. The estimated production of all wheat is now set at 305 million bushels, up three million bushels from the August estimate. Soybean estimates also moved upward four million bushels, pusing the district total to 92 million bushels. The sharpest increase in estimates occurred in corn—435 million bushels, up 35 million bushels. Crop prices continue to run well ahead of last year's.

Impetus for growth in manufacturing, according to indices of production worker manhours, came rather uniformly from most major industries. In its monthly economic review, the bank said that the machinery industry chronicled rapid gains within the district just as it did in the nation.

Industrial production, as measured by consumption of electrical power by industrial users, which expanded rapidly during July, slowed somewhat in August. Slight increases occurred, however, in such industries as fabricated metals, electrical and non-electrical machinery.

In construction, a decline in housing starts has been rather uniformly spread throughout the ninth district's geographical regions—declines were registered in all district states except in upper Michigan and northwestern Wisconsin.

Total deposits during September flowed into district banks at a pace which fell short of the normal inflow by 20 per cent. This slower-than-usual growth was due in large part to deposit behavior at city banks where a sizable contraction in time deposits, not entirely offset by growth in private demand deposits, was registered.

The reserve and liquidity positions of city banks remained relatively tight during September: a decline in credit was generally offset by the contraction in deposits. The loan-to-deposit ration at the end of September at city banks stood at 67 per cent.

State Employment Continues Rise In Non-Farm Jobs

October will mark the 60th consecutive month in which nonagricultural employment in Minnesota has exceeded that for the comparable month of the preceding year, according to Robert J. Brown commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Employment security.

Brown also said that average yearly employment in Minnesota has shown a continuous and accelerated growth in each of the past four years. October will show a gain of at least 50,000 jobs over the number in October, 1965, he noted. Based on current trends, he predicted that the 12 months of 1966 will show an average monthly employment of 51,800 over 1965, the largest one-year average job growth in the state's history.

1963	1,002,800	17,200
1964	1,029, 00	26,300
1965	1,072,500	43,400
1966	1,124,300	51,800
Total increase 1962-1966		138,700

As further evidence of the state's economic health, Brown predicted that if present job trends continue as expected, 1966 unemployment in Minnesota will be at the lowest average number since 1952. Actual unemployment in September was down to 2.2 per cent of the state's labor force. In the Twin Cities Metropolitan area unemployment in September was 1.8 per cent of the labor force.

Statistics used in the survey are part of a continuous collection by the department of employment data from a representative sample of firms throughout Minnesota.

THERE GOES THE BELL!

The diller, the dollar, the ten o'clock scholar. Remember how the rhyme ended? Tardiness leads from bad to worse. The boy ended by sleeping until noon.

Often parents ask, "WHEN IS IT TIME TO BEGIN THE RELIGIOUS TRAINING OF OUR CHILD?" Here's a straight-forward answer: "THE MOMENT YOU BEGIN TO LOVE HIM!"

You see, God is love. And, in a home where God is loved, a child quickly begins to associate the love of his parents for him with this Other Love which is felt by those he loves. Then come Bible stories and pictures and a simple prayer to help him experience and express his growing faith. Soon he'll be starting Sunday School — but his religious training has already begun.

Our churches are helping tomorrow's parents equip themselves spiritually today. The couple planning marriage needs a mature religious faith. For when God has given us a little son or daughter . . . THERE GOES THE BELL!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Income Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—My son is working part time while going to school. Is there a limit to his earnings and must he quit his job at some designated time before I lose his exemption for 1966?

A—If your son is under 19 years of age at the end of the year, he may have any amount of income, and you may claim him as a dependent provided you furnished more than half of his support in 1966. If your son is over 19 years of age and is a full-time student at an educational institution, you may claim his exemption also if you furnished more than half of his support in 1966 and he is not married and files a joint return with his wife. Your son may be required to file his own tax return and claim his own exemption, but it is available also to you if these tests are met.

Q—I realized a gain when I recently sold some rental property I had. Do I have to pay tax on the gain this year even though the buyer is paying me over a 10-year period?

A—You may report the gain using the installment method. Under this method, the gross profit on a sale is prorated over the period in which payments are received. This method can be used only if the seller received no payments, or payment of 30 per cent or less of the selling price, during the year of the sale.

Make careful note of the payments you receive from the buyer so that at the end of your tax year you will have the information necessary to report the sale on your return. Further information is contained in IRS Document No. No. 5108, "Installment and Deferred Payment Sales," which may be obtained free from our District Office.

Q—I have some part-time employees that are paid on salary and commission. Do I have to withhold taxes from the commissions as well as wages?

A—Yes. The withholding requirement applies to payments of commissions, bonuses and other compensation as well as to wages.

Q—In return for waiting on tables my son receives room and board at college. Is he liable for any income tax?

A—The general rule here is that the fair market value of the room and board he receives is taxable income. If this plus any other income he receives amounts to $600 or more for the year then he will have to file a Federal income tax return.

Q—When is the last payment on estimated tax due?

A—If your tax ends December 31 as is the case with most taxpayers, the final estimated tax payment is due January 16, 1967. However if you file your 1966 return by January 31 and pay the full amount of the balance due, then the final estimated tax payment does not have to be made.

Q—I just received a letter from the Internal Revenue Service saying that I owe additional tax on my 1965 income. Can I pay this off in installments?

A—No, it is due and payable in full. You are also liable for interest at the rate of six per cent a year on what you owe.

Q—I made an error in withholding income tax from wages for one of my employees. What should I do?

A—On your Employers quarterly return, make an adjustment on line 2 of Form 941. Attach a statement explaining the error, the period or periods involved, and how the employer and employee have settled the overcollection or undercollection of the tax withheld.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Even if they themselves drink, at least occasionally, most people are not involved in alcohol problems. There is however a large minority who are directly and personally involved. Each alcoholic affects the lives of five other people. In Minnesota alone, there are approximately 60,000 alcoholics, according the Minnesota State Medical Association. This would mean that about 300,000 Minnesotans are in some way personally involved with the problem of alcoholism.

Too often the image of the alcoholic is that which he sets when he is drinking. He is thought of as the "misbehaving" person. Alcoholism is however a far more complex problem.

Alcoholism is an illness. It may be the result of psychological problems or in some cases, a physical disorder. Alcoholism can be treated, says the Medical Association, but treatment of this illness is by no means a do-it-yourself project.

The alcoholic needs some type of support and assistance if he is to stop drinking. The alcoholic may need spiritual, social, psychological, or medical help, or perhaps drugs are used to help the patient through the initial withdrawl from alcohol. There are also "protective drugs" which make the patient violently ill if he takes a drink while the drug is in his system. These drugs are NOT cures. They can only help to make other forms of treatment work better.

Treatment for the alcoholic variously involves, individual counseling, group discussions, family and occupational couseling by a clergyman. Any or all of these methods may have an effect, but in order for any form of treatmint to be really effective, at some stage the alcoholic needs to make a kind of inner personal "surrender." He must learn to live without alcohol.

Wanting to be cured, many, if not most, patients could be freed of their addiction to alcohol with the help of physicians, social workers, clergymen, Alcoholics Anonymous, and others interested in the alcoholic.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q— I understand that I can apply for GI insurance since I have a service-connected disability from my World War II service. Where can I apply?

A — You have waited too long. The law that reopened GI insurance to certain disabled veterans set a deadline of May 2, 1966, for accepting applications. This is no longer available.

Q — I was told that additional benefits under the new GI Bill commenced June 1, 1966. I was in school and finished my training June 15, 1966. May I be paid for the period June 1 to June 15?

A — No. Payments are not authorized for training commencing prior to June 1, 1966, and ending prior to June 30, 1966.

Q — I am a dependent parent receiving death compensation benefits of $60 a month. Is it possible for me to receive a greater benefit from the VA?

A — If your annual income from all other sources does not exceed $1,000, you may be entitled to a higher rate of Dependency and Indemnity Compensation. Contact your VA Regional Office.

Q—I have a 17-year old son receiving benefits. If he takes a part-time job, is the earnings limit the same for him as for me?

A—Yes. A child beneficiary who works is permitted to earn up to $1,500 a year without affecting payment of his benefits.

Q—I operate my own business. There always are a few slack months most years in which I do not think I earn as much as $125. If I kept exact records to show that I did not earn $125, could I be paid benefits for those months?

A—Monthly earnings are not used as the measuring stick in determining when benefits might be paid to self-employed persons. Rather it is the amount of work performed in a given month. You can get benefits for any month you do not render substantial services to your business.

Q—I will be 65 in October and will be retiring then. Will my wages for the previous 9 months of the year be considered in determining whether I can draw any benefits after retirement?

A—Yes, earnings for the entire year must be counted. However, benefits can be paid for any particular month or months in which you will not be earning over $125.

Q—I will reach age 72 in November. Does this mean that the $1,500 limit will not apply to my earnings this year?

A—No. Although your earnings beginning with the month of November will not affect your benefit payments, if your annual earnings total more than $1,500 for this year, you still could lose benefits for months in which you earned over $125 before November.

Also, added comfort, safety and convenience: Improved visibility all around. Dual master cylinder brake system. Telescoping lower steering shaft. Energy-absorbing instrument panel. Interior color-keyed to go with exterior paint. One-hand tailgate latch.

Bjornson Pleads For Passage of State Amendment

The only constitutional amendment being submitted to Minnesota voters November 8 has received a plug from Val Bjornson, state treasurer. Bjornson acknowledged that the amendment up this time hasn't the basic importance of some of those we've acted on in the past, But it deserves the vote and support of Minnesotans and so far it has scarcely been mentioned"

The amendment, as the state treasurer explained it, would "eliminate the ridiculous and incredible provision which bars any member of the Legislature from seeking an office which has been created or whose emoluments have been increased during his term of office. It doesn't make any difference whether the lawmaker votes 'Yes' in such a situation—if he's been a member of House or Senate, he cannot aspire to state-wide office in such a situation. Actually, he cannot now legally resign his legislative post during his term of office."

The change has been proposed before, said Bjornson, "but it has failed of passage for the reason amendments usually do—people leave the ballot blank. That's the same as voting 'No'. To approve an amendment, we must have a majority of all votes cast in the election not just on the proposition itself. The Legislature should be our best 'recruiting ground' for state officials, and the ridiculous provision still in our constitution should long since have been eliminated."

Highway 310 Work Nearly Completed North of Roseau

Work on highway 310 has been pushed hard the past week and a layer of surfacing is now covering the entire highway from Roseau to the Canadian border.

It appears that if good weather holds, the entire surfacing project may be completed this week, according to the Roseau Times-Region. Another layer must be added to a portion of the north end of the highway, but it is expected that favorable weather will facilitate the quick completion of that work.

When finished, 310 will join 89 at Roseau with Canadian 12 and will provide a second all-weather surfaced highway to Winnipeg from Roseau, the other being highway 89 through Pinecreek.

Expect 500 at Annual 4-H Banquet Tuesday

Approximately 500 4-H club members and adult leaders are expected to attend the 29th annual Pennington county 4-H club banquet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. The event is sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce.

David Drotts, a member of the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will serve as master of ceremonies for the event. The turkey dinner will be served by Chamber of Commerce members, according to Vernon Nelson, chairman of the agriculture committee.

There will be no special speaker at the banquet program this year, with the entire program consisting of award presentations. Several members of the Chamber of Commerce will assist in the award distribution. They include Mayor Orin Green, C. L. Charlson, Clifford Bjorkman, Robert Dondelinger and Robert Flynn.

Charles Follett, president of the Thief River Falls Jaycees, will announce the winner of the "Farm Boy to Chicago" trip which is sponsored annually by the local Jaycee chapter. A deserving farm youth from this area will be selected to receive an expense-paid trip to Chicago with other Minnesota farm youth.

Silas Hanson will present the agronomy awards, Marvin Lundin will present the Club of the Year award made annually by the Times, and a number of other special awards will be included on the program. Donavon Narverud, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will give the welcome and Kermit Solem of the Steiner 4-H club will give the response.

"Pennington county has reason to be proud of its 4-H club members and leaders," states Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural agent. "Awards to be presented Tuesday night will testify to accomplishments which have been made by clubs and individuals during the past year." Courneya and Miss Beverly Tvelto, county home agent, will assist in the award presentation.

Meeting on Beef Testing Program Slated Tonight

University of Minnesota agricultural extension service has developed a production testing program for beef cattle. The purpose of this program is to aid the producer in selecting replacement heifers or bulls, and culling the cow herd on the basis of performance.

An informational meeting to explain the details of this program is scheduled for tonight in the court house meeting room at 8 p.m. Bob Jacobs, extension animal husbandry specialist, will be the speaker.

It will serve the beef producer much the same as the dairy and swine testing programs are doing for their respective enterprises. This testing program will be a benefit to both the purebred and commercial producers. County agents and vocational agriculture men will assist producers in collecting the performance data and the University of Minnesota will process the data.

There is no charge for participating in the program, according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural agent.

Former Red Lake Co. Agent Given Leave of Absence

Otter Tail County Extension committee and the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service announced last week that Sherman Mandt, East Otter Tail county agricultural agent since 1954 and former McIntosh man, has been granted a year's leave of absence from his position as agricultural agent in East Otter Tail county.

Mandt is also a former Red Lake County Agricultural Agent.

Mandt was granted the leave of absence to succeed William Dorsey as coordinator for the Todd county pilot project in concerted services in training and education.

Sen. Mondale Speaks

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, appointed to the U. S. Senate by Gov. Karl Rolvaag and seeking election for the first time this year, was guest speaker at the series on Wednesday.

Sen. Mondale said that the big issue confronting the United States today is whether we are to become a nation of large, ugly, crowded and congested metropolitan areas or maintain our rural areas and small communities. At present, he said, 75 per cent of the nation's population lives on two per cent of the land and the trend is predicted to accelerate.

Some of our major problems as a nation—including civil rights, housing, slums, law enforcement, water and air pollution—are a result of congested living, he said.

"There is more to life than earning a salary and living in a good house," the senator said. "Our forefathers loved the natural beauty of the nation." He said that the government must try to develop programs which will help people remain in their home territory, allow farmers to live on their land and provide educational opportunities which permit children to remain in the rural areas.

Sen. Mondale said the nation produced $740 billion in wealth this year. Education has always been important but now it is absolutely indispensable, he said. The reservoir of knowledge nearly doubles every five years.

Commenting on medicare, he said it is not a radical program but a sensible first step which

Walker Sentenced At Roseau for Wounding of Boy

Judge Arnold Hildahl, after issuing a rebuke to Theodore Walker in Roseau municipal court, imposed a sentence of 90 days in jail with the sentence to permit work at his regular job during the day—his nights to be spent in jail. The sentence is under the Huber Law which Judge Hildahl emphasized he will utilize whenever feasible from now on.

Walker was sentenced for the September 2 wounding of Fred Urtel, 17, Warroad. He was remanded to Roseau county Sheriff Paul Knochemmus who turned him over to the Koochiching county sheriff where he will serve his term. The entire expenses of his incarceration and all other expenses to the county are to be deducted from his wages at International Falls where he is employed.

Walker was charged in municipal court with "willfully, wrongfully, unlawfully and recklessly handling and using a gun" (308 rifle with scope sight) "so as to endanger the safety of another, to-wit, Fred Urtel." Urtel was wounded in the leg when Walker shot at a plow which he mistook for a deer, the bullet glancing off the plow and striking the youth.

Judge Hildahl told Walker, "This court does not like the idea of having to adjudicate and impose sentence in a case like this as the health and welfare of a boy has been seriously menaced by your careless act. No fine or sentence I can impose will pay for the pain and suffering created by your careless act.

"I do not feel the state has given this court the power to impose a fine or jail sentence commensurate with the gravity of your offense," he stated.

"For me to impose a fine of $100 for you or against anyone for the same type of act is stupid," he declared, "It is also unfair to the people of the county to be responsible for your keep in jail." He then imposed sentence under the Huber Law provisions.

Gordon Hofius Dies When Car Plunges in River

The body of Gordon Hofius, Red Lake county tax assessor, was found early Wednesday morning in his wrecked car in the Clearwater river two miles southwest of Plummer.

Hofius, who made his home in Plummer, was on his way to work and was approaching the Clearwater bridge near the James Gilbertson farm when his car left the road and landed in the river on its back. The accident was discovered sometime later by Hofius' son-in-law R. H. Puhlen of Plummer. Hofius' watch had stopped at 9:20.

Whether Hofius suffered a possible heart attack or had a driving accident was unknown immediately. The river where his car landed was only a couple of feet deep and the car was totally flattened and was brought into Red Lake Falls.

Hofius had been county tax assessor for about the past eight years and succeeded the late C. F. Donald.

Funeral services for Gordon Hofius will be held today (Monday) at 2 p.m. at the Brooks - Plummer Presbyterian church, Plummer, with the Rev. Robert Villwock officiating. Arrangements are by the Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls.

Mrs. H. Johnson Attends Legion Aux. Conference

Mrs. Harold M. Johnson of Thief River Falls, American Legion auxiliary president for Minnesota, has left for Indianapolis, Ind., to attend the auxiliary's annual mid-west conference on child welfare and veterans' rehabilitation, Wednesday through Saturday.

Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by rehabilitation chairman, Mrs. Glenn D. McCarty, Minneapolis, and child welfare chairman, Mrs. T. H Keeler, St. Paul, will attend lectures and programming sessions for four days and bring back to the 46,000 auxiliary members in Minnesota the newest concepts of volunteer service work in these two areas as related to them by specialists in these fields.

Mrs. Johnson stated that the Minnesota auxiliary child welfare program will again this year stress help for the mentally retarded and her organization will offer four special education scholarships to college seniors or teachers now holding certificates, who wish to enter the field of teaching mentally retarded.

The auxiliary's "Forgotten Children" fund, which provides "extras" such as birthday and Christmas gifts, music lessons and instruments, high school pictures and yearbooks for veterans' children living in foster homes or institutions, will be administered by the Minnesota Department of Public welfare.

Social Worker Added For County Schools

SOCIAL WORK has been added to the total education program of the Thief River Falls, Goodridge and St. Hilaire public schools. Miss Mae Skjolten, a graduate of the University of North Dakota, is the school social worker. Unfettered by school hours or classroom schedule, she is able to visit homes and contact other people through traveling in the county.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is one of a series of articles dealing with various phases of the Thief River Falls school system in observance of American Education Week November 6-12.)

In an attempt to more adequately provide for the total needs of students in the Thief River Falls school system, a social worker has been added to the school program this year. She is Miss Mae Skjolten, a graduate of the University of North Dakota with a major in social work, who has had field practice in county welfare work and a day care center for culturally deprived children.

Arrangements for the addition of a social worker to the local school were made by the board of education through the Inter-county Community council at Oklee. Ten per cent of the costs of the program are paid by the Pennington county schools of Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire and Goodridge and 90 per cent by the Office of Economic opportunity.

With approximately 3,600 students enrolled in schools in the three communities, Miss Skjolten obviously can not work with all of them. She must determine—primarily from teacher referral—which students she will endeavor to help, to enable the student to make the most of the learning experience which the teacher and school have to offer.

"This may involve increasing communication and understanding between the school and the home, encouraging continued concern by tra time with students which the community, and spending the extra time with student which the class situation will not always allow a teacher to do," Miss Skjolten said.

While school social work is not new (it began in 1906 in the United States) and is continually growing, it is difficult to define. Perhaps Miss Skjolten's summary will help to explain some of the purposes of the program:

"The prime aim of the school social worker is to enable a child to find and use the strengths and resources within himself to meet and overcome social and emotional difficulties that are interfering with his use of the learning opportunity which the teacher and school provide. This can be accomplished by working closely with the teacher, the family, the child, other school personnel and resources within the community."

Social service is offered in the school to any student who is believed will benefit by it, regardless of intelligence, family financial status or family background. The only restriction is the amount of time which one social worker is able to devote to the program.

What will prompt a teacher to refer a student as one who could possibly be helped by social service? Miss Skjolten lists the following as only a few of many possible possibilities:

School achievement below ability level; difficulties leading to problems of attendance; illness without physical cause; excessive fear, anxieties and crying; withdrawn behavior or overdependence; ag-

Higher Education For Area Reviewed

Interest in higher education for young people in northwestern Minnesota, a number of Thief River Falls people met Thursday afternoon in the Rex cafe with Sen. Donald Sinclair of Stephen. Primary topic of discussion was the Thief River Falls state junior college.

Sen. Sinclair, president pro tem of the Minnesota Senate, reviewed the budget request of the state junior college board. He explained that the board's request for appropriations must pass through several committees before final action can be taken by the entire legislature.

On most occasions in the past, he said, the committees have not given approval to buildings requested in total, but have made adjustments in the requests. It is impossible to determine at this time, he said, what the legislators will choose to do with the junior college program.

It is possible, he stated in reply to questions, that the favorable experience which the state has had with the junior college program could result in the entire budget being adopted. There is also the possibility, he said, that the surplus in the income tax fund could be partially used to finance building in the state's educational program.

M. R. Hankerson, Thief River Falls superintendent of schools, touched the note of urgency in the construction of a junior college building here, and said he believed much the same situation may exist in other new junior colleges in the state. While there will be space in the Lincoln building for continuation of junior college classes for a short time, he said, the large number of junior high school and elementary students will require that the space be used for senior high school within a few years.

It is important, he said, that action be taken for construction of a junior college building in the immediate future to assure continuance of the junior college in this area of Minnesota.

Open House Set At New Library

Open house at the Thief River Falls public library will be held Sunday when a formal dedication of the new building is also planned. The dedication program will begin at 2 p.m. in the library with M. R. Hankerson, superintendent of schools, delivering the dedication address.

Open house will be observed from 2:30 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. Members of the library board, assisted by the Friends of the Library, will serve coffee and cookies during the open house hours.

All persons in Pennington county and the surrounding area are invited to the open house sessions, according to Miss Bertha Hustad, librarian. The city now has one of the most modern libraries in this section of the state.

Seng and Blazjewski Vows Exchanged Near Lancaster

The Holy Rosary Catholic church near Lancaster was the recent scene of the wedding of Betty Seng, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Seng of Karlstad and Tony Blazjewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Blajewski of Lancaster. The parish priest officiated at the double ring ceremony in a setting of autumn flowers.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of white silk bengaline and lace. The fitted bodice of Chantilly lace was fashioned with long sleeves and a square neckline enhanced with seed pearls. Forming back interest was a full length watteau train of matching Chantilly lace. A pearl beaded crown secured her softly gathered shoulder-length veil and she carried a cascade of Cacarus lilies and ivy.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Wallace Kruger, served as matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of bronze metallic embossed acetate and carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose. Her headdress was a cluster of roses attached to a brief veil of silk illusion. Other attendants were Mrs. Dennis Young and Mrs. David Egstad. They were attired in coral and gold respectively, with their gowns and headpieces styled similar to the matron of honor. Each carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose.

Miss Linda Otto, cousin of the groom was junior bridesmaid. She was attired in a coral floor length gown, and carried a yellow rose. The flower girl Sherri Soberoski, wore a gown of yellow chiffon over taffeta styled with a lace bodice trimmed with avocado ribbon. A band of flowers formed her headpiece and she carried a single yellow rose.

Attending the groom as best man was his cousin, Harold Soberoski. Groomsmen were the were the bride's brothers, Steven and Wayne Seng. The groom and his attendants wore black tuxedos with carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Seng wore a streeth length dress of peach crepe with an overlay of matching lace and contrasting brown accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a blue lace dress with coordinating accessories. They wore identical corsages of Maharaja roses. Honor guests, Mrs. M. D. Hodge, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Schmidt, grandmother of the groom, were presented with corsages of yellow carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parish hall with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wychor of Minneapolis, uncle and aunt of the bride, as host and hostess. Mrs. Harold Soberoski presided at the guest book and Andy Jaschak served the punch.

The wedding cake, decorated with yellow roses and topped with a white wedding bell, was made in the shape of a cross. Cutting and serving the cake was Mrs. Louis Pfann while Mrs. Wychor poured. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Warren Hodge, was in charge of the gift table. Waitresses were Susan and Peggy Seng and Priscilla Erickson and those assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Trygve Ingebrigtsen, Mrs. Bill Sylskar and Mrs. Alvin Erickson.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of the Karlstad high scool and the cosmetology department of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. Mr. and Mrs. Blazjewski are at home at 1011 Campbell Drive in Grand Forks, N. D., where the groom is studying accounting at Aaker's Business college. The bride is employed as beautician at the Crowning Glory beauty and wig salon in that city.

Breast Cancer Followup Clinic Set in Crookston

On Wednesday, November 9, a clinical study designed as another step in the fight against breast cancer, the leading cause of cancer in women, will be taken in Crookston.

Pennington county will send 46 women to be examined at the clinic. This is the number located out of a total of 62 examined at a breast cancer detection effort held at Crookston in March, 1961, according to Mrs. Ormond Johnson, cancer clinic chairman in Pennington county.

The women examined originally at Bethesda hospital will report again to this health center. Similarly, those checked at St. Francis hospital will go there for their followup examination.

Examination booths have been set up to provide privacy. Physician members of the Red River Valley Medical society, one of the sponsors, will make the examinations. If an abnormality is found, the woman will be referred to her own physician for further diagnosis and treatment as required.

The 1961 clinic at Crookston was the first held anywhere in the nation and the followup study also is the first attempted.

Other sponsors are the American Cancer society, the Minnesota department of health and the Minnesota Medical association cancer committee.

A bus could not be obtained to provide transportation, so individuals will have to find their own way to attend the clinic.

Driving Caution Urged Tonight Due to Hallowe'en

Dangers resulting from children roaming the city on tricks or treats forays tonight were called to the attention of motorists today by Elton Cummings, chief of the Thief River Falls police department.

"Many of the youngsters will be wearing dark clothing which makes them difficult to see," he said. "Others will be wearing masks which restrict their own vision. All will be excited and are likely to be less careful than normal. Extreme caution when driving, particularly during the early evening in residential areas, could prevent death or serious injury," he said.

Three juvenile boys were apprehended by the police and admitted several acts of vandalism Saturday night, the department reports. Spray paint had been used to paint the back of a garage, car headlights, a house wall, and east side of the Forsberg and Sons plant, a car and pickup truck.

The police department has also been notified by Mrs. L. G. Owen of the loss of tools belonging to her late husband. A number of missing items have been listed with the department.

One traffic accident was also reported Friday by the police department. About 7 p.m. a car driven by Marlene Thorson had stopped at highway 32 facing north on Oakland Park road. The car was struck by a vehicle driven by Marie Laniel, Brooks, which was making a right turn on to Oakland Park road from the highway. Damage was estimated at $72 to the Thorson car and $8 to the Laniel vehicle. The case is under investigation.

He asked formation of a Red River Valley commission to study water problems and flooding in the Red River basin. The water resources act now permits study of water problems on an entire river basin, he said.

Sen. Mondale said he believed the past six years of the Democratic administration have helped agriculture. "I don't say some mistakes haven't been made," he said. "I believe an attempt to stop the school milk program was wrong. The senator also said an increase of at least 10 per cent in social security benefits is necessary.

Liquor Store at Bagley Robbed

Municipal liquor store at Bagley was the victim of a break-in early last Sunday morning. The safe was broken into and the thieves got away with nearly $1,800, according to Clearwater County Sheriff Mel Brustad who is investigating the case.

The time of the break-in has been set at between 2 and 6:30 a.m. Entrance was made through a back window and after entering the building, the thieves forced the door of the office and then proceeded to open the safe. It is said that a half-inch bar was used in opening the office door.

Both bills and coins were in the loot and the manager estimates the exact loss at $1,729. Also stolen was two guns. One is a 30-30 Winchester and the other Remington automatic, .22 caliber.

The robbery was discovered by store manager Bob Hoover about 9:30 in the morning as he went to check the building. According to Hoover, the loss is covered by insurance.

of this city

Next time you are in a quandary if you should serve cake or pie for dessert, make this recipe contributed by Mrs. Nels Fontaine of this city, and your problem will be solved as you'll have a combination of both desserts. It would be interesting to know how today's recipe originated if it was by accident or design. Regardless of what happened, Mrs. Fontaine stated that she had made it several times as it is a very good dessert.

LEMON CAKE-PIE

2 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
Juice of 1½ lemons
pinch of salt
5 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk

Method: Mix beaten egg yolks, sugar and butter together; add lemon juice salt and flour and gradually add milk. Mix well. Fold in beaten egg whites and pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes until top is lightly browned. This dessert forms a cake on top and a custard on the bottom.

Mrs. Fontaine lives in that section of Thief River Falls known as Horseshoe Island. Since the death of her husband, two years ago, she lives alone. A senior citizen, her handiwork would put many younger women to shame. Her hobbies are making stuffed toys and animals, knick-knacks, embroidering, crocheting and cross-stitching. Her hobbies are of a duo purpose as they also serve as physical therapy for her arthritic fingers.

Veterans Day To Be Observed on November 11th.

Lars Nesvig, St. Peter, and James Kennedy, Mendota Heights, have been appointed as co-chairmen of the Minnesota Veterans Day committee, according to an announcement from the office of Governor Karl F. Rolvaag.

They will head a committee composed of representatives from each of the veterans organizations to encourage universal observance of the 13th Veterans day, November 11, known as Armistice day following the close of World War I, and until 1954, when the United States Congress changed the name to Veterans day.

Kennedy and Nesvig pointed out that 1966 Veterans day may well be a base from which to refute recent demonstrations opposing the United States' stand in Viet Nam.

"Nearly 25,500,000 veterans are living proof that Americans are capable of greatness when it is demanded of them," they stated. "These veterans have contributed much to preserve individual dignity and to defend the nation against all invasions of our freedoms, and of principle and character, and we pay tribute to them.

"Now, when misguided individuals would tear down our traditions, Veterans day would be a most appropriate time to clearly demonstrate our solidarity and support of the position the government has taken, and provide moral support for our forces assigned the task of modern national defense," they emphasized.

When final plans are almost completed, all veterans organizations are urging their local communities and officials to take a leading part in the planning of observance of the day, cooperate by public demonstrations to support our government, and call to attention the patriotic contributions of our present servicemen and women in the defense of freedom.

Public Opinion

Dear Editor
Thief River Falls Times
Thief River Falls, Minn.

Residents of Minnesota with its 108 years of statehood now, have possibly never experienced such a harangue of truth and also distortion of truth office-seekers. (1) Beginning with the Minnesota Highway No. 35 scandal. (2) Allied Ins. Co. and or a corporations donation of $2,000 as a contribution to further the election of U. S. Senator Mondale and governor Rolvaag. They being derelict in their duties to inform the 11,000 policy holders in the Allied Insurance Co. [illegible] corporation; that this insurance firm was headed for bankruptcy. These 1,000 policy holders lost between $4 and $6 million dollars in policies. (3) The Division of cooperation in state government involving the insurance commissioner. The acceptance of lieutenant governor A. M. Keith to be the Democratic Farmer Labor state committee choice for governor for 1966 to 1970.

This man A. M. Keith, their nominee, has a Harvard College degree, and certainly was well qualified to have been elected governor. Mr. A. M. Keith, with a better education, was defeated in the primary election by Governor Karl Rolvaag.

(4) This is rather unusual as it involves about 4,500 Indians living on the Red Lake Indian reservation. Read the Minneapolis morning Tribune, dated October 28, 1966, on pages 1 and 9: "Indians Protest Radio Editorial, Vote to Boycott Bemidji stores. Sent Protest letters to Federal Communication Commission, president L. B. Johnson and other elected officials. Its tribal council chairman Roger Jourdain, on Indian Affairs says the council meeting on Nov. 3, 1966, may decide to withdraw about a half a million dollars or more from three Bemidji, Minn. Banks". More news on this subject but not stated here.

(5) Lastly another state of confusion exists at this time between the Minnesota State DFL committee over placing Mr. Youngdahl's name as a candidate for Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner, on the Minnesota general election ballot on November 8. Should Mr. Youngdahl's name be stricken off as a candidate, there could be basis for grounds of protest under the Civil Rights Act. Now here you can see the rubber stamp of the Great Society in action to suppress an elected candidate at the primary election just because he did not ask for the rubber stamp support.

Mr. Youngdahl was highest man in votes for Railroad and warehouse commissioner on the DFL ticket.

From my own personal opinion: As voters you must all try to be there on November 8, 1966 to make this a momentous decision.

Vote to elect a new U. S. Senator, Robert Forsythe; he used to be a Sunday school teacher. A honest faithful man that has foresight to handle senate and international problems.

Also a man such as Harold LeVander to be our next Governor. Mr. LeVander being the son of a Christian pastor is the man to remember. He, together with the rest of his slate of candidates, will bring Minnesota out of this present administration's government mess. Mr. LeVander as an attorney will bring harmony within this state's government again. This is more essential today as nationally we are fighting in an undeclared war in Viet Nam costing us 20 billions of dollars a year.

Also our Mr. Odin Langen, U. S. Representative in Congress, 7th district; Mr. Langen deserves reelection to Congress again because he was so instrumental in helping the people living in that area served by the train service, Soo Line Railway passenger train, No. 9 and 10, between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg.

Your vote for Odin Langen for congress will attest your confidence to him. Remember Mr. Langen's greatest concern is to help you and he has done a good job.

Roseau County Woman Injured When Hit by Car

A family argument resulted in the serious accidental injury of a rural Stafford woman October 23 when Adrian Olson, attempting to leave the farm yard with an automobile, reportedly backed over his wife with the vehicle.

Roseau County Sheriff Paul Knochemus and County Attorney Chester Yon reported that one of the Olson boys was standing in front of the auto when his father got in to leave. Seeing the son, the father backed the auto, not knowing that his wife was behind it. She was reportedly struck down and run over.

One of the boys called the Badger telephone exchange and Sheriff Knochemus was notified. He called for an ambulance and went to the scene. Mrs. Olson was then rushed to the Roseau area hospital where she received emergency treatment. She was reported in very critical condition.

New Service Is Offered by NW Bell in Minnesota

A new, streamlined "call collect" service for Minnesota business firms becomes available November 1, according to T. R. Perrier, local Northwestern Bell Telephone company manager.

Called Inward WATS (Wide Area Telephone Service), it is designed for businesses which receive a large volume of incoming long distance calls from customers within the state.

With the new service, the phone company installs an individual line for the business subscriber and assigns a special number. The firm then notifies its customers throughout the state that the number may be dialed directly.

Inward WATS can be ordered either on a full-time, unrestricted basis for a flat monthly charge, or a measured 15-hour monthly basis.

Perrier said Inward WATS provides the same service for incoming long distance calls that WATS provides for outgoing calls. With WATS, a business firm pays a flat monthly charge for all outgoing long distance calls on one line. However, WATS is available either on a regional or nationwide basis whereas Inward WATS is available only in Minnesota.

The Big Man Who CARES!
Odin Langen cares enough about the Seventh Congressional District to protect the buying power of our hard-earned dollars. • He was one of the first to warn that uncontrolled Federal spending would lead to the present inflation... that hurts our farmers, businessmen, housewives, and especially our older people living on fixed incomes. • His experience and efforts to hold down inflation-causing Federal spending have been recognized through national awards. • If our dollars are to be worth anything, we need Odin Langen's continued service as Minnesota's only representative on the House Appropriations Committee, where the Federal spending decisions are made. We can reverse the inflationary spiral by returning to Washington the most able and dedicated representative our 7th District ever had.

Committee Reports On Water Resources

Governor Karl F. Rolvaag has made public the report of his Minnesota Water Resources Review committe, describing the report as "a blueprint for an action program in water conservation for our state."

The report recommends preparation of a comprehensive statewide water resources plan and evelopment of a statewide system of water management districts.

To coordinate water resources planning, the report proposes establishment under the state planning agency of a coordinating committee consisting of representatives from federal, state, local and private agencies concerned with water resources. Governor Rolvaag announced that as chief state planning officer, he is instructing the state planning agency to organize such a coordinating committee.

The governor has designated the agency to serve as the agency to develope a comprehensive water resources plan and apply for a federal grant under the federal water resources planning act.

In a letter transmitting the report, Committee Chairman Raymond A. Haulk said, "While there was complete agreement on the need for organization of state agencies to provide a unified water management program, the committee could not agree that creation of a water czar as was done in Wisconsin was the best method of reaching that goal."

The governor said he would ask a commission he is creating on the organization of state government to study the problem and recommend the best structure to provide unified water management.

Other recommendations of the committee report included the following:

A statewide program for more effective flood plain and lake shore management;

A water-rights research program;

Adequate financing of a research program on water-based recreation

A comprehensive study by the Minnesota Water Pollution Control commission of water quality management;

Improved salaries for state personnel who deal with water resources, so that state agencies can recruit, train and retain qualified specialists.

Governor Rolvaag said that he is sending copies of the committee report to members of the legislature.

REMEMBER THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"?

Picture, Courtesy Minnesota Historical Society

Churning the butter . . . A chore done by everyone in the family, from the youngest to the oldest. Although this chore may bring back many pleasant memories aren't you glad it's now done for you? Using sanitary methods modern dairies now churn your butter and package your buttermilk with the aid of electricity. Your favorite grocer keeps your dairy products fresh for you until you take them home to your own refrigerator. This is just one of the many changes wrought by rural electricity during the past twenty-five years.

Social Worker Added to School Program in Co.

gressive and hostile behavior; extreme restlessnss; conflict with authority; difficulty with other children; evidence of parental neglect; and certain problems related to mental or physical differena or a combination of several symptoms.

In only two months of the program to date, Miss Skjolten has undertaken approximately 20 cases in which she believes assistance can be given. Not restricted to classroom hours or conditions, she is free to travel as needed in her work and to utilize the total resources of the community. She can visit the children at home or call on the child's parents; she can seek additional help from the clergy or other indiviuals in the community; and she can work directly with the child.

"My job is to do what is best for the child," the social worker says. "It is not my job to change anybody. I try to determine with the student what he or she believes might be best for him or her, and to assist in making whatever adjustments seem advisable. We work together to try and solve difficulties which might exist and I try to help the student visualize his role in society."

Is there a starting point or stopping point with social help for an individual student?

Starting point begins with the teacher referral and the acceptance of the case work by the social worker. Ideally, the student will benefit from counseling and guidance, changes in immediat environment, identification of problems and realization of goals so that social service will be needed less and less as time progresses. Eventually, if social adjustment is complete, the lack of need for help will bring about a self-elimination from the program.

"We try to help the students to recognize their good points and strong features, and to concentrate on development of these," Miss Skjolten said. "We feel that more can be accomplished by a positive approach than a program of correction. I believe in prevention rather than correction. This is why I am directing the major portion of my efforts toward younger children in the three school systems."

Social work has changed throughout the years. The initial picture of the kind-hearted lady with a market basket, walking the streets, and giving out food to the needy, has been erased. A more personal chord has been struck between social worker and recipient of service with a strong emphasis on self-help and self-recognition. These are the theories being practiced in the program now underway in Pennington county schools.

Brosdahl Home Near Halma Is Razed by Fire

H. K. Brosdahl home a few miles northeast of Halma was razed by fire recently and much of the furniture and personal effects of Mr. and Mrs. Brosdahl were destroyed in the blaze.

It is believed the fire started with a chimney fire which went out of control. The Lake Bronson Fire department was called to the scene first, and then the Karlstad department, but the blaze had too much of a start by the time the Lake Bronson department reached the scene, and the whole building was an inferno before the Karlstad crew arrived. Some furniture and other items were removed from the building, but the loss was a great one for the elderly couple.

A fund has been started to help Mr. and Mrs. Brosdahl. Contacts are being made of individuals in the Halma area for those who wish to donate to the fund, however, it is quite likely that some people will be missed during this collection. Anyone who would like to contribute to the fund may leave a donation at Holm's store in Halma.

Prowlers End Season By Beating Crookston

The 12 senior members on coach Jim Sims' 1966 Prowler football squad—co-captains Ross Hanson and Dave Halvorson, Bob Brodin, Rod Collver, Bill Dicken, Karl Poppenhagen, Duane Morben, Arnold Boman, Jim Olson, John Feragen, Bob Swedenburg, and Earl Molstad—closed out their prep grid careers with a 12-0 win over the Crookston Central Pirates in a Northwest conference game played at Crookston on Friday night.

These 12 seniors, along with the rest of the squad, will be honored this evening, Monday, at the annual Father-and-Sons football banquet. The banquet will be held in the St. Bernards church, and will begin at 6:30 p.m.

In Friday nights bitterly-contested game the Prowlers, on two quick scoring spurts in the opening minutes of the first and third periods, tallied two touchdowns to gain their 12-point win over the Crookston Pirates. And it was fullback Rod Collver who carried the football over the goal line on the TDs.

In the opening period, with the Prowlers defending the west goal and gaining the benefit of strong northwest wind, Sheldon Jopppru booted the kickoff to Crookstons Howard Reitmeier who made a return to the Pirates 29-yard line. On the second play from scrimmage, Collver recovered a Crookston fumble on the 27-yard line. Collver knifed through right tackle for a first down on the 17-yard line. Collver then cut through left tackle and angled to the goal line and scored a touchdown. Bob Brodin's pass to Nickie Drees, on the conversion try attempt, was incomplete.

A few moments later the Prowlers made another scoring threat, moving to the Crookston 11-yard line. This drive was halted when the Pirates' Mark Anderson recovered a Prowler fumble.

Crookston, late in the second period, began a drive that started in mid-field, and reached the Prowlers' 12-yard line when the period ended. Reitmeir, from a kick formation, ran from the Crookston 11-yard line to the Crookston 36-yard line. A couple of strong runs, by Anderson for 16 yards, and Ron Mutcher for ten yards, carried to the Prowlers' 12-yard line as the period closed.

Opening the third period, with the Prowlers defending the east goal, Nickie Drees accepted the Pirate kickoff and, on a 46-yard run, brought the ball to the Crookston 39-yard line. Collver gained seven yards; and a Prowler pass, Brodin to Woody Almquist, added a first down on the 24-yard line. Collver and Brodin ran to the Crookston 2-yard line, from where Collver knifed through for a touchdown. A pass attempt for the conversion point was incomplete and the locals had their 12-point margin.

The game was played in below-freezing weather, but the play on the field was many degres warmer. An indication of the rugged play can be judged by the fact that the officials waved four players, two Pirates and two Prowlers, off the field.

The win gave coach Sims' squad a season's mark of three wins, four losses, and one tie. And in Northwest conference play the Prowler gained third place with two wins and two losses.

KNOWING the fun which youngsters get out of seeing their basketball shots "swish", the local Lions club has installed metal chain nets on five outdoor basketball courts in the city. The nets have been placed on two baskets each at Knox, Northrop and Washington elementary schools, the east side playground and Tindolph park. Shown installing the nets, which are expected to last a considerable length of time, are Roger Tunberg, left, club president, and Phil Kays, originator of the project.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Filling a Void

Football and hockey players and fans, and coaches and officials, will be receiving the benefits of the electric scoreboards and timers that are to be erected at the Prowler football field and in the hockey arena. The local Rotary club, with an expenditure of about fifteen hundred dollars, will provide the equipment. The school officials will erect the frame for the board at the football field, and it will be in the southwest corner of the field; and the city will make provisions for the board in the arena.

The boards will be six feet high and 18 feet long, and will give the time on a second-by-second basis. The football field since its creation a dozen years ago, has never had any timing facilities. But the local arena, through the good wishes of Bill LaFave and the Bridgeman's has had an electric clock. And back in the days when this clock was installed it was quite a modern set-up. And the school officials are indebted to Bill and the Bridgeman's for the many years that this arena clock has been in use.

Back in the early days of hockey in the arena, before the advent of high school hockey, a manually adjusted dial was used to give the fans the information of time remaining to be played in each period. A large clock-like dial, with numbers from ten to zero, was on the north wall of the arena.

Joe LaBoe, the treasurer of the old-time senior hockey Thieves, kept the stop watch in the players' box. When ten minutes had elapsed he would flash a signal and a couple of boys, watching through a peep-hole in the scoreboard, would move the time dial. This would proceed minute by minute. On numerous occasions the time would become awry, and Joe would do some frantic signalling in order to get the board in sync with the stop watch. Those were the days!

Apologies to Ole

It wasn't entirely true as I stated last week that Helmer (Ole) Ness couldn't distinguish the difference between domesticated chickens and phesants, and for such a rash charge I must apologize. His hunting companions told me that Ole can tell the difference between Leghorns and Plymouth Rocks and phesants. It is the Rhode Island Reds that cause Ole all the trouble. He does, though, pay at market price for his mistakes and this eases the sportsmen-and-farmer relations considerably.

A Fine Event

This evening, Monday, at the St. Bernard's church, the annual father-and-sons football banquet will be held. It is slated to start at 6 p.m.

While the affair is of recent origin, having been established just a few years ago, it is developing into a "must" for sports fans.

This evening's banquet is of praticular interest for it will honor a group of Prowler footballers who compiled a very creditable record. That the 1966 Prowlers would gain three victories this season was a far-fetched goal when the opening practice sessions, which were interrupted by a rush of infections, began this fall. The Prowlers, and their coaching staff, have done well.

Miscellany

Coach Sid Vraa's New London-Spicer football squad closed out their 1966 season as one of the few unbeaten teams in the state. In their season's finale, Sid's team defeated Brooten, 26-0. Sid, of course, is a former Prowler athlete, and is the holder of the Prowler football scoring record. It was back in October of 1954, on a Friday night, that Sid, playing at quarterback against the Crookston Pirates, scored five touchdowns and placekicked four conversion points to mark up a 34-point effort. . . According to the records I have at hand, the Northwest Football conference was formed in 1955, a year after Vraa's big scoring effort, so the conference scoring record is the mark of 33 points tallied by Bemidji's Craig Daniel against the Prowlers a couple of weeks ago. Daniel scored five touchdowns and added three conversion points. . . Coach Ambrose Kramer's Roseau Rams, the Region Eight cross-country champions, finished in 12th place in the state tourney held in Minneapolis on Saturday. The Rams scored a total of 283 points. White Bear won the team title with a total of 87 points. . . A pair of former Region Eight all-round athletes are on the Moorhead State college varsity basketball squad. Nathan (Cactus) Warner of Halstad and Jerry Cook of Warren are the boys that are engaging in pre-season cage practice with the Dragons. . . The Prowlers winter sports squads—basketball, hockey and wrestling—will begin their drills on Monday, November 7.

Dad's Day Event At "U" Scheduled

Part that parents of University of Minnesota Students can and must play in the successful education of their sons and daughters will be discussed by Paul H. Cashman, university assistant vice president for academic relationships and development, in the anual Dads' Day convocation Saturday, November 12.

The program, on which the 40 members of the university's freshman cabinet also are working, will open with a coffee hour at 8:45 a.m. in Coffman union women's lounge.

The parents will have their choice of four symposia on campus life: on academic, religious, social and societ at issues. Students and faculty members will conduct these metings.

Tickets at $7 for the luncheon and for football game seats in the special section reserved for Dad's association members may be obtained through November 9 through the Dads' association office, 200 Eddy hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, 55455.

The university will play Purdue with the fathers of Gopher team members to receive special honor recognition at this final home game of the season as they form a cordo on the stadium turf in an honor guard for the team.

New Scoreboard Given to School By Rotary Club

Showing an interest in youth and athletics in Thief River Falls, the local Rotary club last Monday approved the purchase of a lighted scoreboard for the city arena and the school district football field. Acting on recommendation of the board of directors, the club voted the $1,425 expnditure without a dissenting vote.

Richard Edlund, senior high school principal, made the presentation to the club at the request of the board of directors. He noted that there is currently no scoreboard at th football field and that a new scoreboard at the arena would be a major improvement. He expressed thanks to Bridgeman Creameries for use of the existing arena scoreboard which has been in use for many years.

A portion of the scoreboard—the central section which includes the clock—would be moved from the football field to the arena for the hockey season. The side sections will be permanent fixtures at both the arena and the field.

The scoreboard has now been ordered and assurance has been given that it will be installed in time for the hockey season this year.

Resource Programs Get More Attention As Food Needs Change

Decreases in available food supplies in this country and a realization that we will have to help supply the increased food needs of the world have done much to stimulate recent concern with the development of our agricultural and other nnatural and human resources.

Raymond J. Penn, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin, adds that "after 45 years of trying to hold food production in line with demand, we are suddenly faced with the task of increasing our food production."

Penn spoke in St. Paul last week at the annual conference of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service. The conference this year is focusing on the problems of resource development.

Over the next 15 years, Penn said, the world must prepare to feed an additional one billion people—five times the population of the United States. Fully four-fifths of these new people will be added to the food-short, developing countries least capable of supporting their increasing populations.

"People in this country and other surplus food production countires have been increasingly conscious of the problems of meeting world food needs," the economist added. "But within the last year, we have seen our huge stock of food products disappear so that we now have little more than adequate resources for our own needs. This has resulted—at least in part—in a growing concern with resource development."

Penn suggested two other reasons for this increasing interest in resource development: (1) despite the rapid browth of our economy, there are still large numbers of unemployed, low-income people who are unable to attain our average standard of living; (2) increasing population is dramatically affecting the quality of our environment, resulting particularly in problems of water and air pollution.

He told the group of nearly 350 county agents, extension specialists and administrators that a definition of the term "resource development" relates rather closely to one's experience and professional training, but contains several common elements.

These elements of resource development are: (1) it is resource based; (2) it is concerned with change in use of resources; (3) it is concerned with people and the usefulness of the resources to them; (4) it concerns the rules people establish to control the relations between each other as they use the resources; and finally, (5) it is concerned with people participating in the development of policies, programs and their government concerning these resources.

The farm manager, for example, thinks about resource development in terms of how input-output prices can be changed to increase food production and profit, and hence bring more investment into agriculture.

On the other hand, specialists like the wildlife ecologist and forester are concerned with this subject in terms of how to protect and increase our natural resources while making them serve more people.

Likewise, the sanitary engineer and urban planner are concerned with resource development in terms of how to better service growing cities and metropolitan areas.

In any event, he said, our prime concern is with people and the usefulness of resources to them. The use of our resources—whether agricultural or other natural or human resources—is an essential characteristic of resource development."

"Resource development is university-wide," he said, "involving not only cooperation of the extension service with other university departments and divisions, but also with state and federal government agencies concerned with problems involved in the development of our resources.

He concluded by telling the group that as educators they should actively participate in controversial issues; that they should remember that they may not always be right; and that they should be willing to accept new evidence to adjust their thinking, and possibly even change their minds.

Candidate Says Fair Farm Prices Are Big Question

Keith C. Davison, DFL candidate for Congress, in a speech prepared for delivery in Bagley on Friday said the commanding economic question in the Seventh district is how to achieve fair farm prices.

"Farmers, producing more and better farm products than ever before, are getting lower prices than 18 years ago, even though their costs are mounting steadily," he said.

"The family farm is a vital part of the free enterprise profit system. It cannot remain free unless it is profitable.

"Farmers do not have the organizational control which characterizes industry and labor, and thus cannot bargain in the market to maintain reasonable prices," he added. "Our farmers need an effective friend in Congress from this district."

Venereal Disease Seminar Set at Moorhead State

Attending a venereal disease education seminar for teachers at Moorhead state college at Moorhead will be Dale Folger and Mrs. Helen Ulferts, of the Franklin junior high school faculty and James Sims and Mrs. Ruth Onkka of the Lincoln high school faculty.

The seminar to be held November 3 is sponsored for health and physical education, biology, general science, home economics and social studies teachers. It will be held from 2:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. with a break for dinner. Paul Riddle, school health unit coordinator, and Henry Mandro, public health advisor both state health department staff members, will participate in the seminars.

Teachers will have the opportunity to learn and discuss how the venereal diseases are being attacked today, the scope of the diseases and the impact on society as well as how to develop the topic in the classroom.

The Minnesota department of health, reports: "Young people need more comprehensive, objective education about venereal diseases and the causes and possible consequences of exposure. If the subject is to be taught in the classroom, most teachers need to know more about these diseases and how to approach and teach class units on this problem".

Moorhead State College Reports Top Enrollment

Total on campus enrollment at Moorhead state college this fall has reached 3,843, an increase of 491 and a gain of 14.6 per cent over the 3,352 enrolled last fall, according to a report from Dr. Robert MacLeod, director of admissions and registrar. The enrollment is another record high in spite of the higher entrance requirements which became effective at the college in 1964.

The total, which does not include enrollment at the four off-campus extension centers, shows 3,363 full-time students, a gain of 417 and 14 per cent over the 2,946 enrolled last fall, and 480 part-time students, up 74 and 18 per cent over the 406 enrolled last fall. The on-campus total includes 3,115 Minnesota students and 728 from other states and foreign countries.

The report shows that 1,003 freshmen enrolled in September this year, an increase of 11 per cent over the 929 who entered last September. Freshmen who entered in the summer or in the winter or spring quarters last year are not included in this total. The new freshman class includes 545 men and 488 women.

Total undergraduate enrollment is reported at 3,488 including 3,313 fulltime students and 175 part-time students. This is a gain of 14.5 per cent over a total undergraduate enrollment of 3,046 last year, which included 2,904 full-time students and 142 part-time.

Graduate enrollment has increased 41 per cent from 158 last fall to 223 this fall. There are 42 full-time graduate students this fall, compared with 27 a year ago, and 181 part-time, compared with 131 last year.

Wannaska Baptist church was closed October 19 at a special business meeting held that night at the church. Officers of the church cited a decrease in attendance, lack of financial means and a loss in population of the community as reasons for their action.

The Price They Paid

We live in the United States of America, a nation founded on the principles of freedom which has grown and prospered through adherence to those principles. Our's is a great nation, and as we enjoy the benefits of living here we too often lose sight of the price that was paid for the establishment of its foundation.

Recently published was a summary of what happened to the 56 men who signed the Declaration of Independence. How many of us value our freedom enough to take the risks and endure the hardships which these men did? This is the summary as written:

Five signers were capured by the British as traitors, and tortured before they died. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the Revolutionary Army, another had two sons captured. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or the hardships of the Revolutionary War.

What kind of men were they? Twenty-four were lawyers and jurists. Eleven were merchants, nine were farmers and large plantation owners, men of means, well educated. But they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well that the penalty would be death if they were captured.

They signed and they pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor. Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He sold his home and properties to pay his debts, and died in rags.

Thomas McKeam was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family almost constantly. He served in the Congress without pay, and his family was kept in hiding. His possessions were taken from him, and poverty was his reward.

Vandals or soldiers or both, looted the properties of Ellery, Clymer, Hall, Walton, Gwinnett, Heyward, Rutledge, and Middleton.

At the Battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson, Jr., noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home for his headquarters. The owners quietly urged General George Washington to open fire, which was done. The home was destroyed, and Nelson died bankrupt.

Francis Lewis had his home and properties destroyed. The enemy jailed his wife, and she died within a few months.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and his grist mill were laid waste. For more than a year he lived in forests and caves, returning home after the war to find his wife dead, his children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion and a broken heart.

Norris and Livingston suffered similar fates.

Such were the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These were not wildeyed, rabble-rousing ruffians. They were soft-spoken men of means and education. They had security, but they valued liberty more. Standing tall, straight, and unwavering, they pledged: "For the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of the Livine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

How Do You Like Your News?

How do you like your national news—the way that experienced and dedicated reporters honestly report it or the watered-down or prettied-up version too often seen in administration handouts? Consider the following editorial from the Morris Sun:

"News media have for years reacted strongly to the growing practice of withholding of information of a public nature in the nation's capital. Bureaucratic censorship had reached such a stage that the Department of Defense even authorized a research grant of $69,400 to Ohio State University to make a study of how people react to withholding of information and controlling the release of news.

"The Pentagon recently halted the project after pressure from Freedom of Information leader, Congressman John E. Moss of California. Moss said the study "is totally inappropriate to our free society and contrary to our institutions."

"The Pentagon was obviously trying to discover methods by which it could make news management policies most palatable to the American people and do so at public expense. The grant was uncovered by a newspaper and Congressman Moss has rightly called a halt to the use of public funds for such a purpose."

What They Wanted to Hear

When Sen. Walter F. Mondale spoke at the Chamber of Commerce "Meet the Candidates" series Wednesday, he apparently told the people attending what they wanted to hear. Among his remarks was the announcement that a grant of $369,500 was authorized to Thief River Falls for water and sewer systems.

It is our opinion that Senator Mondale presented the best political talk of the series Wednesday, and the only one we expect to match or surpass it will be Congressman Odin Langen's speech on Tuesday. Mondale is not an orator, but he talks issues and shows a depth of perception which is absent in most political talks. He divorces himself from personal implication in the issues—with modest exception—but makes his position clear while speaking in an informed and informative manner.

In only a partial term in the Senate, Mondale has a record of getting things done. In some cases we don't agree that they should have been done, but none-the-less the record shows attention to requests for assistance, sensitivity to the desires of his constituents and an ability to have his way. Being a member of the overwhelming majority group in Congress has been of extreme benefit to him.

While we disagree with a number of his views, we credit him with an unusual ability to express himself. And being a good politician, he filled his talk with generally non-controversial material which made it easier to digest. We don't expect that Congressman Langen will be as evasive in his talk Tuesday.

Following the political guideline of "telling them what they want to hear", Sen. Mondale talked of his interest in preserving farms and the rural community, the importance of education, duties of an advanced society to care for its aged, study and federal assistance to reduce flooding and use of "federal resources" to assist state and local government. It's quite difficult to find a great deal of fault with those generalities.

Formidable Foe

After years as an also ran in the Minnesota political arena, P. K. Peterson seems to have a clear shot for the post of Railroad and Warehouse commissioner this year. If he doesn't win, it will be a severe indication of the apathy among Minnesota voters.

Peterson's opponent is William Youngdahl, Minneapolis cab driver and the endorsed candidate, in the DFL primary election. He admits he doesn't know much about the duties of the office and was more surprised than most people when he found he had won the primary.

Youngdahl is no relation to Minnesota's former Republican governor, Luther Youngdahl, nor does he have any qualifications for the post. To indicate just how poor a choice he would be for railroad and warehouse commissioner, the DFL does not even recognize him as a candidate.

In spite of his personal obscurity, Youngdahl must be considered a formidable foe. Because he carries the surname which was once a great one in Minnesota politics, he will garner thousands of votes from uninformed voters. The same applies to Thomas Patrick Galagher, candidate for associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court, who is the son of a former justice and has been soundly rejected in a plebescite of Minnesota attorneys.

P. K. Peterson, on the other hand, is a former mayor of Minneapolis, former Republican candidate for U. S. Senator and a veteran Minnesota political figure. He understands the duties of the office and is familiar with the responsibilities of the commission. In the name of good government, he should be the choice of all Minnesotans—Democrats, Republicans and independents.

IRS Gets Caught

Consider this item from one of our area exchange papers:

CRIME DOESN'T PAY—AFTER TAXES: The Internal Revenue Service—ever alert for another tax source—has assessed income taxes against a man for money which his wife embezzled from her employer. The man claimed he didn't owe anything because he didn't participate in the theft. The Tax Court ruled against him, however, because he had filed a joint return with his wife. Which is only fair, we suppose, even if it isn't yet full justice. Now if the woman is convicted of theft, there may still be some doubt that her husband should be charged as an accomplice, if he was unaware at the time of filing that his wife's gains were ill-gotten. But no matter how that works, the IRS is unquestionably a receiver of stolen goods.

A man arrested for vagrancy appeared before the judge. When questioned as to when he worked, the man replied, "Now and then." When asked what he did for a living, the reply was, "This and that."

The last question by the judge was, "Where do you live?" to which the man replied, "Here and there."

"Young man, you are going to jail," the judge said, thoroughly exasperated.

"Sooner or later," said the judge.

When a man pits himself against almost impossible odds. . . . .and wins. . . . .there is in his story all the ingredients of high drama. Not the least among these sagas of personal exploits is the story of the intrepid skipper of the Tinkerbelle, Robert Manry. Piloting the incredibly tiny craft across the Atlantic, given up for lost when he was long overdue, Manry appears triumphantly out of the fog and thereby perpetuates his name among the world's heroes. With what must have been the same kind of satisfaction known by the first conquerers of Everest, the first pioneer in space, the navigators of old, and anyone who did what they said "could never be done," Manry tells his story in simple, human terms. Readers of "Tinkerbelle" will be inspired by the man's courage, left breathless with suspense, and share in the triumph that was his at the attainment of the highest point in his lifetime. "Tai-Pan" by James Clavell (author of King Rat) is a book which takes a bit of patience during the backgrounding process of the first several chapters, but once this phase is completed, excitement mounts with each succeeding chapter. The epoch explodes throughout with the ruthless ambition, the daring, the masterfulness of the man, Tai-Pan, (which is a title worn by the head of the then most powerful trading company in the Orient). Seeing in the infant Hong Kong a prize of infinite value and worthy of the ultimate in exploitation, Tai-Pan is by turn subtle, brutally persuasive, a dreamer, a man of vision, and a tyrant. And his business acumen, his shrewdness and determination, his refusal to be dissuaded in his plan for shaping a Hong Kong that would dazzle the world with its opulence, combined to bring substance to his dream.

Holiday time is hard on the heels of Halloween which we note today, and who isn't already thinking of it? Your library is! In the 680 section of the junior department, for instance, there are many books attuned to the season's desire for gifting, and sharing. What parent isn't touched by something lovingly made and lovingly presented by childish hands? Among the books which will get the kids interested in holiday activity of a creative nature, may we suggest these: "Holiday Cards for You to Make"; Hamiltons "Popular Crafts for Boys" and the companion "Holiday Crafts for Girls"; "Instructional Units in Hard Woodwork"; "Hand Craft Project Books"; "Home Handicraft for Girls"; "McCall's Book of Paper, Wood, and Paint Crafts"; "Fun To Make Things"; "Fun With Fabrics"; "Holiday Crafts and Fun"; "Home Handicrafts for Girls"; and others. Among winter activities to fill the leisure hours are astronomy, building a pocket crystal set; making your own films, model cars, learning how a ship is built, organizing a harmonica band, animal and bird watching, crochet, ballroom dancing, making lampshades, party cooking, growing winter plants. And that does not exhaust the possibilities, by any means. Come on in, for other ideas.

"A Guide to Skin Care for Teenagers" written by a doctor, and therefore one to whom the young set can turn for advice that's sound, is designed to be helpful in an important area. Much concern is voiced by both the teens and their parents over this real and very vexing problem so often associated with the adolescent age. Covered in this book are such hygienic subjects as acne, sweat-gland disorders, hair and scalp problems, boils and other skin infections, freckles, common nail problems, ringworm. A helpful, wonderful book designed to fit a bout it; the whole problem is brought out into the spotlight and treated in a forthright way.

The transformation of the southern continent from distressing beginnings (it was originally a penal colony) to a haven for free men is traced in Clive Turnbull's "A Concise History of Australia". Well-illustrated, the book shows in visual detail the almost startling expansion of this, the smallest continent. Its art and literature, uniquely its own, make Australia a cultural entity in the family of nations, as well as in other ways. It stands firm in its heritage, not allowing itself to be swallowed up by the cultures of its richer, more powerful neighbors, and commands respect for this, and other reasons. You'll see a side of Australia you may not have appreciated before, when you read this book, one of the many new ones at the new library. A few others we might mention are: "Report of the Governor's Minnesota Tax Study Commission"; "U Thant—The search For Peace"; and "Water and Water Use Terminology" by Veatch and Humphrys: defines in a paragraph or two any term connected with water and its uses. A science bonanza. More about more of the new ones later.

Wintering roses is necessary for hybrid tea, floribunda grandifloras, polyanthas and rambler varieties of roses. Winter protection is a method of guarding against minimum temperatures below 10 degrees; it is simply insulating against excessive cold temperatures.

Timing is important for application of the mulch. Usually there can be a light crust of frost before applying it. There are two common methods for winter protection. The first is tipping the rose bush into a trench. Shortly after the middle of October when the soil is moist and workable, dig a trench about six to eight inches deep extending to the base of the rose bush. Tie the canes togther into a bundle and tip the bush into the trench. Use the soil you dig out to cover the rose bush.

Early in November, add a two to four-inch layer of leaves to the surface to give further protection. As the season progresses, more leaves may be added to build up a leaf layer about 18 to 24 inches deep. This will give adequate protection for the rose bush.

The second system is that of bending the rose bush over and laying it down on the ground horizontally. To do this it is necessary to tie the canes together and take a shovelful of soil from one side of the rose bush. Then lay the entire bush down on the ground. The rose bed may be enclosed with chicken wire or garden fencing to at least two feet in depth. Place the fencing about two feet from the outermost rose bush.

Apply the final heavy cover of leaves before any heavy freeze when there is danger of severe damage to unhardend tissues of the rose bush. The layer of leaves should be approximately three ft deep. In placing the leaves over the bushes, be sure there are no air pockets left in the covering. Also be sure to curve the upper surface of the mulch so it does not collect moisture.

To prevent the surface from blowing away and to alleviate any fire hazared, you may want to use a lawn sprinkler to moisten the upper layer.

Take climbing roses off the trellies, lay them down and then use either the trenching or the mulch system for winter protection.

REMEMBER "THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

DAIRY PRODUCTS

Churning the butter . . . there was a chore that everyone in the family, from the youngest to the eldest, sooner or later, took their turn. It was sort of pleasant to sit and daydream while the chunks of butter grew larger and larger, and the clunk of the churn grew hypnotic. Remember the fresh buttermilk in the summertime? Pleasant as these memories may be, it's still more comforting, and certainly more sanitary, to let the large dairies churn your butter and package your buttermilk with the aid of electricity. Your favorite supermarket or grocery store keeps your dairy products at an even temperature, until you take them home to your own refrigerator, or freezer. This is just one of the many changes wrought by dependable rural electricity during the past twenty-five years.

Federal Tax Queries Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I am over 72 years of age. Am I exempt from filing federal income tax returns?

A—No. The amount of income, not the taxpayer's age, is the determining factor. Taxpayers over 65 years of age are not required to file returns unless their gross income for 1966 is $1,200 or more. Social security benefit payments and other non-taxable income is not to be included in determining whether gross income amounts to $1,200 or more.

Q—I filed an amended return some months ago and I still haven't received the additional refund. How long will it take to receive the money?

A—The filing of an amended return presents unavoidable delays. Amended returns are considered claims, and they must be associated with the original return you filed. If your original return had been pulled out of the normal processing cycle for any reason (it might be taken out for audit for example) the association will take longer. Even after the returns are associated, some amended returns will require an audit which further delays issuance of a refund.

A—It is if the trip is primarily for and essential to, medical care and not taken for personal reasons. The transportation costs will be deductible but not the costs of meals and lodging unless they are furnished by a hospital.

Q — I'm a salesman and need a car to cover my route. Can I deduct the purchase price of the car when I file my return?

A — No. However, you may deduct 10 cents for every mile you used the car on your job up to 15,000 miles. Additional miles traveled on business may be deducted at seven cents a mile. Tolls, parking and similar items are also deductible.

Instead of this standard rate method of deducting your business travel expenses, you may figure the actual operating costs of your car for the year. This involves depreciation, gas and oil, insurance, repairs and other operating costs. Most taxpayers find the mileage method easier.

Q — My employer stopped taking out for social security. Why?

A — Probably because the maximum has been withheld for the year. Social security taxes are withheld on the first $6,600 of wages paid to an employee by the employer. If you have already received that amount from one employer, no more will be withheld by that employer for social security for the rest of 1966. However, if you work for more than one employer during the year, each employer will withhold social security taxes on the first $6,600 of wages paid to you. If your total wages for the year from which social security taxes were withheld exceed the $6,600 maximum, the excess withheld may be claimed as a credit on your income tax return.

Q — My neighbor is paying me $25 a week to look after her little girl while she is at work. Is this money taxable?

A — Yes it is. The income should be included with whatever other income you receive to detrmine whether your gross income was $600 or more. If you file jointly with your husband, the income has to be included with the return you file.

If you determine the nature of the services and provide them in your own home and the amount you receive from your neighbor totals $400 or more for the year, you must file a return and pay self-employment tax. The tax will help you build up retirement benefits under Social security.

Safety Council Proposes Changes In Traffic Laws

Major changes in Minnesota traffic safety laws to impose heavier penalties for traffic law violations, increasing the state highway patrol and requiring periodic eyesight and traffic law knowledge examination of motorists will be sought in the 1967 legislature, the Minnesota Safety council has announced.

Its program, approved by the board of directors, was made public by Michael J. Galvin Sr., St. Paul, president.

The proposals include the following:

1. Reducing the allowable alcohol content of a motorist's blood from 0.15 to 0.10 per cent in determining presumptive intoxication.
2. Using blood, urine, saliva and breath tests in checking for intoxication.
3. Comformity of the state "implied consent" law with the American Bar association and uniform vehicle code which would permit municipalities to apply it and permitting trial of drivers charged in their home counties instead of in counties where the offense occurred.
4. Increase the state highway patrol from its present strength of 378 to 746 within the next five years, beginning with 115 additional patrolmen in each of the next two years and adding 46 each year for the next three.
5. Requiring motorists to undergo eyesight examination and test of knowledge of state traffic laws when applying for drivers' license renewals.

A sixth proposal for stiffer penalties for traffic law violations is being prepared for later submission by the council's legislative study committee.

Historical Group In Marshall Co. Elects Officers

All members of the board of governors of the Marshall County Historical society were reelected to office at the annual meeting of the society recently at the Lloyd George Melgard farm home near Warren. They include Alfred Olson and Rep. Richard Fitzsimons, Argyle; Mrs. Ebert Malberg, Viking; Anton Enge, Oslo; Charles Kranz, Strandquist; A. O. Hamnes and Sen. Donald Sinclair, Stephen; and O. M. Mattson, Warren.

The board also reelected officers of the society who include Lloyd Melgard, Warren, president; Peter Grant, Stephen, vice president; and Mrs. Albert Dahlman, Alvarado, secretary-treasurer.

Questionnaire To Be Included in Veteran Payments

Income questionnaires which determine the amount of pension a veteran or his dependents receive from the Veterans administration will be included in the November payments in Minnesota this year.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center, St. Paul, said recipients of VA pensions are required to return the income questionnaire before Jan. 31, 1967, in order that their pensions may be continued. Pensions vary according to the amount of income a veteran has from other sources.

VA pensions go to persons who have become totally disabled from other than service-incurred causes. The questionnaires also go to parents of deceased veterans who are receiving depndency and indemnity compensation.

Murphy asked that the forms be returned as soon as possible and that care be taken that the card is not folded or mutilated. The cards are used in automatic machines that require them to be flat and intact.

Speech Therapy Helps Local School Students

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the second in a series of articles dealing with local schools in observance of American Education Week November 6-13.)

Since the basis for all personal communication in the world today is based on the spoken word, the ability to speak can not be overemphasized. To provide assistance to children with speech difficulties, a program of speech therapy has been added to the Thief River Falls school system. It is now in its second year.

Another of the school programs designed to provide students with total education, speech therapy is not a classroom activity. Professionally trained instructor Mrs. Fay McPhail provides personalized help to students with various speech problems, guiding them in a correct program designed to improve their ability to effectively communicate their thoughts to others.

While speech difficulties vary in degree of severity among students, the speech correction program is not aimed at an isolated few students. A survey made by the speech and hearing clinic of the University of North Dakota three years ago indicated that at least 10 per cent of the public school population have serious enough speech problems to require special training in speech therapy.

Mrs. McPhail is a recent graduate of the University of North Dakota where her training included professional courses in education, psychology, general speech, phonetics and physiology, speech pathology and speech therapy. She worked for two year in the UND speech and hearing clinic under supervision and was a student teacher in the Grand Forks, N. D., public school system. She is an affiliate member of the American Speech and Hearing association.

The speech correction program in the Thief River Falls public schools is provided by the local school board and the special education division of the Minnesota Department of Education. It is a supplement to regular classroom work. Since the program is in its second year, screening of all children in the public schools last year was completed. Mrs. McPhail now screens new students, second graders, transfer pupils, referrals and children previously enrolled in the speech class or on the waiting list. In addition to her own diagnosis and corrective therapy work, she serves as a consultant to other members of the educational staff.

Last year 185 students were provided with corrective therapy on a "block plan" whereby the therapist met with approximately 60 or 70 students twice a week for a six or seven week period.

This year Mrs. McPahil has 117 students in her case load, ranging from kindergarten through 12th

Make It Yourself With Wool Event Set November 25

Closing dates for entries for District I Minnesota "Make It Yourself with Wool" contest will be November 15.

The contest will be held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium, Friday, November 25, for Sub-Deb, Junior, Senior and Adult divisions. Many schools are using this contest as a class project.

Color is important regarding affect on contestant's coloring and correct for model's age. Trimmings such as buttons should be in harmony and of good size and all parts of garment should clean well.

At the 1966 Make It Yourself with wool finals held at Portland, Ore., Minnesota's junior representative Karen Offerdahl, Bagley, was a third place winner, receiving a $100 bond and wool yard goods.

Persons interested in entering should contact their home economics instructor or the district director, Mrs. G. Melford Peterson, 216 South Minnesota street, Crookston, for entry blanks.

Hallowe'en Is Another Quiet Night in City

Another quiet Hallowe'en in Thief River Falls was reported by the city police department. Very little vandalism was done and the events sponsored by the local Lions club were well attended.

Police Chief Elton Cummings expressed appreciation of the department and the residents of the city to the local Jaycee chapter whose members assisted with a civilian patrol Monday night. He also commended area young people for their generally exemplary behavior.

The only activity of public interest reported by the department this week was the larceny of a Stanley "Jobmaster" three-eighths inch electric drill valued at $37 from a local shop.

Guests at the E. O. Peterson home Tuesday were Mrs. Edith Hedin and Mrs. I. Osmundson, both of East Grand Forks.

City Council Takes Action On Ordinance

To Annex Jr. College Site to City; New Police Car Bought

First reading of an ordinance to annex the recently-acquired junior college property to the city of Thief River Falls was held at a regular meeting of the city council in the council chambers. The annexation will become effective after the third reading and legal publication of the ordinance.

The council also rescinded a previous action to cancel its contract with Lystad's exterminating company for rat control at the city dump grounds. Richard Miner of Grand Forks, vice president of the company, attended the council session and presented the case for the company. He said that poisoning will be increased to July, October and February—the months when rats are most vulnerable—and that the dump grounds will be checked for rat activity each month. He also asked anyone noting rat activity to contact the city office.

Northern Motors submitted the low bid of $1,497 among three bidders for a new police car for the city. A total of three bids were submitted with the high bid being for $1,645.

In another bid letting at the session, Armco Steel corporation was awarded a contract in the amount of $2,780 for dredge pipe to be used in the river dredging project.

The council also accepted an offer from the Minnesota Department of Aeronautics for the department to install a "Runway End Identifier Light System" at no cost to the city. The system will enable aircraft to land under more extreme fog and other weather conditions than was previously possible.

Building permits were approved as follows: Lampert Lumber company, dwelling at 507 Maple ave. S., $15,000; Elmer Axvig, garage at 330 Tindolph av. S. $400; Merle Lindberg, garage and patio at 301 Crocker av. N., $750; and Harold Rasmussen, car port at 314 Maple av. N. $500.

LUCKY to be alive after this grinding crash Tuesday evening are two residents of the Goodridge area. Kenneth Sanders, 29, driver of the pickup truck in the top photo, is hospitalized with a fractured right forearm and facial lacerations. His condition is listed as good. Larry Pitman, 21, driver of the car in the bottom photo, is hospitalized in serious condition with a fractured right leg, fractured right arm, fractured ribs, fractured clavicle and multiple lacerations. The accident happened about 9 p.m. Tuesday on highway 219 about one and one-half miles north of Goodridge. The Sanders truck was traveling north on 219 and attempting a left turn onto the county road along Ditch 18 when it collided with the south-bound Pitman car. Impact carried the two vehicles across the bridge, the Pitman car flipping onto its top and sliding on the highway. The Minnesota state highway patrol, which is investigating the mishap, estimated damage to the 1957 pickup at $600 and the 1965 model car at $2,000. Both are total losses.

To Dedicate New Library In T. R. Falls on Sunday

First new public library building in the Northwest area of Minnesota is to be dedicated Sunday when the Thief River Falls public library will have dedication ceremonies and open house, according to Miss Bertha Hastad, head librarian.

Dedication is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. with the program to be held in the library's main reading room. Rev. James Ditzler of St. Bernard's Catholic church will give the invocation. Ray Ulferts, chairman of the library board, will introduce various dignitaries connected with the building of the library and will introduce Supt. Marshall Hankerson who will deliver the dedication address. Benediction by Rev. Gary Schwarz of the seventh Day Adventist church will close the ceremonies.

Following the program, library personnel, library board members, and the Friends of the Library will host open house. At this time the public is invited to inspect the building and its facilities. Refreshments will be served in the multi-purpose room with Friends of the Libarry as hostesses. Hours for the open house are from 2:30 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Special attention is being called to certain of the new library's added and expanded facilities: a multi-purpose room for meetings and for showings of educational films (the current series being on "The Humanities"); a large magazine section with a lounge for magazine reading; and a film-lending service which loans films to schools, groups or individuals in Pennington county on a cost-free basis, and with a charge of $1 per film made to out-of-country residents.

A record library will soon be added. Records may then be selected at the library and listening facilities will be made available in the building. Lists of available films and records may be secured at the library and films may be booked either by phone or in person. A children's room, completely dedicated to the use of young patrons, is another added feature which has drawn widespread comment.

Miss Hastad stated further that the city council had allotted $4,000 for the purchase of new books and that many of these have already

Sen. Donald Sinclair

Judge Herman Kjos

Candidate Series To End This Week

Final sessions in the Chamber of Commerce "Meet the Candidates" series will be held today through Friday at 3 p.m. daily in the Elks club rooms. All persons in the area are invited to attend and tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Speaking today at 3 p.m. is Rep. Andrew Skaar of District 67-B. Thursday afternoon speaker will be Judge Herman Kjos, Thief River Falls, candidate for the state senate. On Friday the special guest will be Sen. Donald Sinclair of Stephen candidate for reelection to the senate from the 67th District.

Langen Speaks

Last noon luncheon meeting of the series was held Tuesday when Congressman Odin Langen of Minnesota's 23-county Seventh District, was the speaker. His remarks centered around the "credibility gap" in government and its relationship to many government programs.

"The old saying of peace, progress and prosperity has been replaced by a situation of invasion, inflation and indebtedness," he said. "And rather than truth in packaging, truth in lending and truth in labeling bills we need truth in politics, truth in government and truth in elections legislation."

Indicating the inability of the American people to get the truth from the administration, Rep. Langen read quotes from statements by Secretary of Defense McNamara. In January of 1962 the secretary said the U. S. effort there was proving effective; in November of 1963 he said troops could soon be withdrawn; in January of 1964 he said troops could be withdrawn in the next year; in May of 1964 he said additional troops would be needed; in November of 1965 he said we were no longer losing; and in October of this year he said that progress had exceeded our expectations.

No appropriation has been made for the Viet Nam war, Congressman Langen said, but its cost is estimated at nearly $2 billion per month. Appropriations will have to be made when Congress begins its next session in January.

Inflation has pushed interest rates to the highest level in 40 years and in some cases the highest in the nation's history, he said. Raising interest rates from three per cent to four per cent does not result in a one per cent increase, he noted. It results in a 33 per cent increase in the cost of borrowing money.

Commenting on his opponent's charges of "negativism" and "ineffectiveness", Congressman Langen reviewed several specific measures mentioned by his opponent. He noted that a motion for recommittal with instructions is an important tool for an effective minority, and that such a motion is designed to improve legislation rather than kill it. His collection of more than 20 Presidential pens presented to legislators instrumental in passage of various types of

More Than 3,150 Given TB Tests In City Schools

More than 3,150 students and school employees in Thief River Falls were given Mantoux test for tuberculosis during the month of September. Because school personnel are required by law to prove the absence of tuberculosis, they were checked just before school opened September 1. The student body in all Thief River Falls schools were tested on September 26 and 27.

Even though testing is voluntary among the students the response was remarkable, according to Mrs. Mararet Race, school nurse. The following schools had 100 per cent participation: Franklin junior high, St. Bernard's, Seventh Day Adventist and Washington elementary. From the entire school system, there were only eight refusals.

A testing team of four nurses from the Tuberculosis and Health association was in this northern Minnesota area most of the month of Septmeber. Goodridge and St. Hilaire schools were also Mantoux tested.

Three new tuberculin reactors were found; one in grade school, one in junior high and one in the vocational-technical school. These new reactors, along with 15 old reactors, will be X-rayed during the visit of the mobile X-ray unit in November. All adult personnel of the schools have had their chest x-rays and no evidence of disease was found.

Building Permits Below 1966 Level For T.R. Falls

In Thief River Falls, eight permits having a valuation of $99,450 were issued during September for new buildings and repairs and alterations. According to the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis, this was a decrease from $182,390 for five permits issued in September of 1965. The cumulative total for the first nine months of 1966 shows that 67 permits valued at $410,940 were issued compared with 51 permits valued at $599,340 last year.

Also due to the time change, airmail must be mailed by 2:30 p.m. to make connections with the North Central Airlines flight to the Twin Cities. This is one hour earlier than the previous schedule.

Free Chest X-ray Service Offered

Free chest X-rays will be given in Thief River Falls Thursday, November 10, at Lincoln high school from 2 to 3:30 p.m. and at the courthouse from 3:45 to 5:30 p.m. The following day, the mobile X-ray unit will be at the Goodridge school from 8:45 to 10:30 a.m. and at the St. Hilaire school from 12:30 to 2 p.m.

The chest X ray film will show if the tuberculosis germs in the body of a person who reacts to the test are causing any damage to the lungs. It can also reveal other chest abnormalities such as an enlarged heart, tumors, pneumonia, emphysema and histoplasmosis.

Persons tested will be notified of the results of their X-ray, according to Judge Herman Kjos of Thief River Falls, president of the Pennington county Tuberculosis and Health council. Christmas Seal funds will pay for this special health service to people in this and other communities.
